ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY

This magnificent catalogue is the fruit of the close and valuable co-operation between Lambeth Palace Library and the Hellenic Institute of Royal Holloway, University of London. It has as its basis the brief inventory of the Lambeth Greek manuscripts, prepared under the direction of the late Miss Julian Chrysostomides and Dr Charalambos Dendrinios for the 21st International Congress of Byzantine Studies in August 2006, but goes far beyond it in scholarly detail. I believe it not only provides a rich resource for biblical, patristic, and liturgical scholars, but also builds on the longstanding links between Orthodoxy and the Church of England which are so precious to us. I pray this may serve us well in the continued common journey of faith and friendship, to which we are called together by Christ.

I offer my very warm thanks to Mr Anastasios P. Leventis, Mrs Edmée Leventis and the A. G. Leventis Foundation for their most generous financial support for the project, to the research team — Dr Christopher Wright, Miss Maria Argyrou, and Dr Charalambos Dendrinios — for their dedicated labours, and to the members of the Project Board and all who helped ensure the success of the project for their moral, scholarly and technical support.

The Most Reverend and Right Honourable Justin Welby,
Archbishop of Canterbury,

The Commemoration of All Saints, November 2014.

The A. G. Leventis Foundation is delighted to support the research and publication of the present electronic catalogue of the Greek Manuscript Collection at Lambeth Palace Library, the fruit of collaboration between the Library and the Hellenic Institute of Royal Holloway, University of London. This is a descriptive catalogue of the entire collection, mainly comprising Gospel Books, Lectionaries, commentaries on the Old and New Testaments, theological treatises and historical and literary texts which include classical, Byzantine and post-Byzantine authors. It is hoped that the online publication of the detailed catalogue will enable scholars and the general public to explore this collection, and will shed new light on the content, provenance and restoration of these important manuscripts as well as contribute to the study of the history of the long relations between the Anglican and Orthodox Churches.

The research was conducted by Dr Christopher Wright and Ms Maria Argyrou under the supervision of Dr Charalambos Dendrinis and with the guidance of eminent scholars and technical advisors, in close collaboration also with Mr Giles Mandelbrote and Mrs Clare Brown and their staff in Lambeth Palace Library. To all those who contributed to this project in every way we would like to express our thanks.

The catalogue is dedicated to the memory of the late Professor John Barron and the late Julian Chrysostomides, who maintained close links with the A. G. Leventis Foundation over the decades, laid the foundations for the realisation of the first inventory of the Greek Manuscript Collection at Lambeth Palace Library published in 2006, and provided constant guidance and support for the present cataloguing project until their passing away in 2008.

For over thirty years, the A. G. Leventis Foundation has viewed the conservation and promotion of Greek religious and cultural heritage as one of its central concerns. It is appropriate that our Foundation has been able to assist in bringing this important project to completion.

Cataloguing the Greek Manuscripts of Lambeth Palace Library

The present Catalogue is the fruit of a long-standing and on-going collaboration between Lambeth Palace Library (LPL) and the Hellenic Institute of Royal Holloway, University of London (RHUL). Since 2003, postgraduate students have been visiting LPL at the invitation of the former and present Librarians and Archivists, Dr Richard Palmer (1991–2010) and Giles Mandelbrote (2010–present), to examine and study Greek MSS as part of their training in Greek palæography and codicology.

On 23–24 August 2006, an exhibition of the LPL Greek Manuscript Collection was organised jointly by LPL and the Hellenic Institute of Royal Holloway as part of the 21st International Congress of Byzantine Studies in London. It included the following sections: Doctrine; Liturgy and Spirituality; Byzantium, its Provinces and Neighbours; Before and after Byzantium; and From Manuscript to Print. The final section, on Anglicanism and Orthodoxy, included printed books, documents and photographs illustrating the dialogue, past and present, between the two Churches. More importantly, the exhibition catalogue comprised the first ever complete inventory of the LPL Greek manuscripts, compiled by a team of graduate students including Maria Argyrou, Dr Laura Franco, Dr Maria Kalli, Dr Fevronia Nousia, Dr Konstantinos Palaiologos and Dr Christopher Wright, guided by the late Julian Chrysostomides (1928–2008) and the undersigned.

This inventory was the first stage towards the compilation of a complete descriptive catalogue. In the Preface, the then Archbishop of Canterbury Dr Rowan Williams expressed his intention ‘to make these important manuscripts at last fully available to the scholarly world’ and his wish that this inventory would be followed ‘by their eagerly anticipated full catalogue’. The present catalogue is in fulfilment of this intention and wish on the part of the Anglican Church, and provides a research tool for students and scholars who would like to further explore this important collection.

The catalogue comprises a brief history of LPL by Dr Richard Palmer; a history of the relations between the Anglican and Orthodox Churches by the late John Barron and Clare Brown; sections on the Provenance and History of the LPL Greek sub-collections and a general discussion of notable features of MSS of the Greek collection by Dr Christopher Wright; and the description of the MSS, preceded by a note on the conventions adopted in the entries of the catalogue and followed by a glossary and indexes of authors, binders, minor hands, MSS cited, other persons, owners, places and scribes, as well as a composite index, compiled by Dr Wright, Maria Argyrou and Philip Taylor.

The catalogue is technically innovative in several respects: for example, the typeset output was generated directly from the XML source material, the various indexes, table of contents and embedded hyperlinks were all generated automatically, the text was automatically re-flowed to accommodate the images, and the translucent watermarks that are superimposed on the high-resolution images linked from the image captions are added dynamically as each image is served; all of this is accomplished using bespoke code written specifically for the project by Mr Taylor, who was also responsible for the design and typesetting of the catalogue.

The research was conducted over a period of two academic years (2012–2014) by Dr Wright and Ms Argyrou under the guidance of a team of scholars and experts, members of the Project Board, who monitored its progress and offered their expert advice: Clare Brown, LPL Archivist; Dr Annaclara Cataldi Palau, Visiting Professor of Greek Palæography at RHUL Hellenic Institute; Dr Rachel Cosgrave, LPL Senior Archivist; Dr Pat Easterling, Emeritus Regius Professor of Greek, Cambridge University; Giles Mandelbrote, LPL Librarian and Archivist and Chairman of the Project Board; Revd Dr Joseph A. Munitiz, S.J., former Master of Campion Hall, Oxford University; Professor Nicholas Pickwood, Director of the Ligatus Research Centre, University of the Arts London and member of the Archbishop's Advisory Panel for Libraries and Archives; and Philip Taylor, Honorary Research Associate, RHUL Hellenic Institute, former RHUL webmaster, who has been the leading force behind the electronic compilation and publication of this catalogue in an enhanced PDF format to facilitate the reader in consulting its content in an optimal way. To all members of the Project Board, we would like to offer our grateful thanks for their advice, encouragement, contribution and collaboration.

Among members of LPL we would like to express our warm thanks to Krzysztof Adamiec, Reprographics Officer, for providing the images for the catalogue; Dr Rachel Cosgrave, for her contribution to archival aspects of the project; Dr Richard Palmer, for the use of his article on the history of the Library; John McCudden, Systems Administrator, for technical help and advice; and other members of LPL staff for their kind assistance throughout the project. During his time as the Archbishop's Chaplain and Ecumenical Officer, the Rt Revd Jonathan Goodall, Bishop of Ebbsfleet, gave advice, support and encouragement to the project, which is greatly appreciated.

Among members of RHUL we are pleased to acknowledge the support we have received from the Principal of the College, Professor Paul Layzell, the Dean of Arts and Social Sciences and Vice-Principal (Human Resources) Professor Katie Normington; the Dean of Science and Vice-Principal (Research and Enterprise) Professor Paul Hogg; successive Heads of the History Department: Professor Justin Champion, Professor Sarah Ansari and Professor Jonathan Phillips; Janice Cullen, Business Development Manager, Research & Enterprise; and the Finance Officers, Anar Dale, Stephanie Surrey and James Willshire.

Colleagues from other Colleges of the University of London and other Universities offered their expertise on linguistic, palæographical and codicological aspects of MSS. Dr Israel Sandman, Department of Hebrew and Jewish Studies, University College London, transcribed, translated and gave commentary on the Hebrew annotations in MS 1214, in consultation with Professor Judith Schlanger, École Pratique des Hautes Études, Sorbonne, and Dr Giacomo Corazzol, Department of Cultural Heritage, University of Bologna. Dr Krisztina Szilágyi, Trinity College, Cambridge transcribed, translated and gave commentary on the Arabic annotations in LPL MSS 1193, 1194, 1195 and 1196, and Professor Charles Burnett, The Warburg Institute, Professor Klaus Lagally, University of Stuttgart, and Dr Esther Miriam-Wagner, The Woolf Institute, gave further assistance in their interpretation and representation. Danijel Dojcinovic, University of Banja Luka, interpreted the Slavonic annotations in MS 1190. Professor Antony Eastmond, The Courtauld Institute of Art, in consultation with Professor Zaza Skhirtladze, University of Tbilisi, deciphered the Georgian note in MS 1196. Professor Sysse Gudrun Engberg, University of Copenhagen, allowed the use of her unpublished work on the palimpsest leaves of MS Sion L40.2/G1. Professor Costas N. Constantinides, University of Ioannina, shared information on MS 1214. Professor John Lowden, The Courtauld Institute of Art, communicated information on the possible link between MS 1214 and the Munich, Bayerische Staatsbibliothek MS gr. 9. Dr Didier Lafleur and Dr Luc

Brogly, of the i-Stamboul Project conducted at the Institut de Recherche et d'Histoire des Textes of the Centre national de la recherche scientifique (CNRS), Paris, shared information on MSS 1176, 1178 and 1179, which originally formed part of the Library of the Patriarch of Constantinople Metrophanes III (1565–72, 1579–80) in the Monastery of the Holy Trinity on the island of Chalke. Peter Pickering kindly shared information on MS 1203. Dr Athanasios Velios, Ligatus Research Centre, University of the Arts London, discussed with us aspects of electronic data transfer. We would like to warmly thank Professor Costas Constantinides and Dr Ilias Nesseris, University of Ioannina, Professor Ilias Giarenis, Ionian University, Mr James Holt and the Revd Dr Rowena Pailing, who kindly proofread the catalogue and made valuable suggestions and corrections in the final version. We would also like to offer our very sincere thanks to Sebastian Rahtz, Oxford University Computing Services, for his invaluable help and support during the planning phase of the project, and in particular for his help with the XML aspects involved. To all our colleagues mentioned above, we are indeed most grateful for their time and generous advice.

We would like to express our deep gratitude to His Beatitude Theophilos III Patriarch of Jerusalem and All Palestine; His Eminence the Archbishop of Constantina Aristarchos, Chief Secretary of the Patriarchate; the Librarian of the Patriarchal Library, Father Aristoboulos; and Professor Agamemnon Tselikas, Director, Centre for History and Palaeography, National Bank of Greece Cultural Foundation, for their kindness, invaluable help and guidance in our research concerning the MSS returned to the Patriarchal Library by LPL in 1817.

This Project would not have been made possible without the generosity of the A. G. Leventis Foundation. We would like to express particular thanks to Mr Anastasios P. Leventis, Chairman of the A. G. Leventis Foundation and Mrs Edmée Leventis for their continued and unfailing support, and to Dr Georgina Dimopoulou for her help, assistance and kind cooperation.

To the Most Reverend Justin Welby, Archbishop of Canterbury, and to his predecessor the Most Reverend Dr Rowan Williams, now Baron Williams of Oystermouth, we offer our most sincere gratitude for allowing us to pursue our research in the Greek collections of their Library. Their blessing of this Project has been a constant source of inspiration for all of us who firmly believe in the Ecumenical Dialogue among the Christian Churches. In a period of division and conflict, there is an ever increasing need for unity and reconciliation in Christendom. We hope the present catalogue is a modest contribution in this direction, as it highlights the long history of the close relationship between the Anglican and Orthodox communions.

This last was also the belief of our eminent scholars and teachers, the late John Barron, former Director of the Institute of Classical Studies, University of London, former Master of St Peter's College, Oxford, and former Vice-Chairman of the Trustees of LPL, and the late Julian Chrysostomides, former Director of the Hellenic Institute of Royal Holloway, University of London, who worked indefatigably towards the completion and publication of the first inventory, guiding and supporting our research thereafter, until their passing away in 2008. Without their encouragement and friendship this catalogue could never have been created. It is to their loving memory that we most sincerely dedicate it.

Charalambos Dendrinos, November 2014.

Lambeth Palace Library: a brief history

Lambeth Palace Library, the historic library of the Archbishops of Canterbury, is over four hundred years old. It was founded in 1610 by the will of Archbishop Richard Bancroft, “a greate gatherer together of bookes”, who amassed a major collection of almost 5,600 printed books and more than 470 manuscripts during the reigns of Elizabeth and James I. Much of the collection was broadly theological in content, in part reflecting the controversies, with Catholics on the one hand and Puritans on the other, in which Bancroft was a leading protagonist. Yet as much as a quarter of the collection was concerned with the humanities and in particular with history. Many of the books, dating from the tenth century onwards, had formed part of the monastic libraries dissolved during the reign of Henry VIII; like his predecessors Matthew Parker and John Whitgift, Bancroft helped to ensure the survival of this monastic heritage for future generations. Other books had come from the royal library, from the libraries of noblemen such as Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester and John, 6th Baron Lumley, or from the collections of scholars such as John Foxe, the martyrologist, and Thomas Wakefield, the hebraicist. All were bequeathed by Bancroft to his successors, the Archbishops of Canterbury, to form a permanent Library at Lambeth Palace.

The nascent Library was encouraged by the King, James I, who considered that it would prove “a monument of fame” in his kingdom, and it won the support of Bancroft's successor as Archbishop of Canterbury, George Abbot. To a catalogue of the Bancroft bequest, compiled in 1612, Abbot added a significant preface. In it he dedicated the Library “to the service of God and his Church, of the Kings and Commonwealth of the Realme, and particularly of the Archbishops of Canterbury”. It meant that from the outset this was to be a public library, one of the first in England, “the Publick Library belonging to the See of Canterbury” as it was soon to be described.

George Abbot, who may be considered a co-founder with Bancroft of Lambeth Palace Library, was himself a considerable collector, whose taste extended well beyond theology and ecclesiastical controversy to history, contemporary literature, and even to subjects as unexpected as numismatics and the art of warfare. On his death in 1633 his books were bequeathed to join those of Bancroft in the archiepiscopal library, swelling the total in the collection to almost 9,000. The Library was now one of the largest in the country at a time when England could boast few libraries and even fewer with any claim to public status.

The fall of Archbishop Laud in 1640 was a prelude to the troubled years of the Civil War and the Commonwealth, which brought the abolition of episcopacy and even the sale of Lambeth Palace. The fate of the Library hung in the balance. Parliament first approved its transfer to Sion College, but finally agreed in 1647 that it should be sent to Cambridge to become part of Cambridge University Library. This providential decision, prompted by John Selden, ensured the survival of the Library until the Restoration of the monarchy and of the Church of England. In 1664 the books were consigned once more to the Archbishop of Canterbury, and returned to Lambeth.

The Archbishop who welcomed the books back to Lambeth was Gilbert Sheldon, who not only fitted out the Library in the galleries over the Palace cloisters, but greatly enriched its contents, adding the ecclesiastical records of the Commonwealth period and the Carew papers for the history of Ireland. In his will in 1677 he continued the tradition established by Bancroft and Abbot, bequeathing to his successors all those books from his personal collection which he had designated in a special catalogue. In this way the Library continued to grow and develop. When Tsar Peter the Great visited it in 1698 he declared that nothing in England astonished him as much; he had never thought there were so many books in all the world.

The Library's first century set the pattern for its subsequent history. Its benefactors were, above all, the Archbishops of Canterbury. The munificence of Bancroft, Abbot and Sheldon was followed in the eighteenth century by that of Archbishops Tenison and Secker and in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries by that of Archbishops Manners-Sutton and Davidson, to give only a few examples. As a result the books on the Library's shelves, often bearing the arms of an Archbishop on their covers, are rich in associations. Many are presentation copies, sometimes revealing unexpected connections between Archbishops, authors and donors; others were acquired for particular purposes and reflect an Archbishop's involvement in matters of church or state, or his intellectual interests and patronage. The presence in Archbishop Abbot's collection of a Greek manuscript previously owned by the Patriarch of Alexandria, Meletios I Pegas (1590-1601), is a case in point, reflecting the links with Orthodoxy which the Archbishop had developed. To this day the Library has retained the closest association with the archbishopric, not as the private collection of the Archbishops but as the public library which they have freely provided for the benefit of all, the Church and the public at large.

In the long history of the Library no event proved more decisive than the fire bombs which fell on the Great Hall in 1941. Some ten thousand printed books were damaged or destroyed by fire and water, although mercifully the manuscripts and archives survived unscathed. The bombing proved to be what a later Librarian described as "a message from on high". After the end of the War it led to a re-evaluation of the role of the Library and of the resources which were needed to fulfil it. Under the watchful eye of Archbishop Fisher the Library buildings were restored and a new team of professional staff was engaged to take the Library forward into a new era. Archives had been accumulated at Lambeth Palace since the Middle Ages. Now the Library's role was expanded to serve as the record office of the Province of Canterbury, holding the archives of the Vicar-General of Canterbury, the Court of Arches, and Convocation, and likewise the records of the Faculty Office.

These developments in the 1950s have been followed by half a century of sustained activity. The collections have grown (the number of manuscripts, to give only one example, has quadrupled), and this growth has been matched by progress in cataloguing and in conservation, and by the number of readers who make regular use of its facilities. With gathering pace, electronic catalogues now open up the collections for worldwide public use via the Library's website, and the Library has gained an international reputation as a research centre focusing on the history of the Church of England and the Archbishopric of Canterbury in particular. In 2005 the collections of Lambeth Palace Library were officially designated by the Museums, Libraries and Archives Council as outstanding in national and international importance.

Amongst recent developments one of the most significant has been the transfer to Lambeth of the historic collections of Sion College Library, comprising 35,000 volumes of printed books from the fifteenth century to 1850, and over 200 manuscripts. Sion College Library was founded in the late 1620s for the benefit of the clergy in the City of London. From the outset this was a working Library and contained standard works essential for the clergy — patristics, Church history, the acts of Church Councils, Bibles and commentaries. The collection reflected in particular the College's interest in biblical studies, and was particularly rich in texts in Hebrew and Greek. All were recorded in the great Book of Benefactors, which records the donations through the centuries by which the Library was formed. It is notable that the first printed book recorded as acquired by the College, in 1629, was the works of St John Chrysostom, in Greek as well as Latin. The earliest manuscripts acquired, also in 1629, were a group of Greek manuscripts collected and presented by Sir Paul Pindar, merchant and Ambassador at Constantinople, who also made gifts to the Bodleian Library. Sion College Library, like its sister library at Lambeth, was open for public use from an early date, and came to be regarded in the City of London as “the public library of this great metropolis”, with wide-ranging collections reflecting the broad interests, religious and secular, of the clergy of the day. In 1710 it became a copyright library, with the right to claim a copy of each new book registered at Stationers' Hall. On the closure of Sion College Library in 1996 its early collections were transferred to Lambeth, and they were formally given to the Church Commissioners for the use of Lambeth Palace Library in 2006.

The marriage of the Lambeth and the Sion collections, once envisioned by Parliament in 1644, has thus become a reality. It has created a combined resource for the public benefit which has been described as the finest library ever possessed by the Church of England, including significant resources for Hellenic studies and for ecumenism.

Constantinople and Canterbury: contact and collaboration

Humanist thought and the rediscovery of Classical scholarship percolated into England in the mid-fifteenth century. Under its influence scholars such as Thomas Linacre (c.1460–1524) and John Colet (c.1467–1519) travelled to Italy to imbibe the methods of the “New Learning” and to study Greek literature, while King Henry VIII's patronage of Greek studies led to his foundation of Regius chairs at Cambridge in 1540, and in Oxford six years later. Linacre and Colet's contemporary Erasmus of Rotterdam (1466–1536) was for a time Lady Margaret Professor of Divinity at Cambridge. Erasmus's critical appraisal of contemporary forms of church life and worship and his Greek-Latin edition of the New Testament published in 1516 were an essential precursor to the violent upheaval of the Reformation. Increasing anti-papalism was combined with the search for a new ordering of church life and doctrine, based on the norms of the first few centuries. Patristic texts were an essential tool in the debate; for the search for authentic tradition was impossible without evidence. The spoils of monastic libraries in England and Wales found their way into the hands of reformist clergy such as Archbishop Parker, who liberally endowed Corpus Christi, his Cambridge college, just as similar manuscript traffic had enriched the scholarly libraries of southern Europe after the fall of Constantinople in 1453.

In the first century of the Great Church's captivity, there was relatively little direct contact. Travel was difficult and travellers rare; and the Church in England was preoccupied with the conflicts of its own Reformation. This is not to say that there was no interest in things Greek. For, as has been noted elsewhere, the ancient language and literature were widely studied by English scholars including Queen Elizabeth I. Archbishop Cranmer had even drawn upon Orthodox liturgical material in his first Book of Common Prayer (1549); possibly for an epiclesis in the Eucharistic prayer, certainly for the prayer concluding the Litany, in the 1662 Book used at Morning and Evening Prayer and called the Prayer of St. Chrysostom. None of this, however, depended on contact with contemporary Greeks. It was not until half-way through the reign of Elizabeth I that official channels of communication with the Sublime Porte were opened, with the appointment in 1583 of William Harborne as the first fully accredited ambassador. This followed Harborne's earlier initiative in obtaining from the Sultan an agreement for the special protection of English merchants, which quickly gave rise to the Queen's chartering of the Levant Company. The founding of the Company was to have a momentous influence on the growth of relations between Orthodox and Anglicans in the following century, since the chaplains it recruited for service in its trading-posts at Constantinople (where the post was that of chaplain to the ambassador), Smyrna and Aleppo were for the most part theologians of intellectual curiosity and academic distinction.

The opening up of the eastern Mediterranean to travel and trade, in the context of the general expansion of entrepreneurial activity overseas in the latter part of Queen Elizabeth's reign, at last brought first-hand knowledge of the beliefs and practices of the Eastern Church to England. It was an opportune moment, for the defeat of the Spanish Armada in 1588 brought not only a profound sense of gratitude for divine intervention but a more worldly awareness of the lengths to which the Catholic powers would go to suppress the Reformation. Clearly, the Church of England needed theological allies as the Queen of England needed military assistance. Among the other Churches, Orthodoxy in particular seemed to offer the beleaguered Church a most desirable partner, a Church which spoke still the authentic language of the Fathers, apostolic and episcopal, above all non-papist. Usefully, it too was beleaguered and needed friends. The Church of England, of course, sat on the western side of the Great Schism over the nature of the Holy Trinity, believing that the Holy Spirit proceeded from both the Father and the Son, not simply from the Father. But it joined the Orthodox in its rejection of purgatory and prayers for the dead, and in more practical matters such as the administration of communion in both kinds, and using ordinary (that is, leavened) bread; and it could live with the Eastern Church's lack of precision or even equivocation over the issue of transubstantiation. Hence the great interest in Orthodoxy which arose among Anglicans, lay as well as clerical, in the early years of the seventeenth century, and which was sustained and enhanced in the generations which followed.

The first practical move, however, seems to have come from the Orthodox side, with an approach to Archbishop George Abbot in about 1615 by Patriarch Cyril Loukaris, who had himself studied in Venice and Padua, and had been turned towards Calvinism as a reaction to the threat to Orthodoxy posed there by the vigorous endeavours of the Jesuits, only to find the same endeavours pursued with the same relentless vigour in Constantinople itself. Faced by such well-drilled opponents, Loukaris asked Abbot, who shared his Calvinist leaning, to provide access for promising young Greek clergy to educational opportunities of a quality that they could no longer find in their homeland: in Oxford, they would not only be trained in theology but be taught to think and to argue — to fight the Jesuits on their own ground. In 1617 Abbot wrote to Loukaris, suggesting that he send four young theology students to England. The Patriarch sent one Metrophanes Kritopoulos, already a monk of Athos, probably in 1621. He duly went to Abbot's old college, Balliol, where he joined another Greek, Christophoros Angelos, who had been comfortable there for a decade. Though Kritopoulos did well at Balliol and was a popular figure in the Bodleian Library, by 1623 his relationship with Abbot had soured to the extent that the latter was moved to write a letter of complaint about his protégé to James I's ambassador in Constantinople, Sir Thomas Roe. However, his English experience evidently did his career no harm, for Kritopoulos later went on to become Bishop of Memphis and then Patriarch of Alexandria.

A few years later, Archbishop Laud was to have a happier experience. In the late 1630s Cyril Loukaris sent him one Nathaniel Konopios, who entered Balliol in 1639 with the support of both the Archbishop and King Charles I and graduated early in 1643, by which time the English Civil War was in progress. After a brief interval in Leiden, Konopios returned to Oxford to a minor canonry of Christ Church, obtained for him by Laud — from which, however, as a Royalist he was expelled by the Parliamentary commissioners in 1648. Gathering up a useful treasury of books, he returned home, and in due course became Archbishop of Smyrna. In both his case and that of Kritopoulos, as between Loukaris and Abbot, there is no hint of mutual unacceptability of the two Churches' orders.

Relations such as these had the effect of encouraging a number of Anglican divines to think in terms of rapprochement, perhaps even union, with the Eastern Church. It was an interest further nourished and reinforced by contact with the Orthodox in their own territory enjoyed by a succession of English travellers, embassy chaplains, diplomats and merchants of the Levant Company. One of the most significant of these was Isaac Basire de Preaumont, a Huguenot who settled in England before the Civil War and who was briefly Archdeacon of Northumberland. Basire spent a year as chaplain in Constantinople and travelled in the Near East during the years 1650–54, where his enthusiasm for the Anglican Church — according to Evelyn he regarded it as “for purity of doctrine, substance, decency and beauty, the most perfect under heaven” — made him a virtual missionary “planting the Church of England in divers parts of the Levant and Asia”, while at the same time he made himself familiar with the beliefs and practices of the Orthodox. Better known are Thomas Smith and his successor in the role of embassy chaplain, John Covel, as well as Sir Paul Rycaut, consul in Smyrna, who each wrote an account of the beliefs and practices of the Greek Church (and Smith in addition collected material for a detailed treatment of Cyril Loukaris, whose downfall and judicial murder he fastened upon the Jesuits). Their books were eagerly devoured in the lay world. But the growth of interest and sympathy began much earlier. It was given powerful impulse by such as Sir Thomas Roe; and it is not irrelevant that Archbishop Abbot's own brother Maurice was a merchant of the Levant Company. Such people were invaluable caterers to the insatiable appetite for patristic manuscripts from the great libraries of Mount Athos, Patmos and elsewhere.

A more “official” perspective was provided by the theological interest of successive Anglican prelates: Archbishop Abbot was not alone in this. Indeed, the instinctive sympathy of Anglican for Orthodox is already palpable, though not yet explicit, in the writings of his contemporary Lancelot Andrewes, successively Bishop of Chichester, Ely, and finally Winchester, under James I. It can be followed implicitly or explicitly in the writings of several learned bishops of the seventeenth century. Moreover, as we have seen in the case of Isaac Basire, the enforced diaspora of the Civil War brought contacts which would not otherwise have been made. In April 1657, for instance, John Cosin, ejected from the Mastership of Peterhouse, Cambridge, and the Deanery of Peterborough, and now in exile as chaplain to the Protestant element of Queen Henrietta Maria's court in Paris, there fell in with Metropolitan Cyril of Trebizond, a follower of Loukaris whose anti-papist stance he shared. Having observed the Metropolitan celebrating the Greek Liturgy of St John Chrysostom before the widowed Queen, Cosin found the opportunity for a series of deep and reassuring discussions with him, covering all those nagging issues which so exercised the Anglican Protestant mind — transubstantiation, the invocation of saints, purgatory and prayers for the dead. Cosin concluded that in all material areas Anglicans and Orthodox were at one. When three years later, at the Restoration, he was appointed to the influential see of Durham, where he at once took Basire as a close colleague, his view of the Greeks achieved even greater significance. By the later years of the century, however, such sympathetic prelates as John Pearson of Chester and Peter Gunning of Chichester were becoming concerned at the swing of the Orthodox pendulum, from Loukaris's Calvinist leanings to a new closeness to Rome: the Synod of Bethlehem in 1672 would have become an insuperable barrier to closer union, even if the Orthodox themselves, on closer inspection, had not found themselves repelled by certain aspects of the Anglican stance. But for the moment, in the 1670s, the cry was for first-hand knowledge. Smith and Rycaut were in demand, their books on the “present state” of the Greek Church eagerly reprinted and devoured.

Better still was a captive archbishop. It was at this point that Smith, travelling to Paris in 1676, made contact with Joseph Georgirenes, formerly Archbishop of Samos and Ikaria, and persuaded him to come to England to lend his weight to two projects, the establishment of a Greek church in London and a Greek College in Oxford. For both of these projects Georgirenes sought the support of Archbishop Sancroft, and we know that in the first case he was successful, gaining in addition the good-will of King Charles II and his brother the Catholic Duke of York, the sternly Protestant Bishop of London, and the episcopacy and aristocracy at large. Funds were raised, and the church was built in Greek Street, Soho. But it carried the seeds of its own destruction. For the Bishop of London insisted on its operation according to Protestant rules, without icons or prayers to saints, let alone transubstantiation, and when the Patriarch heard of it he demanded conformity with the more Catholic-inclined stance of the Orthodox at that time. The result was closure within five years. As to the college in Oxford, Archbishop Sancroft received from Georgirenes a petition for his help in supporting an intake of "about 12 Schollers out of Greece" to be "grounded in the true Doctrines of the Church of England ... and so returne into Greece aforesaid to preach the same". Sancroft's response is unknown. But two decades later the attempt was renewed by Dr Benjamin Woodroffe, Canon (and briefly Dean) of Christ Church. This time it succeeded, and for a few years, from 1699 to 1705, Greek students came to live and work alongside their English counterparts, in a section of what was to become Worcester College. Again it foundered, however, from a combination of student disaffection and patriarchal disapproval. And, for the moment, the two Churches went their separate ways.

But informal links and academic endeavour continued, notably in the field of biblical scholarship. Joseph Dacre Carlyle (1759–1804), Professor of Arabic at Cambridge, was attached for a short time to Lord Elgin's mission at Constantinople and, between 1799 and 1801, he and a colleague, Dr Philip Hunt, undertook a tour of the eastern Mediterranean and Asia Minor collecting manuscripts for a proposed new edition of the New Testament. Robert Curzon's evocative memoir of manuscript collecting, Visits to Monasteries in the Levant (1849) gives a vivid, though slightly later, picture of the conditions which Carlyle and Philip Hunt would have found on their travels. Originally, Carlyle had envisaged involving a team of scholars in the work of collation, which he described as "the true basis of Biblical Criticism", but death put an end to his hopes. In 1806 his haul of manuscripts was bought by Archbishop Manners-Sutton and deposited in the Library of Lambeth Palace. The collations surviving among the Lambeth collections have been ascribed to Dr Charles Burney, whose vast private library was later acquired by the British Museum.

Perhaps the most significant English work on Orthodoxy after those of Covel and Smith in the early eighteenth century was John Mason Neale's History of the Holy Orthodox Church (London 1849–50), though Neale's English translations of Orthodox hymns probably reached a far wider public and continue to be sung to this day. Neale, a priest much influenced by the Oxford Movement and an antiquarian scholar, was one of the founders, in 1864, of the Eastern Churches Association, later known as the Anglican and Eastern Churches Association. This had as its aims "to inform the British public as to the state and position of the Eastern Christians, to make known the doctrine and principles of the Anglican Church to the Christians in the East, and to take advantage of all opportunities for intercommunion with the Orthodox Church and friendly intercourse with the other ancient Churches of the East, and to assist as far as possible the Bishops of the Orthodox Church in their efforts to promote the spiritual welfare and the education of their flocks". Members of the Eastern Churches Association were also instrumental in setting up the Committee on Inter-Communion with the Orthodox Eastern Churches of the Convocation of Canterbury.

The First World War and the Russian Revolution were a turning point for Anglican relations with the Orthodox world. Many Russian emigrants fled to Western Europe and North America taking their faith and traditions with them. New nation states had already emerged in the Balkans in the course of the nineteenth century as the Ottoman Empire declined and many Church leaders looked to the Archbishop of Canterbury, Randall Davidson, as a powerful ally in the uneasy negotiation of Church-State relations. His introduction to Orthodoxy had been as a young man, while chaplain to Archbishop Tait between 1877 and 1883, and his commitment to closer friendship can be traced to that time. His appointment to the deanery of Windsor had brought him within the royal circle, where he became a trusted friend and confidant of Queen Victoria and a person of influence within the corridors of power. Davidson's successful appeal to the Foreign Secretary, Lord Curzon, for the Ecumenical Patriarchate to remain in its ancient home, Constantinople, bears witness to this. He also actively took up the cause of the persecuted Christian populations of Russia, Asia Minor and the Near East. Closer links were fostered by the Lambeth Conference of 1920 and Davidson's efforts were crowned when the Ecumenical Patriarch Meletios IV wrote, in September 1922, with news of his Holy Synod's provisional acceptance of Anglican orders.

Much of the groundwork for this development was due to the efforts of Davidson's adviser, Canon John Douglas, editor of the quarterly review The Christian East and an indefatigable early ecumenist. Douglas's papers at Lambeth Palace Library comprise ninety-nine volumes of correspondence with priests and patriarchs throughout the Balkans, Russia and the Middle East, cuttings from foreign newspapers dealing with the state of the Orthodox Church, and a rich collection of photographs. From 1933 until 1945 he was honorary general secretary of the Church of England Council on Foreign Relations, formalizing a role which he had held de facto for many years.

Provisional recognition of Anglican orders was followed, in 1925, by a joyful celebration at Westminster Abbey of the sixteenth centenary of the Council of Nicaea at which the Ecumenical Patriarch was present, together with other Orthodox guests. Three years later the Fellowship of St Alban and St Sergius was founded, having as its object to "pray and to work for Christian unity, and [provide] opportunities for Orthodox Christians and Christians of Western traditions to meet one another, and so to deepen their understanding of each other's spirituality, theology and worship". The Fellowship, with its journal Sobornost and its regular meetings, both in Britain and abroad, continues to foster that aim.

Three hundred and fifty years after the first contact between Archbishop Abbot and Patriarch Cyril Loukaris, Archbishop Ramsey's friendship with Patriarch Athenagoras proved a turning point in ecumenical relations. Theirs was a relationship of deep affection, and the signing of a Common Communiqué in November 1967 brought great and lasting joy to both of them. Their sponsorship of the Anglican-Orthodox Joint Doctrinal Discussions, which began in 1973 and had among its members Bishop, later Archbishop, Runcie has led to the publication of three Agreed Statements, the most recent of which was published in 2006 by what is now called the International Commission for the Anglican-Orthodox Theological Dialogue. The Patriarch's untimely death after a fall was a cause of great sorrow for Archbishop Ramsey, who immediately cancelled his official engagements in order to be present at his funeral; a gesture which may have had more weight than theological statements.

From the 1970s onwards, a flood of publications in English on aspects of Orthodox doctrine and worship, on icons (including Archbishop Rowan Williams's books Ponder these things: praying with icons of the Virgin and The dwelling of the light: praying with icons of Christ) and on the Jesus Prayer have opened great spiritual riches to an increasing number of Anglicans, leading to friendship and understanding on a different level from that of the official dialogue. There will continue to be much theological discussion on doctrinal issues and on issues of Church order. But much more can be accomplished by a common desire to do the will of the Father and to love one another in His Name.

Provenance and Sub-Collections

The manuscripts fall into two basic categories: those from the main manuscript collection of Lambeth Palace Library, numbered in a single accession sequence, and those from the collection of Sion College, transferred to Lambeth Palace in 1996, which retain the numbers they bore in their former home. The principal group of Greek manuscripts in the main collection, numbering twenty-five, are those brought from the eastern Mediterranean in 1800–1 by Joseph Dacre Carlyle, chiefly for the purposes of a proposed new edition of the Greek New Testament.

However, both institutions had been acquiring Greek manuscripts since the early seventeenth century, through channels closely associated with the relations between the Anglican and Orthodox Churches and with the English diplomatic and commercial establishments in the Ottoman Empire. The earliest acquisition by LPL was MS. 461, containing George Scholarios's first treatise on the Procession of the Holy Spirit, left to the library by Archbishop George Abbot (1611–33). The precise circumstances of its acquisition by Abbot are unknown, but presumably formed part of the important contacts between Abbot and Cyril Loukaris, Patriarch of Alexandria (1601–20) and later of Constantinople (1620–38). Loukaris was attracted to Calvinist theology and sought Anglican help in combating Catholic proselytism among the Orthodox. This initiative coincided with a surge of Anglican interest in the possibility of bolstering Protestant arguments against Rome by forming a common front with the ancient non-papal tradition of the Orthodox Church.¹ The subject of the manuscript, the principal theological bone of contention in the schism between East and West, was of obvious significance in this context. It had formerly been owned by the previous Patriarch of Alexandria, Meletios Pegas (1590–1601), whom Loukaris had served as synkellos.

Around the same time, the first Greek manuscripts to enter the Sion College collection were acquired by Paul Pindar, a merchant of the Levant Company who served as English Consul in Aleppo (1609–11) and then Ambassador to Constantinople (1611–20).² This combination of activities was typical for this period, in which English diplomatic representation in the Ottoman Empire was largely entrusted to the Levant Company. Besides his role in commercial and strictly diplomatic affairs, Pindar was involved as an intermediary in the contacts between Loukaris and Abbot, and in efforts to counter the Jesuit bid to bring the Orthodox Church into the Roman obedience.³ While Consul in Aleppo he had acquired a considerable number of manuscripts in Middle Eastern languages on behalf of Thomas Bodley, then engaged in assembling his library for Oxford University.⁴ His Greek manuscripts were presumably gathered during his time in Constantinople; one was evidently acquired by him or for him in Chios, a commercial centre whose consulate was at that time the third major English diplomatic legation in the region along with Constantinople and Aleppo.⁵ He donated five to Sion College on its foundation, four of which (MSS. Sion L40.2/G4, G5, G6 and G7) remain in the collection.⁶ One of these (G4) was a Gospel lectionary, while the others were largely patristic in content, comprising homilies of John Chrysostom (G5), orations of Gregory of Nazianzus (G7) and a miscellany including the work of John of Damascus on heresies and other texts concerning heresy and conversion, along with works of chronography and laws (G6). His donation also included a manuscript containing the work of John Klimakos, which was still in Sion College in 1658, but which is not recorded among the books saved from the college when it was burned, with the loss of about a third of its library, in the Great Fire of London.⁷

The chaplaincies attached to the English diplomatic missions in the eastern Mediterranean were attractive postings for clergymen of scholarly interests.⁸ One of these, Philip Traherne, served in 1669–74 as chaplain in Smyrna, the port to which the consulate formerly in Chios had been transferred.⁹ On his return to England in 1675 he brought with him MS. 528, a Greek Gospel book which he had acquired from the library of the Metropolitan of Ephesos and which he donated to LPL in 1680. With it he gave MS. 528 B, containing his own collation of its text.

Another Anglican chaplain in the region was responsible for further acquisitions by Sion College in the eighteenth century. Thomas Payne served repeatedly as chaplain in England in 1620, Pindar was “deteyned and entertained” by Abbot on his way from Dover to London (Mundy, pp. 135–136). In 1623 he was entrusted by Abbot with the care of Loukaris's protégé Metrophanes Kritopoulos, later Patriarch of Alexandria (1636–9), who had been sent to study theology at Oxford as part of the cooperative effort against Jesuit proselytism, but with whom Abbot had become exasperated. Constantinople, including the periods 1718–36 and 1744–5.¹⁰ During this time he acted as agent for Archbishop William Wake (1716–37) in the acquisition of some of the Greek manuscripts which make up the extensive collection later bequeathed by Wake to Christ Church College, Oxford.¹¹ Payne also presented two Greek Gospel manuscripts to the Duke of Marlborough in 1738.¹² In addition to these, he acquired on his own account MSS. Sion L40.2/G1, G2, G3, G10 and G11, comprising two Gospel lectionaries (G1, G2), a Gospel Book (G3), a Menaion (G10) and a religious miscellany (G11). These he sent home to his nephew, and on the latter's death they were inherited by his son Edward Payne, a tenant of Sion College who donated them to its library in 1777.¹³

William Wake's acquisition of manuscripts was aided by his contacts with Chrysanthos Notaras, Patriarch of Jerusalem (1707–31), concerning ecclesiastical relations, in which Thomas Payne was also involved. In the early eighteenth century Notaras, who had studied in England, had been in contact with the Non-Jurors, those Anglican clergy who had refused to swear allegiance to William and Mary in 1689 and remained thereafter in schism from the established Church. In 1716 they approached Notaras to discuss the possibility of establishing communion between their own dissident group and the Orthodox Church. Negotiations continued without positive result for some years, attracting the interest of Tsar Peter the Great, until in 1724 Thomas Payne became aware of the correspondence and reported it to Wake. The following year the Archbishop wrote in protest to Notaras and brought about the scheme's termination.¹⁴ Notaras's main representative in negotiations with the Non-Jurors had been Arsenios, Metropolitan of the Thebaid, who resided in Russia during the later years of the intrigue. His go-between in England was a relative of his, the priest Bartholomew Cassano, who became chaplain to the Russian embassy and evidently maintained contacts with the Non-Jurors even after the collapse of the negotiations.¹⁵ In 1732 he presented MS. 2794, a religious florilegium containing patristic excerpts, anti-Jewish dialogues and catechetical texts, to the Rev. Thomas Wagstaffe (Jr), son of one of the Non-Juror bishops and a significant figure in the movement himself. It is not clear who subsequently owned this manuscript prior to its acquisition by LPL in the twentieth century. On a visit to Rome in 1738–9, Wagstaffe collated variant New Testament readings in a number of manuscripts, which he sent to another clergyman, John Berriman, who later donated the manuscript to Sion College (MS. Sion L40.2/E13).

The British embassy in Constantinople formed the springboard for the extensive acquisition of manuscripts by Joseph Dacre Carlyle, Professor of Arabic at Cambridge, whose ambitious scholarly and religious interests included the dissemination of the Bible in Arabic with hopes of winning converts in the Ottoman Empire, and the production of a new critical edition of the New Testament. In furtherance of his goals, he secured a position on the staff of the newly-appointed Ambassador to Constantinople, Lord Elgin, and accompanied him to his post in 1799, remaining in the East until 1801. Besides seeking texts in Middle Eastern languages, he aimed to acquire as many early Greek New Testament manuscripts as possible for his edition project, and was also eager to search for hitherto undiscovered classical texts which he believed might exist in Greek ecclesiastical libraries or in those of the Ottoman Sultanate or of the aristocratic Greek families of Constantinople. In these enterprises he was assisted at various points by another member of Elgin's party, Dr Philip Hunt.

Besides buying numerous books in Middle Eastern languages in the city's bazaars, Carlyle investigated Greek aristocratic and monastic libraries in the city and those of the Ottoman Sultanate, finding little to interest him. He also examined the rich collection of the Orthodox Patriarch of Jerusalem Anthimos (1798–1808), who at that time resided in the Ottoman capital, and took an inventory of its contents. Most fruitful for his objectives were the libraries of the monasteries of the Princes' Islands, a short distance from the city in the Sea of Marmara. Here he was able to acquire as many as eighteen New Testament manuscripts, which he marked with serial numbers beginning with the letter "I" for "Islands".¹⁶ This group may also include manuscripts acquired from the Aegean islands.¹⁷ These acquisitions included six Gospel Books (MSS. 1175, 1176, 1177, 1178, 1179 and the former LPL MS. 1180 (I.1–6)), five Acts and Epistles Books (MSS. 1182, 1183, 1185 and the former LPL MSS. 1181 and 1184 (I.7–11)), three Gospel lectionaries

¹⁷ No specific mention of any acquisitions in the Aegean, or even of visits to libraries there, has been found in Carlyle's own writings, but Hunt would later refer to the collection as including manuscripts "collected by Mr. Hunt and Mr. Carlyle in the Islands of the Archipelago, and of the Sea of Marmara" (H. J. Todd, An Account of Greek manuscripts, chiefly Biblical, which had been in the possession of the late Professor Carlyle, the greater part of which are now deposited in the Archiepiscopal Library at Lambeth Palace (London 1823), p. 37). Carlyle stopped at Rhodes (for almost two weeks), Kos, Samos and Chios during his return by sea from Jerusalem in 1800, and could have made acquisitions there. However, since Hunt did not accompany Carlyle on this journey, nor perhaps on all of his visits to the Princes' Islands, he may not have known precisely where all of the manuscripts of the "I" group had come from, so it remains uncertain whether any in fact came from the Aegean as he suggests. The two men stopped at Tenedos and Lemnos on their journey to Mount Athos, but evidently did not visit any libraries there.

(MSS. 1187, 1188, 1189 (I.14–16)) and two Acts and Epistles Lectionaries (MSS. 1190, 1191 (I. 17–18)). Carlyle also acquired a copy of the Pauline Epistles and one of the Book of Revelation which were found to be portions of the same original manuscript and have since been bound together (MS. 1186 (I.12–13)).

Of these, three Gospel Books are known to have come from the Monastery of the Holy Trinity on the island of Chalke (MSS. 1176, 1178, 1179), one Gospel lectionary from the Monastery of St George on the same island (MS. 1189) and one Acts and Epistles Book from the Church of the Prodromos on the island of Antigone (MS. 1185).¹⁸

In the spring of 1800 Carlyle travelled by land and sea to Jerusalem and spent about ten days in and around the city, visiting monastic and other libraries, including that of the ancient Monastery of St Sabas. There he was permitted to borrow six manuscripts to take with him to the Patriarch in Constantinople and ask his permission to take them to England.¹⁹ Having returned to Constantinople by sea, he secured the agreement of Patriarch Anthimos to the loan of six manuscripts belonging to St Sabas. These were to be sent to England for examination, to be returned on demand, as stipulated in a surviving copy of the receipt that was given by Carlyle and Hunt.²⁰ They included five New Testament manuscripts, marked by Carlyle with serial numbers beginning with the letter “S”, which was later supposed to stand for “Syria” but may well actually denote “St Sabas”. These comprised one Gospel Book (MS. 1192 (S.1)), one Gospel lectionary (MS. 1193 (S.2)), one combined Gospel and Acts and Epistles lectionary (MS. 1194 (S.3)), and two Acts and Epistles lectionaries (MSS. 1195, 1196 (S.4–5)). The loan from St Sabas also included a manuscript containing works of Libanios and other classical texts (the former LPL MS. 1206).²¹

A perplexing contradiction arises between the receipt (and the actual content of the manuscripts of the “S” group) and letters written by Carlyle after his visit to St Sabas. These likewise give the number of manuscripts he had borrowed as six, but identify them as “two Copies of the Gospels; one of the Epistles; two Books of Homilies and Apostolical Letters, which I took for the sake of the quotations; and a Copy of the Sophist Libanios”. The mystery is deepened by the fact that Carlyle explicitly states that the manuscript containing the Acts and Epistles was the only one of that content which he had found in St Sabas at all.²² The only apparent way of resolving this without dismissing either source would be to suppose that two of the Acts and Epistles manuscripts eventually borrowed by Carlyle were temporarily in the Patriarch's keeping in Constantinople and lent by him there, but still officially reckoned as part of the St Sabas collection. It may be doubted, however, that even in such a case Carlyle would not have classed them along with the others he borrowed in Constantinople, rather than with those he had actually brought from St Sabas. In any event it is evident that Carlyle did not ultimately convey any manuscripts of homilies to England.

¹⁸ MS. 1189 is known to have been donated to the Monastery of St George by one Ioannes Aleuras in 1618; MS. 1178 was presumably acquired by Holy Trinity subsequent to a recorded seventeenth-century rebinding on the island of Kos.

²¹ The receipt itemises these manuscripts, besides the Libanios, as two Gospels and three Acts and Epistles, without distinguishing between Books and lectionaries. The combined lectionary MS. 1194 was evidently categorised under the Acts and Epistles.

²² Walpole, pp. 162–163, 183.

Anthimos also lent Carlyle a number of manuscripts from the library of the Metochion of the Holy Sepulchre, his residence in Constantinople, likewise listed in the receipt. These included two books of Psalms and Old Testament lections (the former LPL MSS. 1198 and 1202), which Carlyle apparently marked respectively “Ψ” for “Ψαλτήριον” (“Psalter”) and “LVT”, for “Lectiones ex Veteri Testamento”, and a Latin manuscript of Eutropios.²³ There were also three Gospel manuscripts listed in the receipt which Carlyle marked with serial numbers beginning “C” for “Constantinople”. Some difficulty arises from this: Carlyle also brought back a fourth manuscript marked “C”, containing the Acts and Epistles, and Hunt would later identify all four as having come from the Patriarch of Jerusalem.²⁴ The omission of this manuscript from the receipt suggests that it may have come from some other source, or it may have been borrowed from the Patriarch later than the drafting of the receipt.

In the course of his travels Carlyle also acquired a number of other Greek manuscripts, from unspecified sources, containing brief apocryphal texts (MS. 1197), a vernacular Greek chronicle (MS. 1199), and classical works of Dionysios Periegetes and Aeschylus (MS. 1203), Pseudo-Aristotle and Plutarch (MS. 1204), Lycophron (MS. 1205) and Demosthenes (MS. 1207).

Carlyle returned home in spring 1801, along the way visiting the libraries of Mount Athos together with Hunt, but not making any fresh acquisitions there.²⁵ He set about distributing many of the New Testament manuscripts to scholarly clergymen who would record the variant readings for collation. The booklets containing the fruit of these labours were later acquired by LPL, and are now bound together, along with a copy of the booklet which Carlyle distributed to his assistants outlining the task and the methodology to be used (MS. 1259). The latter text stresses the importance of completing the work in a timely fashion, as some of the manuscripts would have to be returned to the Patriarch of Jerusalem as and when required.

Carlyle died in 1804, bringing work on his planned edition of the New Testament to a halt at an early stage. His goods were inherited by his sister Maria, who sold the bulk of his Oriental manuscripts to the East India Company. Regarding the Greek manuscripts she consulted with Hunt, who refused her offer of a share of the collection as ²³ The contents of MS. 1198 are identified by Todd as “Lectiones ex Psalmis et Prophetiis Veteris Testamenti”, those of 1202 as “Lectiones ex Veteri Testamento” (Todd (1823), pp. 53–54). The receipt characterises them both as Psalters (“Δύο Ψαλτήρια”), but the more detailed descriptions given by Todd, consistent with Carlyle’s reported markings, are probably to be preferred. Carlyle's colleague in acquiring them, and recommended that she approach the Archbishop of Canterbury Charles Manners-Sutton (1805–28) about the possibility of his purchasing them. The sale was negotiated and in 1806 a total of thirty-six manuscripts were deposited in LPL, thirty-four of them Greek together with a Syriac Psalter (MS. 1200) and an Arabic Gospel book (MS. 1201).²⁶ Maria Carlyle retained the Latin Eutropios as a memento. Hunt confirmed that a number of the manuscripts had merely been borrowed from the Patriarch of Jerusalem, but the only ones that he explicitly identified as such were the four marked “C”. These were not included in the purchase but were deposited in the library pending their recall; they were therefore not entered in the catalogues or assigned LPL manuscript numbers.²⁷

In April 1813 the then Patriarch of Jerusalem Polykarpos (1808–27) wrote to Robert Liston, the British Ambassador in Constantinople, asking him to send word to England calling for the return of the borrowed manuscripts; this letter and the accompanying copy of Carlyle and Hunt's receipt were sent on to London.²⁸ The Permanent Under-Secretary at the Foreign Office, William Hamilton, apparently wrote to Hunt the following year, and Hunt to Archbishop Manners-Sutton, but no concrete action followed.²⁹ Having received no positive response, the Patriarch made a further approach to the Ambassador, prompting Hamilton to write in March 1816 to the Archbishop, sending him translations of Polykarpos's letter and the receipt. These erroneously gave the number of Gospel manuscripts from the Metochion in Constantinople as two rather than three.³⁰ Maria Carlyle was also contacted regarding the return of the Eutropios, which she sent to Hamilton in December.³¹ Following a third approach through the embassy, in March 1817 Hamilton directed a further enquiry to the Archbishop.³² He responded that while the four “C” manuscripts were known to have come from the Patriarchate and the Old Testament and Libanios manuscripts were readily identifiable by their content, Hunt and Maria Carlyle had been unable to supply any information in response to his requests to help identify the remaining New Testament manuscripts. He would therefore select by subject one Gospel and two Acts and Epistles manuscripts from the remainder of the collection to complete the set detailed in the translated documents. These were all taken from the Islands sub-collection. The manuscripts provided by Maria Carlyle and the Archbishop were presented to the Patriarch by Robert Liston, then returning to his post in Constantinople.³³

Polykarpos subsequently ordered the eleven returned or substituted manuscripts to be placed in the new library lately established to house his collection in Jerusalem.³⁴ Of these, the identities of six in the Patriarchal Library of Jerusalem (PLJ) have been established. These are the returned Eutropios (PLJ MS. Taphou 27), Libanios (PLJ MS. Taphou 79, formerly LPL MS. 1206), and two of the Gospel Books from Constantinople (PLJ MS. Taphou 59, formerly Carlyle C.1, and PLJ MS. Taphou 49, formerly Carlyle C.4), along with two of the three substituted manuscripts from the islands, a Gospel Book (PLJ MS. Taphou 139, formerly Carlyle I.6 = LPL MS. 1180) and an Acts and Epistles Book (PLJ MS. Taphou 462, formerly Carlyle I.10 = LPL MS. 1184).³⁵ The current identities of the other five remain unknown: the Psalter and Old Testament lection manuscripts (formerly LPL MSS. 1198 and 1202), the other Gospel manuscript from Constantinople and the Acts and Epistles also from Constantinople (formerly Carlyle C.2 and C.3) and the other substituted Acts and Epistles from the islands (formerly Carlyle I.11 = LPL MS. 1181).

Prior to the return of these manuscripts to the Patriarchate of Jerusalem, certain of them had been examined along with other Greek manuscripts in LPL by the scholar Charles Burney, who later donated or bequeathed his notes on them to the library. These include descriptions of a number of the Gospel Books and collations of their variant readings (MSS. 1223, 1224), and descriptions of the Libanios and Demosthenes manuscripts (MS. 1255).

At some point between the purchase of the Carlyle collection and the compilation of the 1812 catalogue, Archbishop Manners-Sutton added another acquisition to the library, its only Old Testament manuscript, an Octateuch, MS. 1214. Its most recent known previous owner was Alexandros Konstantinou, a member of one of the aristocratic Greek or Hellenised families of Constantinople, who had a copy of this manuscript produced in 1743.³⁶

³⁴ This instruction, and the return of the manuscripts from England, is recorded in an autograph note by Polykarpos, displayed on the front cover of PLJ MS. Taphou 27. Athanasios Papadopoulos-Kerameus, Ιεροσολυμιτική Βιβλιοθήκη: ἤτοι κατάλογος τῶν ἐν ταῖς βιβλιοθήκαις τοῦ ἀγιοτάτου ἀποστολικοῦ τε καὶ καθολικοῦ ὀρθοδόξου πατριαρχικοῦ θρόνου τῶν Ἱεροσολύμων καὶ πάσης Παλαιστίνης ἀποκειμένων Ἑλληνικῶν κωδίκων, 5 vols. The collection contains one other Byzantine manuscript besides those already mentioned, the Gospel book MS. 2795. This was acquired by the book-collector John Alfred Spranger from an unknown source some time before July 1945, and was subsequently acquired by LPL.³⁷

There are also a small number of other Greek manuscripts of more recent origin. One is a prayer book of fifteenth or sixteenth-century date (MS. Sion L40.2/G9). Another, containing the zoological work of the sixteenth-century Greek author Damaskenos Stoudites and miscellaneous religious texts, was copied in 1645 (MS. Sion L40.2/G12). It is not clear how either came to be in the Sion College collection.

Three other Sion College acquisitions were seventeenth-century Western productions: a collation of variant readings between two different Old Testament editions (MS. Sion L40.2/G8), a manuscript containing annotated patristic texts copied from printed editions (MS. Sion L40.2/G14), and a Hebrew-Greek lexicon donated to the college on its foundation by the former schoolmaster of Christ's Hospital Thomas Hayne (MS. Sion L40.2/H1). The main collection contains another seventeenth-century Western manuscript, MS. 802, containing two copies of a text by Eunomius, which was acquired by Archbishop Thomas Tennison (1694–1715) along with the rest of the collection of one of its copyists, the scholar Henry Wharton.

Finally, in 1968 LPL received a bequest left on the death of Miss H. E. Ravenscroft in 1936 of a four-volume Bible concordance copied in 1849–52 by her ancestor Henry Ravenscroft (MSS. 2174, 2175, 2176, 2177).

³⁷ This was previously supposed to be the former MS. Phillipps 2387, previously the property of the book collector Thomas Phillipps, which is no. 677 in the Gregory-Aland sequence, and has been annotated to that effect. However, it does not match the recorded details of the Phillipps manuscript, which has since been identified as the present Chicago University MS. 232, previously designated Gregory-Aland 2611 (Aland (1994), p. 87; for details of the Phillipps MS. see Gregory (1900), p. 211). LPL MS. 2795 has been added to the Gregory-Aland sequence as no. 2771. It is currently listed, however, merely as Spranger's former property, with its present location unrecorded (Aland (1994), p. 209). Spranger himself evidently did not know the provenance of MS. 2795, as indicated by the note pasted into it, dated 23 July 1945, from F. G. Kenyon, whom Spranger had asked to identify it but who had been unable to do so. This says that it had "presumably been in private hands". Given the timing, this uncertainty suggests the possibility that it had come into Spranger's hands through the confusion of the Second World War.

Document 2: Translation

Most Excellent Ambassador of Britain.

By the present report I inform Your Excellency that in 1801 the Englishmen the Reverend Joseph Carlyle and the Reverend Philip Hunt, being in Jerusalem by reason of a journey, took from the Monastery of St Sabas near Jerusalem two Gospels, three Acts and Epistles and one book of Libanios; they also, having returned from Jerusalem, took from our library of the Metochion of the Holy Sepulchre in Constantinople three Gospels, two Psalters and one history of Eutropios, leaving a receipt for all these <manuscript books> in acknowledgement. We therefore ask Your Eminence to write to the Reverend gentlemen to send the aforesaid books so that they may be replaced and deposited in their proper places, for the sake of their antiquity. In proof of what I have written I also send the signed receipt so that it can be certified in Chancery. I ask this, and remain your obedient servant.

In Constantinople, 24 April 1813.

Polykarpos, Patriarch of Jerusalem.

Notable features of manuscripts in the collection

With the exception of two leaves of an uncial manuscript reused in palimpsest in MS. Sion L40.2/G1, the production of all of the LPL Greek manuscripts falls after the supplanting of majuscule script by minuscule. A few more palimpsest leaves, in MS. 1175, were originally written in pure minuscule script, but the remainder of the collection belongs to the ensuing mixed minuscule era. Besides a number of the more recent manuscripts, the date of completion of two Byzantine manuscripts (MSS. 1183, 1214) and two of early modern production (MSS. 1195, Sion L40.2/G12) is provided by colophons, while a few others can be dated fairly closely from indications in their content or annotation. The style of one manuscript, MS. 1186, suggests that it may well date from as early as the tenth century; otherwise, all were seemingly produced after 1000 AD, belonging to the period for which the corpus of surviving Greek manuscripts becomes much more abundant.

The vast majority of the Byzantine manuscripts in the collection, numbering some twenty-five MSS, consist of portions of the New Testament. In their content, these amount to a representative cross-section of the range of New Testament manuscript types produced in the Byzantine world. In total, nine are Gospel Books (MSS. 528, 1175, 1176, 1177, 1178, 1179, 1192, 2795, Sion L40.2/G3), three Acts and Epistles Books (MSS. 1182, 1183, 1185), one Pauline Epistles and Revelation (MS. 1186), seven Gospel lectionaries (MSS. 1187, 1188, 1189, 1193, Sion L40.2/G1, G3, G4), four Acts and Epistles lectionaries (MSS. 1190, 1191, 1195, 1196) and one, more unusually, is a combined Gospels and Acts and Epistles lectionary (MS. 1194). Within the main categories, different sub-varieties of lectionary are also well represented.¹ Most of these manuscripts were copied in the eleventh to thirteenth centuries, the period when production of Byzantine biblical manuscripts was at its height, though the dated MSS. 1183 and 1195 are of later periods (dating to 1381 and 1531 respectively).

The geographical context of production is generally unclear, but two manuscripts in particular, MSS. 1187 and 1193, display a combination of characteristics in terms of material, script and ornament which suggest that they were produced in southern Italy.

As is normal for this type of manuscript, all were copied in formal, scribal hands, displaying varying degrees of stylistic and linguistic accomplishment. MSS. 1177, 1189 and 1193 are notable for their frequent errors in spelling and diacritics, indicating a low level of Greek literacy on the part of the scribe; in the latter case in particular, given the manuscript's apparent south Italian origins, one reason for this could be that the scribe was not a first-language Greek speaker. One of the latest, plainest and least elegant, MS. 1185, is remarkable for the number of different hands that seem to have collaborated in copying portions of its text concurrently, leading to complications when they failed to match the amount of text assigned to them well enough to the space in the quires they were allocated, or overlapped with their colleagues' work. The manuscripts' degree of ornamentation also varies considerably, MSS. 1178 and 1188 being most notable for the extent of their polychrome painted and gilded decoration, while the ornamentation of MSS. 1175 and 1182 is executed in cheaper materials but with vigorous and distinctive style. In addition to the purely New Testament manuscripts, a copy of the Gospel of John is appended to MS. 2794.

Their later use has left extensive traces on these manuscripts, commonly including the addition of marginal notes to guide their liturgical use or brief devotional notes. Other areas of blank space at the beginning and end of manuscripts have often been used for purposes which include detailing the ownership, purchase, donation or re-binding of the manuscript, but also other functions for which it was of use essentially as a place to write, such as briefly recording business transactions or performing calculations. Their reception in still later periods is illuminated by the presence in the collection of the papers relating to their use in the service of nineteenth-century investigation of the history of the biblical text.

Particularly notable for its chronological development and decoration is the Gospel Book MS. 1176. Among the LPL Greek manuscripts it is much the most well-endowed with miniatures, containing a full set of four Evangelist images and additional miniatures of the Nativity and the Harrowing of Hell.² While this decoration belongs to the original production, in its original form it was in textual terms unembellished, containing besides the text of the Gospels themselves only their standard contents lists. Subsequently, however, successive interventions by later hands added additional leaves to the beginning and end of the manuscript in a variety of different paper and parchment types and bearing the work of a number of different hands. These incrementally built up an extensive array of the kind of supporting materials commonly included in Gospel manuscripts, including canon tables, Eusebios of Caesarea's Letter to Karpianos, summary lection listings and a series of short texts and excerpts on subjects including Gospel chronology and Christ's appearances after the Resurrection.

Another remarkable Gospel Book which has undergone great changes to bring it to its present condition is MS. Sion L40.2/G3. In its origins this was evidently a deluxe manuscript of high standard, written on fine parchment in an elegant calligraphic hand and adorned with gold initial letters of exquisite delicacy and precision, as well as the unusual detail of gilded double grave accents, punctuation marks and marks signalling the beginning of chapters. It was also evidently decorated with Evangelist miniatures. However, it appears that it was never properly completed, perhaps owing to a reduction in the financial support available. In the latter part of the manuscript the gold initials continue to appear but are far cruder, indicating that the craftsman responsible for them in the early part was no longer at work, nor anyone with a comparable level of skill. The manuscript is currently unbound, perhaps for reasons reflecting the same apparent faltering of the well-resourced patronage behind the earlier stages of its creation. This exposed condition would have left it especially vulnerable to the damage from damp that has ruined the upper portion of its leaves throughout, leaving them in a state of disintegration. This harm had evidently been done by the sixteenth century. The manuscript has also been mutilated by the removal of the folios carrying its miniatures.

Other high-quality scribal productions belonging to the heyday of formal Byzantine manuscript production include the collection's one Old Testament manuscript, the partial Octateuch MS. 1214, and its two single-author patristic manuscripts, MSS. Sion L40.2/G5 and G7. All of these date to the eleventh or twelfth centuries, and all are notable for their decoration and the elegance of their script. MS. Sion L40.2/G5, containing homilies of John Chrysostom, is adorned with an opening miniature of the saint himself, and, at the end of the manuscript, two more illustrating the Parable of the Rich Man and Lazarus, the subject of the last homily it contains, though these have suffered significant deterioration. Unused space at the end of the manuscript has also been used by a later hand to insert paschal cycles setting out the date of Easter for much of the thirteenth century. The first pertains to 1204, suggesting that this addition was made shortly before the fall of Constantinople to the Fourth Crusade, an event remarked by a note appended to this entry. MS. Sion L40.2/G7, containing the standard liturgical sequence of orations of Gregory of Nazianzus, is augmented with a marginal apparatus of scholia and marks drawing attention to particular passages, which is designed to be decorative as well as functional, being gilded and ornamentally laid out. It also incorporates a lavish opening colophon of a devotional character, inserted on an additional leaf, also gilded and written in an ornate epigraphic majuscule.

The Octateuch MS. 1214 is also accompanied by a lengthy colophon, in this case of a much more factually informative kind, precisely locating the context of its production. It dates the manuscript's completion to 12 November 1103, identifies the patron who commissioned it as Leo Nikerites, a notable military commander under Alexios I Komnenos, and names the scribe, who describes himself as a foreigner, as one Ioannes Koulix, a surname which may indicate a Slavic origin. The place of production is not specified, but may be supposed to be Constantinople on the grounds of its ambitious form and high standard of production. The Old Testament text, lacking Genesis and Exodus but containing the remaining six books of the Octateuch, is surrounded by the catena of excerpted patristic commentaries on the text. According to the varying volume of supporting material pertaining to particular passages, the relative area occupied by the main text and the marginal catena text varies widely; where a page contains a relatively small amount of biblical text, this is arranged in a variety of shapes and surrounded by decorative borders in purple ink. This is, however, another case of a manuscript whose ambitious decorative programme was not brought to complete fruition: on many pages only the preparatory light sketching indicating the intended line of the borders is present. This manuscript is also significant for the later use that was made of it: it bears Hebrew annotations dated by their style to the fifteenth century that mark the start of the lections in the Jewish cycle of Torah readings, indicating that at some stage it passed into Jewish liturgical use.

The collection's small number of classical manuscripts (MSS. 1203, 1204, 1205, 1207) are of later date, originating in the late Byzantine or post-Byzantine periods, a preponderance again typical of the surviving corpus of Byzantine manuscripts. While portions of these are scribal productions, less formal, scholarly hands have also been at work in their copying or extensive annotation. In the case of MS. 1204, different scholarly hands are present, adding numerous brief excerpts from a range of authors in the margins of scientific texts of Pseudo-Aristotle and Plutarch. MS. 1207, containing orations of Demosthenes and apparently a scribal production, is notable for containing a small number of leaves written less skilfully in imitation of one of the principal copyists, perhaps reflecting the work of a scribe in training.

Other manuscripts of late Byzantine or early modern date in the collection include one standard liturgical text, a Menaion for September (MS. Sion L40.2/G10) and a vernacular world chronicle (MS. 1199), but tend to be miscellaneous compilations, of a predominantly religious character. They include the compact MS. Sion L40.2/G9, its tiny pages copied by a variety of different hands and containing the rite for the blessing of holy water and collections of hymns. Hymns form the largest element in MS. Sion L40.2/G11, but are combined with a range of other religious texts including synopses of Old Testament books and a portion of the Expositio fidei of John of Damascus, while in MS Sion L40.2/G12 the post-Byzantine zoological textbook of Damaskenos Stoudites is matched with paschal cycles and a listing of New Testament lections.

In terms of textual content, the most notable item in the collection is probably MS. 461, containing Georgios Scholarios's first treatise on the Procession of the Holy Spirit. This manuscript is significant due to the substantial autograph revisions made by the author, who not only corrected the scribe's text but introduced extensive additions and substitutions. His titlature in his colophon indicates that Scholarios made these interventions several years after completing the original composition of the work in 1444–5, at some point between taking the monastic habit around the beginning of 1450 and becoming Patriarch of Constantinople as Gennadios II in January 1454. It must be acknowledged that a considerable number of such autographs of Scholarios exist. For this particular text, MS. Dionysiou 330 also contains extensive autograph revisions, and other early copies associated with the author exist. Nevertheless, the extent of the authorial modifications make this manuscript an important source for the development of this text, and one that was omitted from the edition of Scholarios's complete works.³ The manuscript also bears the more limited annotations and autograph monocondylion signature of a later distinguished owner, the Patriarch of Alexandria Meletios Pegas (1590–1601).

While most of the Byzantine manuscripts in the collection are of homogenous content and conform in their essentials to standard types, thus forming links in conventional and extensive webs of textual transmission, some unite many different texts or portions of texts not found together as part of common collections, and in their composite character constitute more distinctive items in themselves. Especially notable in this regard are two other theological manuscripts. One is MS. 2794, the main portion of which forms an integrated whole copied by a single accomplished scribal hand, probably in the fifteenth century. About half of this portion of the manuscript is filled with portions of the Expositio fidei of John of Damascus. The rest constitutes a religious florilegium, including numerous patristic excerpts and a variety of more obscure texts. Some are apparently catechetical in character, a characteristic in harmony with the subject of the Expositio fidei, while they also include two fictive dialogues between a Christian and a Jew, suggesting that the manuscript's purpose may have related to proselytising efforts directed at Jews. It may be significant in this context that in the mid-sixteenth century the manuscript was owned by a skeuophylax (sacristan), "Chatze Moyses", whose name suggests that he was a convert to Christianity.

A markedly different pattern in form, though with commonalities in content and apparent purpose, is represented by MS. Sion L40.2/G6. This is a more eclectic composite with a more complex history. It seems to have been assembled from as many as three previously separate physical bodies. They are united by a concern with heresy and conversion, which presumably accounts for their having been gathered together, but also contain other types of material. The first and largest portion contains John of Damascus's catalogue of heresies and other theological and liturgical texts relating to heresy and the reception of heretics into the Orthodox Church, but also includes tables of historical chronology and a sequence of paschal cycles by the same elegant hand. These help identify this as one of the oldest substantial elements of the collection, since the paschal cycles begin with Easter 1014, a dating consistent with the scribal style. This dating is corroborated by a chronological list of imperial reigns whose penultimate entry gives the duration of the reign of the Emperor John I Tzimiskes with Basil II and Constantine VIII (969–76), while the final entry, for the reign of Basil II and Constantine VIII alone, gives no duration, placing its completion between 976 and 1025. Later hands have added ceremonial formulas for the renunciation of their former beliefs by Muslims and Armenians. The second portion, apparently copied some decades later by a less ornate hand, whose small script and extensive use of abbreviations may suggest a concern with minimising expenditure on materials, contains texts relating to theological controversies including Iconoclasm. The third incorporates the rite for the conversion of Jews and Old Testament excerpts regarded as conveying the ideas of the Trinity and Incarnation, evidently also selected with an eye to converting Jews, but its principal content is a series of selections from the legal compilation the Synopsis Basilicorum, largely drawn from civil law, which mostly concern monastic status, servile status, marriage and inheritance. This too is probably of earlier eleventh-century origin, but lost material has been supplemented by text copied by a later hand.⁴

The preoccupations of these manuscripts reflect the religious boundaries of and divisions within the predominantly Greek and Orthodox Christian civilisation that produced the array of texts in Greek and of largely Christian content which make up this collection, and highlight certain aspects of the interaction of that core tradition with those who stood outside it. Other indications of the cultural diversity of Byzantine society and the interpenetration of influences between it and its neighbours and successors are a recurring theme in this collection. The Hebrew annotation of MS. 1214 and the Jewish liturgical use this implies have already been mentioned. Annotations in a wide array of other languages are to be found in other manuscripts. The Gospel Book MS. 1179 is marked with quire numbers in Armenian numerals, indicating that either when first produced or at some later stage it was bound by an Armenian. The use of the Greek Gospel text and Greek annotation in an Armenian context suggests that the manuscript was employed within an Armenian community in one of the predominantly Greek-speaking regions of the Byzantine Empire rather than in Armenia itself. Some pages of the lectionary MS. 1190 have been annotated with an occasional interlinear gloss translating words into Slavonic, whose vocabulary suggests an eastern Slavic origin. Given the modern provenance of this manuscript from the islands of the Sea of Marmara or the Aegean, this is perhaps likewise indicative of its use by Slavs living within the Byzantine or Ottoman world rather than of its presence at some point in Slavic lands. Later glosses in another language, in this case Italian, are also a prominent feature of the Gospel Book MS. 1175, appearing here in the margin. The context for these additions, in a manuscript with the same Greek island provenance, is uncertain, but it does also include a note in Greek but in Latin script, which may suggest the context of southern Italy or of one of the Latin territories in the Greek world, perhaps in the Aegean islands. This sort of culturally mixed context of ownership would also be in keeping with the evidence of the present binding, which is essentially in the Greek style but displays features of a characteristically Italian type. Similar Latin-character Greek notes, one dated 1563, also appear in MS. 1178, which is known to have been on the island of Kos in the following century. The St Sabas MSS. 1193, 1194, 1195, and 1196 all testify to their presence in Palestine through Arabic annotations, including a record of purchase and notes identifying the beginning of months in the lectionary menologia. MS. 1196 also contains a brief note in Georgian script. Such a varied range of linguistic traces in a collection of this size is suggestive of the scope and complexity of the intersections across geographical, cultural and temporal boundaries between the Greek Christian culture of Byzantium and the wider world.

Editorial Conventions

Flyleaves or other supplementary groups of leaves not forming part of the main sequence of folio or page numbering, which are not themselves marked with numbers, have been assigned folio numbers in Roman numerals, in a single sequence for all such folios in the MS. Where such leaves bear their own folio or page number sequences marked in Arabic numerals, in order to avoid confusion with the main sequence they have again been assigned numbers in Roman numerals in the same manner; the numbers marked in the MS follow in brackets (e.g. Xr-XVIr (ff. 8r–14r)). Non-Arabic supplementary numbering sequences have been retained. In the rare cases where an MS contains two major numbering sequences, marks are used before references to indicate which sequence is being cited (e.g. (ii) p. 91). References by folio or page number followed by bis denote leaves which were erroneously marked with the same number as the preceding leaf. References by folio or page number followed by a sequence letter (e.g. f. 169A) denote leaves within a marked numbering sequence which have been erroneously left unnumbered, which have been numbered here by appending a letter to the number of the last numbered folio or page.

In listing the detailed contents of each MS, the identification of a particular work, including the conventional Latinised title where appropriate, is followed in brackets by the transcription of the heading as it appears in the MS, if such a heading is present. Where an item of the content of an MS is designated as “part” of a work, this indicates that only a portion of the total work was selected for copying in the MS, and this remains substantially complete; where it is designated as “incomplete”, this indicates that a larger portion of the work than currently extant was originally copied but part of it has been lost due to damage to the MS. Incipits and/or desinits are quoted and the point at which they occur in an edition cited to indicate the limits of extant content of an incomplete text, and likewise that of a partial text where these do not correspond to conventional section boundaries. Incipits and desinits are also given where possible for unidentified or unpublished works.

Only a limited amount of normalisation has been applied in transcribing headings, incipits and desinits, notes etc. The spellings and placement of diacritics and punctuation appearing in the MSS have in general been retained. Commas have however been added to separate items in lists where these are not separated by punctuation in the MS. Letters have been placed in lower case, with the exception of the initial letters of sentences and proper nouns, which have been capitalised. Other editorial interventions in transcribed text have been indicated by signs based on the Leiden system of notation:-

Expansions of abbreviations are displayed in round brackets: (). Letters absent in the manuscript but supplied by the editors are displayed in pointed brackets: <>. The presence of letters lost or rendered unclear by deterioration is indicated with square brackets: []. The number of lost or illegible letters, where this can be approximated, is indicated by the number of dots placed within these brackets: [..]. In the case of longer sequences of lost letters, their number is indicated by a number placed between dots within square brackets: [..8..]. A lacuna of uncertain length is represented by three underscores within square brackets: [___]. Letters present in the MS but rejected as superfluous by the editors are displayed in curled brackets: {}.

Glossary of Terms Used

The technical terminology adopted for all the binding descriptions is taken from the 'Language of Bindings Thesaurus' available on the Ligatus Research Centre (UAL) website <http://www.ligatus.org.uk/lob/>

f. 1r (Hand D)

Script (general characteristics)

Hand A: Fairly regular mixed minuscule, upright or slanted slightly to the right, with significant expansion of letters; superscript word endings common, but usually at line ends only; deletions using strikethrough.

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A: beta, zeta, kappa, lambda, xi, phi, psi, omega always majuscule; mu, nu always minuscule, gamma usually majuscule; long-bowed beta present; distinctive letter forms: majuscule gamma with vertical upturn at end of horizontal; large sigma telikon at start of words; distinctive ligatures: epsilon-pi with upper portion formed by loop over right-hand cell of minuscule pi, not extending over left-hand cell of epsilon; sigma-upsilon-nu with upper curve of large sigma telikon extending over upsilon-nu to join at right-hand end (e.g. f. 12v); upsilon-nu shaped like angular w (e.g. f. 16r); upsilon-tau with right-hand curve of upsilon extending straight upwards to join horizontal of large tau.

Diacritics & punctuation

Hand A: Breathings round; circumflexes double-curved; accents joined to letters (occasionally including grave) and breathings; mute iota usually absent, occasionally subscript; double dot used decoratively; use of lower, middle and upper point, lower and middle comma and full stop.

Abbreviations

Hand A: Nomina sacra (accents sometimes absent, sometimes separate from strokes, occasionally joined, regardless of length); syllabic (throughout line).

Apparatus

Rubricated headings for sections.

Ink

Hand A: dark brown, pale red and bright red; Georgios Scholarios: mid-brown and greenish brown; Meletios Pegas: black; Hand D: mid-brown; Hand E: mid-brown; Hand F: black; Hand G: black; Hand H: grey; Hand I: mid-brown; Hand J: bright red; Hand K: mid-brown; Hand L: mid-brown; Hand M: black; Hand N: black; Hand O: mid-brown; Hand P: dark brown; Hand Q: black; Hand R: pencil; Hand S: black; Hand T: pencil; Hand U: pencil.

f. 270r (Hand A, Pegas)

Ornament

Headpiece precedes start of text f. 1r: spiked plait, in pale red and brown ink. Rubricated initials for sections, some with decoration.

Text leaves

Western handmade paper, medium thickness, off-white colour, with scissors watermark, similar to Harlfinger Ciseaux 7–70 (dated 1404–76), Briquet 3650–3689 (dated 1341–1498).

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(f. 15) 187 x 144.

Text leaf condition

Stains and grime appear throughout text-block. Small tears to edge of ff. 305, <IV>; limited insect activity in ff. 7–99; water damage in first gathering and ff. 187–305. Occasional partial loss of marginal notes due to trimming.

Binding description

English early 17th-century inboard binding, tight back, covered in tanned calf with raised supports, not contemporary with the text, rebacked.

Binding dimensions (mm)

Left endleaves

A separate single leaf hook of an off-white, medium-thickness, handmade laid paper was adhered to the board as a pastedown and the hook was tipped to the first leaf of the text-block. A separate leaf of the same paper was added and tipped on top of the first text leaf as a separate free endleaf.

Right endleaves

A narrow, handmade paper joint with one stub adhered to the board and the other tipped to the last leaf of the text-block. Two separate off-white, medium-thickness, handmade laid papers were added. One leaf is tipped to the last text leaf as a free endleaf and the other leaf is pasted to the board as a separate pastedown.

Endleaf condition

Stains, grime and discolourations from leather turn-ins in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block has been sewn on four single raised supports. Due to a heavy application of adhesive and restricted opening it was difficult to examine the sewing structure.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Spine linings

The spine has been repaired and due to a heavy application of adhesive the material and number of layers of the linings are not visible and therefore not identifiable.

Boards and board attachment

3 mm paper boards, cut to give squares at head, tail and fore-edge. The support slips appear to have been laced through the boards.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, and all have a patchy and irregular application of blue-green colour decoration.

Edge condition

The head-edge appears to have been blackened by dirt.

Endbands

Only the headband survives. It is a single-core endband across the width of the spine sewn in natural-colour thread with a front bead over a split-cane core.

Endband condition

The tailband is missing. The headband has an accumulation of dirt.

Covering

The book is covered in full red-brown tanned calfskin with a tight back and the turn-ins left untrimmed and irregular in size and shape. The spine has been rebacked with mid-brown tanned calfskin.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions, lacerations, stains and small missing areas in the covering material of the boards. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached and the spine covering material is sound.

Tooling

Both covers have blind-tooled decoration with a three-line border frame on the sides. The five panels on the spine have blind-tooled double lines at head and tail, a gold-tooled title in panel 2 and a gold-tooled shelf mark number in panel 4, both tooled directly.

Furniture & fastenings

The inner ends of two pairs of green silk fore-edge ties are preserved under the pastedowns.

Colophon(s)

f. 1r: autograph colophon of Georgios Scholarios: “+ Γεωργίου τοῦ Σχολαρίου τὸ σύνταγμα τοῦ ὕστερον γενομένου Γενναδίου μοναχοῦ”.

Other notes

Right pastedown: note of price of refurbishment 11 Jun <19>58: “Refurb<ished> 11– 6–58 IW”.

Provenance

Owned and revised by Georgios Scholarios (Patriarch Gennadios II) in 1450–4.
Owned and annotated by Meletios Pegas, Patriarch of Alexandria (1590–1601).
Owned by Archbishop George Abbot (1611–33), having possibly been given to him by Meletios or by Cyril Loukaris, synkellos to Meletios in 1595 and later Patriarch of Alexandria (1601–20) and Patriarch of Constantinople (1620–38), and deposited in LPL.

Dating

Hand A worked after the composition of the text in 1444–5, and before revision of the MS by Georgios Scholarios. Revised by the author between his becoming a monk in 1450 and his enthronement as Patriarch of Constantinople in 1454. Annotated by Meletios Pegas during his reign as Patriarch of Alexandria, 1590–1601. Letter copied by Hand D dated July 1405, but the consistency of the paper with the main body of the MS suggests this text was copied directly into it at a later date.

Script (general characteristics)

Hand A, main text: Spare, widely-spaced, calligraphic mixed minuscule, upright, with significant expansion of letters, flourishes in bottom line and at line ends, superscript word endings at line ends only, corrections and supplementary text in smaller script with more common superscript word endings. Hand A, rubric: Alexandrine majuscule. Antonios Chariton: Informal upright mixed minuscule, with common superscript word endings. Hand C: Informal upright mixed minuscule, with common superscript word endings.

f. 114v (Chariton)

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A, mixed minuscule: All minuscule forms present except mu and psi; all majuscule forms present except nu, upsilon and omega; distinctive letter forms: majuscule beta with small upper cell, large elongated lower one; widely splayed minuscule gamma; v-shaped minuscule gamma; right-angled half-epsilon; zeta formed of relatively large curve joined to right-angle; theta sometimes very wide, sometimes very narrow; wide minuscule kappa; wide minuscule mu; tilted, kinked minuscule nu; large open rho; low, curvaceous minuscule upsilon; distinctive ligatures: epsilon-alpha with central stroke of majuscule epsilon curving down to join minuscule alpha from below to right of loop; epsilon-theta-eta with theta as loop on line extended from central stroke of majuscule epsilon and rising to join eta from above; lambda-omicron with lambda without ascender joining omicron at top; upsilon-delta, upsilon-lambda with upsilon joining majuscule delta or lambda from above; upsilon-omicron with upsilon merging into often incomplete loop of omicron. Antonios Chariton: beta, gamma, zeta, kappa, lambda, xi always majuscule; mu, nu, upsilon, psi always minuscule; modern nu, sigma telikon present. Hand C: beta, epsilon, zeta, eta, kappa, lambda, xi, psi always majuscule; delta, mu, nu, upsilon always minuscule; long-bowed beta, modern nu, sigma telikon present.

Diacritics & punctuation

Hand A: Breathings usually round, occasionally angular or half-angular; circumflexes often wide; breathings sometimes placed within upper curve of majuscule epsilon; mute iota usually absent, occasionally subscript; decorative use of double dot on iota and upsilon; use of lower, middle and upper point, lower and middle comma, question mark and full stop; single comma quotation mark (haple); double grave present on ἄν, δέ, μὴ, ναί; horizontal strokes over personal names. Antonios Chariton: Breathings round; acute accents joined to rough breathings and letters; mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota and upsilon. Hand C: Breathings round; circumflexes joined to letters; mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota and upsilon; use of lower and middle point; horizontal strokes over some personal names.

Abbreviations

Hand A, mixed minuscule: Nomina sacra (accents separate from strokes); δέ, καί; syllabic (usually only at line ends, except in corrections); horizontal stroke for nu. Hand A, majuscule: Nomina sacra (accents separate from strokes); καί, μάργς, περὶ; syllabic (throughout line); suspensions. Antonios Chariton: Nomina sacra (accents separate from strokes); syllabic (throughout line); suspensions. Hand C: Nomina sacra (accents sometimes separate from strokes, sometimes joined); syllabic (throughout line); suspensions.

Apparatus

Rubricated marginal chapter headings with numbers; rubricated marginal chapter numbers; rubricated marginal Ammonian section numbers; rubricated marginal canon numbers; numbers to chapter lists; two sets of later rubricated marginal lections, with interlinear notes of beginning and end of lections; later marginal modern chapter numbers in Greek numerals, in black ink; marginal modern chapter numbers in Roman numerals, in pencil.

f. 14r (Hands A, C, Chariton)

Ink

Hand A: variable brown (with conspicuous changes of ink) and dark red-purple; Ant-onios Chariton: pale red; Hand C: bright red; Hand D: black; Hand E: dark brown; Hand F: black; Hand G: black; Hand H: black; Hand I: mid-brown; Philip Traherne: black and possibly bright red; Hand K: dark brown; Hand L: pencil.

Ornament

Architectural and vegetative adornments to canon tables ff. 1v–4r. Rubricated headpieces to Gospels ff. 6r (large rectangular box containing entwined vine-scroll medallions with leaves within, leaf ornament at one corner with bird perched on it), 115r (horizontal rectangular box containing geometrical arrangement of rinceaux with demi-palmettes and vine leaves), 209r (horizontal rectangular box containing rinceaux with vine leaves, palmette and trumpet-shaped flowers); space left for head-piece f. 71r, but this was never added. Rubricated major initials to start of Gospels ff. 6r, 71r, 115r, 209r. Band of rubricated s-curves separates main text from colophon to Gospel f. 69r. Simple rubricated ornament to chapter list headings ff. 69v (rectangular box containing plait, with vegetative ornament at corners), 208r (wavy line with space-fillers, with leaf terminals and scroll ornament above). Rubricated minor initials, sometimes with scroll decoration.

Text leaves

Medium-thickness parchment, off-white colour; skins arranged with hair-side facing hair-side throughout.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(f. 10) 163 x 122.

Text leaf condition

Cockling appears throughout text-block. Candle wax stains, dirt stains, grime, dis-colourations on the surface of the leaves. Tears to ff. 1, 8, 82, 231; small holes in ff. 24, 231; minor insect activity in ff. 1–18, 246–265. Folios excised at time of production after ff. 35, 256.

Old repairs

Occasional leaves were repaired with overcasting as well as with plain paper (ff. 127, 259), with printed paper waste (f. 250v), with plain parchment (ff. 1–5, 129–131), with parchment waste (f. 122r), with modern Japanese tissue (f. 22), and with stitching (f. 22).

Binding description

English early 19th-century inboard binding, covered in tanned skin and decorated with blind tooling, repaired and rebaked, not contemporary with the text.

Binding dimensions (mm)

Left endleaves

A separate single fold of white, medium-thickness parchment was tipped on the first text leaf. A separate single leaf of dark-brown paper is made to the outermost full parchment leaf, and another, smaller in size, used as a separate pastedown.

Right endleaves

Two sewn parchment endleaves from a previous binding survive (ff. 264-265). The recto of the outermost leaf (f. 265) has stains from leather triple straps at the fore-edge and from leather turn-ins at head, tail and fore-edge. These suggest that it was originally adhered to the inside of a right board. A separate single fold of white, medium-thickness parchment was tipped on the last text leaf. A separate single leaf of dark-brown paper is made to the outermost full parchment leaf, and another, smaller in size, used as a separate pastedown.

Stains and small losses in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block has been re sewn and there is evidence of five V-nicks in the spine folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 18, 37, 110, 135 mm from the head of the text-block. It is now sewn all-along on five single recessed twisted cords, with a medium-thickness, single, S-ply, loose twist white thread, using six pierced-hole stations at 12, 28, 54, 78, 128, 145 mm from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Spine linings

The spine has been slightly rounded. Linings of a loosely woven cotton fabric (mull) lining under a brown paper lining are visible and cover the full length of the spine, but whether the linings extend onto the outside or inside of the boards cannot be seen.

Spine lining condition

The lining is complete and intact on the spine but has split along the left joint.

Boards and board attachment

4 mm paper boards rebaked and attached to the text-block by inner leather joints with one stub adhered to the boards and the other tipped to the first and last free endleaves of the text-block.

Board attachment condition

The leather joint has split from head to tail on the left joint and the left board is now detached.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut and gilded.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear even and worn and the head-edge has been blackened by dirt.

Endbands

Both head- and tailbands are missing. Broken tie-downs were found in ff. 9, 10, 17, 96 (green silk thread) and in f. 150 (plain natural thread).

Covering

The binding is covered in full brown tanned straight-grain goatskin. The turn-ins are trimmed and regular in size and shape. The binding has been rebacked with mid-brown tanned goatskin.

Covering material condition

There are some abrasions, small tears and losses in the covering material. The spine reback material is sound. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached.

Tooling

Both covers have blind-tooled decoration with a broad roll within a three-line border frame on the sides enclosing a lattice pattern, created by a three-line tool, with small tool within the lattice and asymmetric corner tools in the corners. There is a blind-tooled roll around the edges of the boards, and a blind-tooled three-line tool around the leather turn-ins and the inner joints. The six panels on the spine have a blind-tooled line at head and tail, a gold-tooled title in panel 2 and a gold-tooled shelf mark number in panel 5, both tooled directly.

Colophon(s)

f. 264r: colophon of Antonios Chariton: “+ Οἰκτρὸς μοναχὸς Ἀντώνιος Χαρίτων”.

Notes & marks of ownership

Inserts

Pinned to <II>v: note in English suggesting not the work of an “ordinary scribe”; “Lambeth MS 528”.

Other notes

f. 1r: “IV Evangelior(um) Codex Ephesinus”; f. 35v: note of missing folio following, in English, in pencil; f. 263v: note dated 1160: “Ἐτεῖ ἀπὸ Χ(ριστο)ύ ,ΑΡΞ’ ”; f. 264r: “ε”; black scrawled lines on ff. 15v, 17v, 21v–22r, 43v–44r, 111v, 126r; <IV>r: note of price for refurbishment 26 February <19>59: “Refurb<ished> 26.2.59 IW”.

Provenance

Owned by the Metropolitan of Ephesos in the 17th century. Acquired there by Philip Traherne, Anglican chaplain in Smyrna 1669–74 and donated by him to LPL 4 March 1680.

Textual tradition

Gregory-Aland 71; Soden ε253 (I^{ϕr}); Scrivener 71.

Dating

Style of Hand A consistent with 12th century. Style of Antonios Chariton consistent with late 13th century. Notes by Hand C sometimes written around those of Antonios Chariton (e.g. ff. 14r, 17r, 19v), indicating this hand worked later. Note on f. 263v gives date as 1160, but this appears in Anno Domini, not Anno Mundi as would be expected in Byzantine usage of that date, and the form of the thousand mark as a vertical stroke directly below the numeral conforms to the conventions of printing rather than those of Byzantine scribal practice. Thus it appears that this date is a spurious addition, perhaps by Philip Traherne. A single letter epsilon, apparently in the same hand, appears on f. 264r, following the colophon of Antonios Chariton, possibly indicating that this hand began writing the spurious date here, but then (perhaps having realised that Chariton was not the original scribe) abandoned this and placed it on f. 263v instead.

ff. I–II: by folios, top right, Roman numerals, pencil; ff. 1–61: by folios, top right, Arabic numerals, pencil.

Columns & lines

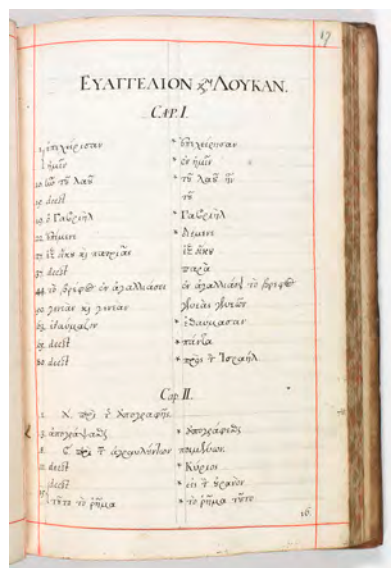

Two columns, 26 lines.

Ruling

Layout equivalent to Leroy 12D2, text lines and column dividers pencil, margin lines red ink, piercing visible for verticals and horizontals; text area: 145 mm x 94 mm; interlinear distance: 6 mm.

Scribe(s)

Philip Traherne: f. Iiv date, ff. 1r–40r; Hand B: LPL ownership note f. Iiv.

f. 17r (Traherne)

Script (general characteristics)

17th-century Western hand.

Ink

Black.

Text leaves

Western handmade paper, medium thickness, off-white colour.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(f. 20) 177 x 117.

Text leaf condition

Grime appears in the first folios and limited insect activity occasionally on the margins of the leaves.

Binding description

English late 17th-century inboard binding, tight back, covered in tanned calf with raised supports, contemporary with the text, rebacked.

Binding dimensions (mm)

181 x 123 x 18.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same. A separate off-white, medium-thickness, handmade laid paper adhered to the board as a separate pastedown at each end.

Endleaf condition

Stains, grime and discolourations from leather turn-ins in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block has been sewn on five single raised supports. Due to a heavy application of adhesive and restricted opening it was difficult to examine the sewing structure.

Sewing condition

The structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Spine linings

The spine has been repaired and a narrow, thin, cotton fabric joint has been adhered along the inner joints of the boards, but whether there is an overall lining on the spine that extends onto the outside or inside of the boards cannot be seen.

Boards and board attachment

2 mm paper boards, cut to give squares at head, tail and fore-edge. The support slips appear to have been laced through the boards.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound.

Edges

The edges of the text-block are plain-cut and decorated with red and olive green pigments, possibly applied with a sponge.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear even. The head-edge appears to have been lightly blackened by dirt.

Endbands

Both head- and tailbands are missing. A plain natural thread tie-down survives in f. 9 at the tail-edge.

Covering

The book is covered in full red-brown tanned calfskin with a tight back and the turn-ins left untrimmed and irregular in size and shape. The spine has been rebacked with mid-brown tanned calfskin and the corners of the boards have also been repaired with the same leather.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions, lacerations, stains and limited insect damage in the covering material of the boards. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached and the spine reback material is sound.

Tooling

Both covers have blind-tooled border frame decoration with fillets, a gold-tooled one-line tool on the board edges and a blind-tooled quarter line, typical of bindings of the second half of the 17th century. The six panels on the spine have a blind-tooled single line at head and tail, with a gold-tooled title in panel 2 and a gold-tooled shelfmark number in panel 6, both tooled directly.

Notes & marks of ownership

<II>v: date of acquisition by LPL: "Mart. 4. 1679."; f. IIv: "Bibliothecae Lambethanae hunc Codicem Ephesinum d.d. Philippus Traheron"; f. Ir: "528 B"; f. Iir: "528 b"; Bibliotheca Lambethana stamps ff. 1r, 40r.

Other notes

Right pastedown: note of price for refurbishment 22 February <19>59: "Refurbished 22.2.59 IW".

Provenance

Donated by the author to LPL on 4 March 1680.

Dating

Philip Traherne worked on the collation between his acquisition of MS. 528 and the publication of John Fell's edition in 1675, and Traherne's donation of both MSS. to LPL 4 March 1680 (dated here <II>r) to 4 March 1679, but in MS 528 to 4 March 1679/80, indicating that the 1679 date corresponds to the year beginning 25 March).

Text leaves

A composite text-block, the first half with conventional sewn gatherings; the second half is a guard book. It contains medium-thickness handmade papers, off-white colour, in different sizes, with crowned armorial watermark and Jesus monogram watermark comparable to Briquet 9461–9465.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

((a) f. 5) 237 x 181; ((b) f. 26) 218 x 168.

Text leaf condition

Stains and grime appear occasionally throughout the text-block. Tears to ff. 1–6, 21.

Old repairs

Occasional leaves were repaired in the margins with plain paper.

Binding description

English late 19th-century inboard binding with a hollow back and false bands on the spine, half-covered in pebble-grain goatskin with pebble-grain bookcloth on the sides, with the arms of Lambeth Palace Library blocked in gold in both covers, not contemporary with the text.

Binding dimensions (mm)

248 x 194 x 23.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same. A sewn double-fold of an off-white handmade laid paper, with the outermost leaf pasted to the board.

Endleaf condition

Stains and discolourations in both left and right endleaves. The left endleaf is torn along the spine fold, as the left cover is detached.

Sewing

The text-block is sewn all-along on three recessed single cord supports with a single white thread of medium-thickness, using six pierced hole stations at 15 (head kettle), 48, 55, 105, 113, 128, 163, 171 mm (tail kettle) from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Spine linings

A tight tube of paper adhered directly to the spine of the book for the Oxford hollow construction. The shape of the spine is rounded.

Boards and board attachment

3 mm paper boards, cut to give squares at head, tail and fore-edge. The support slips appear to have been laced through the boards.

Board attachment condition

The support slips are broken with the cover split from head to tail on the left joint and the left board is now detached.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are undecorated. Some of them are plain-cut whereas others retain their deckle edges on tail and fore-edge.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear lightly stained with dirt.

Endbands

Stuck-on, woven endbands in blue and white coloured thread, adhered to the head and tail of the spine.

Covering

The binding is covered in half black pebble-grain goatskin with black pebble-grain bookcloth on the sides. The turn-ins are trimmed, regular in size with lapped corners.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions, small missing areas and a mixture of dirt on the surface. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached.

Tooling

The covers have blind-tooled decoration with fillets and a Bibliotheca Lambethana coat of arms blocked in gold on the centre of each board. The six panels on the spine have gold-tooled double lines at head and tail (with an additional double line at the tail end of the spine), and a gold-tooled roll across the false raised bands, a gold-tooled title in panels 2 and 3, and a gold-tooled shelf mark number in panel 6, both tooled directly.

Left pastedown: “802”; MS. 802 (b): Bibliotheca Lambethana stamps pp. iii, 12.

Other notes

MS. 802 (a): f. 1: “V. D. Cave Hist. Eccl. Lit. in Iul. Ar. p. 170 etc.”; f. 22v: “Vossius a le manuscrit null[.....]ani l'a fais copier”; right pastedown: note of price for refurbishment 16 January <19>59: “Refurb<ished> 16.1.59 IW”.

Provenance

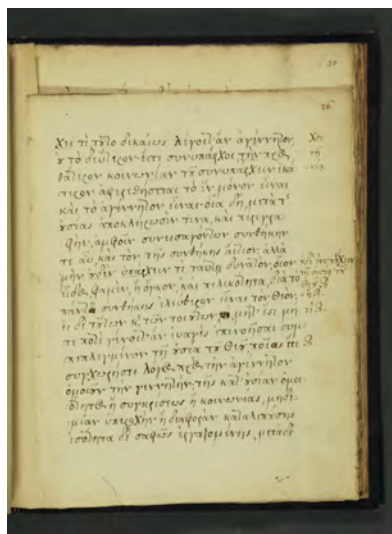

Acquired along with the rest of Henry Wharton's MSS by Archbishop Thomas Tenison (1636–1715) and left by him to LPL.

Textual tradition

Vaggione identifies MS. 802 (a) (as MS. T) as a copy of MS. Leidensis Vossianus gr. Q 13, ff. 22r–38v, and the Greek text of MS. 802 (b) (as MS. Y) as a copy of MS. 802 (a), which was also the exemplar for Emmanuel College, Cambridge MS. 249, pp. 1–31, by the same hand.

Dating

Completion of translation in MS. 802 (b) dated in the excerpts by Thomas Birch from the lost memoirs of Henry Wharton (LPL MS. 1169*, published by George D'Oyly) to 8 January 1687/8. MS. 802 (a) must have been completed before the production of MS. 802 (b), since it served as its exemplar.

(b) p. 26 (Wharton)

Remarks

Formerly two separate MSS. Vaggione concludes that the copy and translation of MS. 802 (a) which constitutes MS. 802 (b) was produced by Henry Wharton as part of his collaboration with William Cave on the latter's Scriptorum Ecclesiasticorum Historia Literaria (London 1688), and that the missing portions of the text (chapters 1–5, the latter part of chapter 27, and chapter 28) were used as the printer's copy for this publication, since they correspond exactly to the passages appearing in it.

A sewn double-fold of Greek manuscript parchment waste with overcasting along the spine-folds. There is no pastedown.

Right endleaves

A sewn single-leaf text-hook of Greek manuscript parchment waste (pp. 421-422) was adhered to a single text leaf (pp. 407-408) to create the outer bifolium of the last gathering. There is no pastedown.

Endleaf condition

Cockling, stains, ink corrosion, discolourations from leather turn-ins, grime, small losses and limited insect activity.

Sewing

The text-block is resewn with an unsupported structure, sewn all-along with a single, medium-thickness, tight S-twist, natural-colour thread, using the five V-nicks in the spine-folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 51, 95, 146, 200, 251 mm from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Spine linings

The spine is smooth and an overall lining of one layer of natural-colour, plain woven textile is visible and covers the full length of the spine and extends onto the outside of the boards.

Spine lining condition

The lining is complete and intact on the spine and the boards.

Boards and board attachment

12 mm wooden boards, the same size as the text-block, with V-shaped edge grooves cut into the head, tail and fore-edges of the boards, stopped short of the corners in reverse points. The attachment is sound but it is not clear whether it is integral with the sewing or uses separate bridling.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound. The right board has a split along the left joint.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been retrimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear even. The head-edge appears to have been blackened by dirt.

Endbands

Greek-style, projecting, divided-chevron-and-crowning-core endbands, sewn to the boards. The primary endband cores are of a plain thread S-twist cord of medium thickness and natural colour and the primary sewing has frequent tie-downs but not in every gathering. The secondary sewing is executed in red and blue silk threads, incorporating two subsidiary cores, one of the same thickness as that of the primary core, with a much thinner crowning core on top.

Endband condition

Both endbands are still attached to the book-block but the silk threads of the secondary sewing have been worn away, the cores are partially broken and some parts are released. The tailband crowning core is missing.

Covering

Full cover of brick-red tanned goatskin. The turn-ins are trimmed, irregular in size, with a narrow dart cut out across each of the turn-ins of the left board and the head turn-in of the right board, and with corners with slightly opened butt mitres.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions, lacerations, small tears and missing areas in the spine area of the covering material with very limited insect damage. The covering skin has developed a blackened surface with a mixture of dirt and grease. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached to the boards.

Tooling

The spine has a blind-tooled decoration with fillets. The sides are tooled in blind with a four-line border frame, with two further frames inside it, the outer created by a roll with the four-line tool outside it, the inner by the roll with the four-line tool on both sides, and with a cross in the centre made with the same roll.

Furniture & fastenings

Originally the book had four triple, tanned-skin, interlaced straps attached to the right board, one each at the head and tail, and two on the fore-edge, which fastened onto four copper alloy simple edge pins in the left board.

Furniture & fastenings condition

Most of the components of fastenings are now completely missing. The four triple-interlaced straps are broken off, but their inner ends, taken through the turn-ins, survive on the inside of the right board; the outer parts together with the four clasps are missing. Three of the four edge pins are also missing; only one survives on the head of the left board.

Bookmarks

A primary marker fastened under the headband core consisting of blue and red silk threads plied together. No evidence of the secondary marker.

Inside left board: "I.1"; "1175"; ex libris of Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton 1805; Ir (p. 1): "I.1".

Other notes

p. 327: Greek note in Latin characters "[- -] lego(n) to, sofia orthi [akuu]som<en> ec tou cata Io(hannin) ag<iou> eva(n)g(e)liou to anagnosma".

Provenance

Acquired by J. D. Carlyle in the islands of the Aegean or the Sea of Marmara 1799–1801, purchased by Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton and deposited in LPL 17 March 1806.

Textual tradition

Gregory-Aland 470; Soden ε136 (A^k); Scrivener 509.

Dating

Style of Hand B consistent with 9th–10th century. Style of Hand A consistent with mid-11th to mid-12th century. Style of Hand C consistent with 14th–15th century. Style of Hand D consistent with 14th century. Style of Hand I consistent with 15th–16th century.

Remarks

Described and variant readings collated in LPL MSS. 1223 and 1224. The Greek note in Latin script p. 327, Italian glosses, additional ruling in pale brown crayon and Italian characteristics (tool, flat spine) of the Greek-style binding suggest that the MS spent time in southern Italy or in Italian-ruled territory in the East.

p. 183 (Nikolaos)

Script (general characteristics)

Nikolaos klerikos, main text: Mixed minuscule Perlschrift, upright or slightly slanted to the right, with moderate expansion of letters, occasional superscript word endings at line ends only, deletions by erasure, systematic misuse of final nu in ἐστίν etc. preceding words beginning with consonants (subsequently erased). Nikolaos klerikos, rubric: Alexandrine majuscule. Nikolaos klerikos, Gospel colophons: Epigraphic majuscule. Hand B: Constantinopolitan majuscule. Hand C: Quite florid upright mixed minuscule with significant expansion of letters and abbreviations, flourishes at line ends and in top and bottom lines, common superscript word endings. Hand D: Upright mixed minuscule. Hand E: Curvaceous mixed minuscule, slanted slightly to the right, with little expansion of letters, occasional flourishes at line ends, quite common superscript word endings. Hand G: Fairly regular mixed minuscule, slanted slightly to the right, with little expansion of letters, occasional flourishes on bottom line.

XXXIr (f. 1r) (Hand G)

Script (letters & ligatures)

Nikolaos klerikos (mixed minuscule): All minuscule forms present; alpha, gamma, mu, nu, upsilon, psi always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: minuscule alpha with bulbous loop; minuscule sigma with horizontal distinct from loop; enlarged tau with upturn at bottom of descender, sometimes joining to following letter; hooks on rho, phi. Hand C: All majuscule forms present; gamma, zeta, kappa, lambda, xi, psi always majuscule; long-bowed beta present; distinctive letter forms: long-bowed beta with vertical back, greatly enlarged lower loop, very distinct from vertical; bulbous heart-shaped beta; phi with looped tail; distinctive ligatures: sigma-epsilon-nu with sigma almost surrounding epsilon-nu and joined to right-hand side; phi-omega with majuscule omega attached to top of phi. Hand D: alpha, nu always minuscule; beta, epsilon, zeta, kappa, lambda, xi, omega always majuscule; distinctive letter forms: majuscule epsilon with bar on central stroke; tall, thin lunate sigma; majuscule lambda elongated down-left; distinctive ligatures: epsilon-epsilon with wide, low-slung epsilon. Hand E: mu, nu, sigma, epsilon always minuscule; epsilon, zeta, eta, lambda, xi, psi, omega always majuscule; use of sigma telikon; distinctive letter forms: majuscule beta with widened lower loop; iota elongated downwards with left turn at foot; majuscule omega with wider right-hand curve. Hand G: alpha, delta, mu, nu, sigma, epsilon always minuscule; zeta, eta, xi, psi always majuscule; long-bowed beta and sigma telikon present, used even in mid-word; distinctive letter forms: majuscule beta with widened lower loop; minuscule eta, kappa with ascender bent forward; majuscule kappa with diagonals meeting to left of vertical.

Ornament

Headpiece precedes text IVv (f. 2v): wavy line with space fillers surrounded by rectangular border with palmettes at corners. Decorated initial in orange ink IVv (f. 2v). Vine scroll in orange ink occupies vacant column of canon table VIIIr (f. 6r). Ornate but somewhat crude headpiece precedes summary synaxarion Xr (f. 8r): rectangle filled with plaits and interlace, with vegetative edging and corner ornament, topped by cross filled with plaits, surrounded by “Ι(ησοῦ)ς Χ(ριστὸς)ς νικᾷ” inscription, in dark brown ink with pale red-brown and green infill. Simple line-fillers Xr, XIr, XIVv, XVr, XVIr (ff. 8r, 9r, 12v, 13r, 14r) (wavy lines with space fillers, with leaf terminals, rows of s-curves etc). Ornate but somewhat crude headpiece precedes summary synaxarion section XIIIr (f. 11r): belt of wavy lines, rows of triangles etc., with vegetative edging and terminals, in dark brown ink with pale red-brown infill. Simple headpiece XVr (f. 13r) (wavy line with space fillers, rows of s-shapes etc., with vegetative terminals), in dark brown and pale red-brown ink. Rubricated minor initials Xr–XVIr (ff. 8r–14r). Later scraps of crude doodled ornament in grey ink Xr, XVr, XVIv, XVIIIr (ff. 8r, 13r, 14v, f. 16r/p. 3). Space-fillers accompany headings of summary menologion sections XXr–XXIXr (f. 18r–27r) (rubricated wavy lines with vegetative terminals). Headpieces in the same style precede summary menologion sections XXXr–v (f. 28r–v). Pylai precede Gospels pp. 7, 126, 208: pp. 7, 126 chain of rosettes in medallions, with leaf ornament in interstices, p. 208 chain of Sasanian palmettes in medallions, with crenellations in interstices (all in red ink, pp. 7, 126 with green paint infill). Headpiece precedes Gospel p. 325: row of oak-leaf shaped vegetative forms in medallions, with leaf ornament in interstices and palmettes at corners. Ornate Gospel headings in Constantinopolitan majuscule pp. 7, 126, 208, 325 (p. 7 with green paint infill). Major initials to Gospels pp. 7, 126, 208, 325, with vegetative or plait decoration, in red ink (pp. 7, 126 with green paint infill). Bands of simple ornament follow chapter lists XIXv (f. 17v/p. 6), p. 322: wavy line with space fillers, row of s-curves, with leaf terminals, in red ink. Bands of simple ornament follow Gospels pp. 121, 201: rows of horizontal and vertical lines, s-curves, s-curves with space fillers, with leaf terminals, in dark brown ink. Rubricated minor initials pp. 7–418. Wavy line with space fillers, with leaf terminal, precedes text XXXIr (f. 1r), in dark brown and bright red ink. Plait line-filler XXXIIv (XII (f. 10)) 191 x 137; (XXII (f. 20)) 186 x 125; (pp. 251–252) 191 x 141; (XXXII (f. 2)) 191 x 137).

Text leaf condition

Stains and discolourations in the marginal areas of the first and last gatherings and pp. 212–213. Cockling appears all through text-block and pleating to ff. 126, 401–418. Loss to corner of pp. 417–418; small tears to edge of pp. 9–10, 13–14, 25–26, 47–48, 77–78, 81–82, 137–138, 199–200, 217–218, 237–238, 241–242, 281–282, 299–300, 325–326, 381–382; holes in pp. 27–28, 213–214, 265–266, 411–412, XXXVII (f. 7); pieces cut from edge of pp. 217 bis–220. Folios excised at time of production after pp. 110, 112, 214, 336, 358, 368.

p. 323

Old repairs

Occasional leaves were repaired to the margins and to the spine-folds with plain paper and plain parchment before the book was sewn.

Binding description

20th-century inboard binding covered in quarter mid-brown tanned calfskin with marbled paper on the sides.

Binding dimensions (mm)

205 x 159 x 78.

Left endleaves

The endleaf construction is the result of repairs during the rebinding. Two free endleaves survive from an earlier Greek-style binding. The outer leaf is a light blue, handmade wove paper and the inner leaf is off-white handmade laid paper with traces of stains from the turn-ins and bridling from a two-sequence unsupported sewing. A narrow piece of thin cotton fabric has been adhered along the joint with one stub pasted to the board and the other stub tipped to the outer free endleaf. A separate leaf of light yellow, medium-thickness, machine-made wove paper has been added and pasted to the board as a pastedown.

Right endleaves

The endleaf construction is the result of repairs during the rebinding. A light blue, medium-thickness, handmade wove paper leaf survives as a free endleaf from an earlier binding. A narrow piece of thin, cotton fabric has been adhered along the joint with one stub pasted to the board and the other stub tipped to the free endleaf. A separate leaf of light yellow, medium-thickness, machine-made wove paper has been added and pasted to the board as a pastedown.

Endleaf condition

Staining, discolouration, grime, small losses, and limited insect activity in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block is resewn with an unsupported structure, sewn all-along with a medium-thickness, tight S-twist, white thread, using the four V-nicks in the spine folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 15, 65, 115, 175 mm from the head of the text-block. There is evidence of three unused stations at 30, 90, 150 mm from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been retrimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear rounded and worn.

Tooling

A gold-tooled title and a gold-tooled shelf mark number on the spine, both tooled directly.

Furniture & fastenings

Stains of copper alloy nails, presumably securing bosses from an earlier binding, on f. 417v.

Bookmarks

Traces of stains from a bookmark in pp. 208–209, but the material is missing and cannot be identified.

Colophon(s)

p. 417: colophon of Nikolaos klerikos: “+ Χ(ριστ)ὲ δώρησε τῷ πόθῳ κτησαμένῳ; εὐρωστεῖαν ἄφεσιν ἀμπλακημάτων· καὶ τὸ ξέσαντι κληρικῷ Νικολάῳ, τὴν εὐζωΐαν καὶ λύσιν τῶν σφαλμάτων”.

Provenance

Owned by the Monastery of the Holy Trinity, Chalke. Acquired there by J. D. Carlyle 1799–1801, purchased by Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton and deposited in LPL 17 March 1806.

Textual tradition

Gregory-Aland 471; Soden ε254 (A^k); Scrivener 510.

Dating

Style of Nikolaos klerikos consistent with 11th century. Work of Hand B and insertion of extra folios with miniatures part of original production, contemporaneous with Hand A. Style of Hands C–F consistent with 14th–15th century. Style of Hand G consistent with 16th century; watermark on paper used by this hand (XXXIr–XXXVIIv (ff. 1r–7v)) comparable to 16th-century examples (see Text leaves).

Remarks

Described and variant readings collated in MSS. 1223 and 1224. The miniatures are on extra folios inserted into the gatherings but ruled as normal. Plans for their inclusion were seemingly not properly incorporated into the copying of the text, since this was not arranged so as to allow their insertion without interrupting the text: the miniatures of Mark and Luke interrupt the chapter lists, since these lists begin on the verso following the end of the previous Gospel on the recto of the same folio, and end on the recto followed by the start of the Gospel on the verso of the same folio, leaving no gap for the miniature folio to be inserted between the preceding Gospel and the chapter list or between the chapter list and the following Gospel. The symbolic animals of St Mark and St John have been reversed, Mark appearing with the eagle and John with the lion. That this is the nature of the error, rather than the folios simply being erroneously placed, is indicated by the otherwise correct iconography, St John appearing as an old man, with the opening words of the Gospel of John visible on the page in front of him. This miniature, unlike the others, has been labelled with the Evangelist's name, perhaps to clarify this point. Lines for text are not ruled on p. 86 and line spacing is wayward there.

Script (general characteristics)

Laurentios, main text: Slightly inelegant mixed minuscule with bouletée characteristics, upright, with little expansion of letters, occasional flourishes in bottom row and at line ends, very occasionally elsewhere, sometimes decorated (e.g. pp. 253, 258), no superscript word endings, occasional outbursts of floridity (e.g. p. 224). Laurentios, rubric: Alexandrine majuscule. Hand B: Mixed minuscule with bouletée characteristics, upright, with little expansion of letters, no superscript word endings. Hand C: Inelegant, heavy-handed upright mixed minuscule with little expansion of letters.

Script (letters & ligatures)

Laurentios, mixed minuscule: All minuscule forms present; gamma, mu, pi, upsilon, psi, omega always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: minuscule delta joining following letter at base; minuscule eta with only slight curve; phi with flattened loop; minuscule zeta with long tail running back behind letter; theta with curving horizontal from below left; alpha with flourished descender from right-hand side of loop; clubs on iota, rho, tau, phi, chi; distinctive ligatures: rho-phi with tail of rho forming lower curve of phi; upsilon-psi with curve of upsilon passing up through horizontal of psi; tau-upsilon-phi with upsilon assimilated into widened curve of open phi; gamma-eta with right-hand line of minuscule gamma rising to join minuscule eta as doubled ascender; kappa-alpha-iota with alpha as loop between minuscule kappa and doubled iota; upsilon-pi-alpha-gamma in bottom line with wide upsilon below pi and alpha joining to gamma; alpha-zeta with alpha consisting only of loop with link to angular zeta extending from centre-right. Hand B: alpha, beta, delta, zeta, sigma, psi always minuscule; lambda, xi always majuscule; distinctive letter forms: minuscule zeta with minimal central protrusion. Hand C: mu, nu, sigma, upsilon always minuscule, alpha usually minuscule; eta, kappa, lambda, xi, psi always majuscule, omega usually majuscule; distinctive letter forms: majuscule beta with loop to left of lower part of vertical; minuscule delta with loop open at top left; minuscule epsilon with large loop; theta with bar on central stroke; minuscule mu with descender turned back; minuscule sigma with strongly distinct horizontal starting slightly to left of loop; phi with flattened loop.

Diacritics & punctuation

Laurentios: Breathings angular, half-angular and round; routinely uses grave, sometimes acute in place of circumflex, occasionally circumflex in place of grave; routinely uses smooth in place of rough breathing, occasionally rough in place of smooth; acute accent sometimes long; acute accent occasionally joined to letters; mute

p. 80 (Hand B)

iota usually absent, occasionally adscript; use of double dot functional only; use of lower, middle and upper point, question mark and full stop; s-shaped quotation marks; double grave present on μέν, μῆ, ναί. Hand B: Breathings round; mute iota absent; use of double dot functional only; use of middle and upper point, question mark and full stop. Hand C: Breathings round; mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota and upsilon; use of lower comma, lower and middle point, question mark and full stop; cross used as routine strong punctuation mark; lower commas and lower points placed directly below preceding letter or below-right.

Abbreviations

Laurentios: Nomina sacra (accents absent); δέ, καί, κατά, μάρτυς, μέγας, ὅτι, παρὰ, περί, προφήτης, πρῶτος; syllabic (throughout line) (omicron-nu abbreviation systematically employed to denote nu); suspensions; chi-rho for Χρυσόστομος. Hand B: Nomina sacra (accents absent); περί; syllabic (at line ends only). Hand C: Nomina sacra (accents absent on non-enclitics up to 3 letters long, otherwise separate from strokes); καί; syllabic (throughout line).

Apparatus

Rubricated headings for Gospels, chapter lists, summary synaxarion and menologion sections; rubricated verse counts and brief Gospel colophons at end of Gospels; rubricated marginal chapter headings with numbers; rubricated marginal chapter numbers; rubricated marginal Ammonian section numbers; rubricated marginal lection notes; rubricated notes for start and end of lections in line of text; extent of lection text occasionally indicated by vertical line of rubricated marginal reference marks; occasional ekphonic musical notation marks (e.g. pp. 127–128, 130–131); rubricated numbers to chapter lists; numbers to summary synaxarion and menologion entries; later marginal canon numbers; multiple sets of later marginal lection notes; marginal modern chapter and verse references, in Roman and Arabic numerals, in dark brown ink pp. 2–3; marginal modern chapter references, in Roman numerals, in pencil; marginal modern notes of missing folios pp. 297, 309, of lacunas pp. 243, 395, in English, in pencil.

Ink

Laurentios: dark brown and dark red; Hand B: dark brown; Hand C: dark brown; Hand D: dark brown; Hand E: mid-brown; Hand F: mid-brown; Hand G: pale red; Hand H: pale brown; Hand I: dark brown; Hand J: pale brown; Hand K: pale brown; Hand L: grey; Hand M: black; Hand N: black; Hand O: black; Hand P: green; Hand Q: black; Hand R: black; Hand S: dark brown; Hand T: grey-brown; Hand U: pale brown; Gennadios, hieromonachos: green; Georgios, priest: black; Ioannes: black; J. D. Carlyle: grey-brown; Charles Burney: mid-brown; Hand Z: dark brown; Hand AA: pencil; Hand AB: pencil; Hand AC: pencil.

Ornament

Horizontal bands of ornament in red and/or brown ink precede or follow verse counts, brief Gospel colophons, chapter lists, summary synaxarion and menologion sections pp. 128, 214, 333, 407–408, 410, 412, 414–417, 420–421 (plaits, wavy lines with space fillers, rows of s-shapes, s-curves with space fillers, alternating pairs of horizontal and vertical lines etc., with leaf terminals). Box in above style, with Sasanian palmette ornament at corners, surrounds and separates verse count and brief Gospel colophon p. 332. Plaited quatrefoil in red and brown ink p. 333. Banner headpieces with leaf ornament at corners pp. 130, 218, 334, in bright red and blue ink (p. 130 containing crenellated lozenges, p. 218 containing Sasanian palmette medallions, p. 334 containing a mixture of both within diamond-shaped divisions). Gospel headings pp. 130, 218, 334, in bright red ink with blue paint infill. Major initials to Gospels pp. 130, 218, 334, in bright red and blue ink with blue paint infill or bright red ink with blue and white paint infill. Rubricated minor initials, sometimes with slight decoration, occasionally ornate (e.g. p. 41). Rubricated initial letters to chapter list entries. Later plaited quatrefoil in black ink p. 408. Later Sasanian palmette in black ink p. 412.

Text leaves

Medium-thickness parchment, off-white colour; skins arranged with hair-side facing hair-side throughout.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(p. 50) 194 x 141.

Text leaf condition

First two original quires lost, only extant portions of pp. 13–14, 17–20 and stubs of excised folios after pp. 12, 14, 18 survive of quire 3 (pp. 1–12, 15–16 added to substitute missing text); folio torn out after p. 244; quire comprising pp. 100–115 bound in upside-down; final folio (pp. <422–423> (391A–B)) bound out of position after p. 391 and closely trimmed to tail-edge; losses to pp. 1–36, 416–421, with some loss of text. Cockling, water damage and stains appear throughout text-block. Cuts/tears to pp. 210–211, 230–231, 243–244, 252–253, 264–265, 270–272; cut along ruling to p. 118; holes in pp. 3–4, 232–233, 360–361, 414–421; minor insect damage to pp. 3–4, 244–249, 372–373, 400–401. Slight loss of marginal text due to trimming. Folios excised at time of production after pp. 162, 248, 250. Much text faded, sometimes to illegibility.

Old repairs

Torn leaves repaired with toned parchment and Japanese paper; fragment of original folio (text includes Mt 8:29) pasted to <I>, fragment of original folio (text includes Mt 3:3–4) pasted over corresponding text on p. 11; slip of paper with replacement for lost original text pasted to p. 20 near fore-edge, now itself torn like surrounding folios.

Binding description

20th-century inboard binding covered in quarter mid-brown tanned calfskin with marbled paper on the sides.

Binding dimensions (mm)

203 x 156 x 73.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same and is the result of repairs during the rebinding. A narrow piece of thin cotton fabric has been adhered along the joint with one stub pasted to the board and the other stub tipped to the first and last leaves of the textblock. Two separate leaves of light-blue, medium-thickness, machine-made wove paper survive from an earlier binding at each end. The inner leaf is tipped on top of the stub as a free endleaf and the outermost leaf is pasted to the board as a separate pastedown at each end.

Left free endleaf is detached. Light discolourations in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block has been resewn on recessed sewing supports with five false bands on the spine. There is evidence of three V-nicks in the spine folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 30, 95, 170 mm from the head of the text-block. It is now sewn all-along on two single-cord supports, with a medium-thickness, single, S-ply, loose twist, natural-colour thread, using three pierced-hole stations at 15, 75, 130 mm from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been retrimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear rounded and worn.

Endbands

Stuck-on, woven endbands in red and green coloured thread, adhered to the head and tail of the spine.

Tooling

The six panels on the spine have a single blind-tooled line at the head and tail of each panel, a gold-tooled title in panel 2 and a gold-tooled shelf mark number in panel 6, both tooled direct.

Colophon(s)

p. <422> (391A): colophon of Laurentios: "Μνή-σθητ<ι> Κ(ύρι)ε τὴν ψυχὴν τοῦ ἀμαρτ<ω>λοῦ Λαυρεντί(ου):-".

Provenance

Acquired by J. D. Carlyle in the islands of the Aegean or the Sea of Marmara 1799–1801, purchased by Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton and deposited in LPL 17 March 1806.

Textual tradition

Gregory-Aland 472; Soden ε1386 (I'); Scrivener 511.

Dating

Style of Laurentios consistent with 11th–early 12th century. Style of Hand B (doing new work to replace lost folios; text breaks off in mid-page at point where next original folio begins) consistent with later 12th century or later. Style of Hand C (doing new work to replace lost folios; surviving fragments of the original folios pasted onto the replacements), suggests 14th–15th century.

Remarks

Described and variant readings collated in MSS. 1223 and 1224.

Script (general characteristics)

Hand A, main text: Square, blocky, very regular mixed minuscule in thick ductus with some bouletée characteristics, slanting slightly to the right, with minimal expansion of letters, very occasional flourishes on bottom line or at line ends, no superscription of word endings, deletions by erasure. Hand A, rubric, chapter lists and supplementary texts: Alexandrine majuscule. Hand A, Gospel headings, minor initials, p. 443 lection:

Epigraphic majuscule. Hand B: Fluid mixed minuscule, upright, with significant variation in letter size, superscription of word endings at line ends only.

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A, mixed minuscule: All minuscule letter forms present; alpha, gamma, mu, nu, sigma, upsilon, psi always minuscule; beta, delta, epsilon, pi, omega usually minuscule; distinctive letter forms: minuscule alpha, delta with loop slightly open at top right; elongated iota with no turn at the foot; distinctive ligatures: ornate beta-alpha with majuscule beta open at the base, loop from lower right spiralling to join alpha from below; tau-omega with tau rising from centre of minuscule omega. Hand B: beta, zeta, lambda, xi, psi always majuscule; mu, nu, sigma, upsilon always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: majuscule beta with large, horizontally extended lower cell, small upper cell; majuscule lambda low relative to main line of text; rho, tau with turn to the left at foot of vertical; distinctive ligatures: epsilon-iota, epsilon-epsilon with angular epsilon; epsilon-sigma with loop of epsilon squashed beneath open sigma.

p. 301 (Hand B)

Diacritics & punctuation

Hand A: Breathings angular and half-angular; circumflexes small but expanded over breathings; mute iota absent or adscript; double dot used functionally only; double grave present on δέ, μὲν, μὴ; use of lower, middle and upper point, lower and middle comma, question mark and full stop; use of single comma (haple) and s-shaped quotation marks; occasional use of hyphen (left margin) to join words across line breaks. Hand B: Breathings round; mute iota absent; double dot used decoratively on iota; use of lower, middle and upper point and middle comma.

Abbreviations

Hand A, mixed minuscule: Nomina sacra (accents absent or separate from strokes, regardless of length); καί; syllabic (rare, at line ends only); horizontal stroke for nu. Hand A, Alexandrine majuscule: Nomina sacra (accents absent or separate from strokes, regardless of length); δέ, ἐστί, καί, κατά, μάρτυς, μετά, παρὰ, περί; syllabic; suspensions. Hand B: Nomina sacra (accents sometimes separate from strokes, sometimes joined); syllabic (rare).

Apparatus

Rubricated headings to summary synaxarion and menologion sections, Gospels and supporting texts (including in menologion the number of days in each month and approximate length of the days and nights); rubricated marginal chapter headings with numbers; rubricated marginal chapter numbers; rubricated marginal lections; rubricated marks in margin or in space left in text at start and end of lections (p. 417: extent of lection text indicated by vertical line of rubricated marginal reference marks); marginal Ammonian section numbers; rubricated marginal canon numbers; numbers to chapter lists; marginal modern chapter references in Latin script, Roman and Arabic numerals in pencil; numbers in gutter to identify initials for rubrication.

Ink

Ornament

Ornate headpieces to summary synaxarion f. IIIr (p. 1) (rectangle filled with intersecting triangles, with palmettes at corners, in gold, red and blue paint), to chapter list p. 263 (rectangle containing bar surrounded by wavy line, with palmettes at corners in gold, red, black and white paint), to Cosmas Indicopleustes excerpt p. 437 (rectangle containing diamond patterns, with palmettes at corners, in gold, red, blue, green and white paint) and to summary menologion p. 581 (rectangle containing alternating rectangles and blocks of four squares, with triangular ornament at corners, in gold, red, blue, green and white paint). Ornate borders around Gospel headings pp. 163, 267, and pyle p. 443 (containing strings of alternating Sasanian palmettes in roundels and flowers, with palmettes and demi-palmettes at corners, in gold, red, blue, green and white paint). Ornate major initials for start of Gospels, in gold, red, blue, green and white paint pp. 163, 267, 443. Simpler major initials for start of Cosmas Indicopleustes excerpts pp. 153 (plain, in gold only), 260 (in gold and red, with space left for other colours to be added), 437 (in same style as p. 260 but completed in gold, red, blue, green and white paint). Simple horizontal bands in gold (rincaux, wavy lines with space fillers and leaf terminals, row of alternating pairs of horizontal and vertical lines, mixtures of s-shapes and s-curves etc.) for start of stichera, chapter lists, Cosmas Indicopleustes excerpts, colophons and summary menologion months pp. 159, 160, 162, 260, 266, 441, 583–595, in red ink pp. 597–598, and in brown ink p. 440. Small rosettes to headings of summary synaxarion section numbers ff. IIIr–Xv (pp. 1–16). Minor initials, sometimes rubricated.

p. 581 (Hand A)

Illustration

Outline drawing of bird in cartouche p. 601.

Text leaves

ff. III-X (pp. 1-16), pp. 1-300, 303-604: medium-thickness parchment, off-white colour, skins arranged with hair-side facing hair-side throughout; pp. 301-302: paper.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(p. 177) 288 x 226.

Text leaf condition

Cockling and pleating appear throughout text-block. Water stains and discolourations in the marginal area of the first gathering and in upper portion of gutter in the later part of the MS. Occasional candle wax on the surface of the leaves. Small tears from edges of ff. III-IV, X (pp. 1-4, 15-16), pp. 49-50, 274-275, 287-288, 315-6; rectangular area cut from foot of pp. 277-278, regular border of discolouration around this suggests formerly patched; cuts to f. X (pp. 15-16), pp. 54-55, 285-286, 401-402; cuts along ruling lines pp. 241-242, 255-256, 265-266. Fore-edge trimmed from pp. 13-14. Folios excised at time of production after pp. 142, 254, 258, 264, 278, 288, 298, 302, 304, 314, 318, 328, 366, 382, 392, 462, 472, 528, 534 (stub of that after p. 254 painted red). Text expunged from rectangular area in corner of p. 265. Red paint smudged on f. Xv (p. 16), pp. 2-3, 72, 162-163, 165-167, 254-255, 358, 428, 430-431, 439-445, 577, blue paint on p. 267.

Old repairs

Occasional leaves were repaired to the margins and to the spine-folds with plain parchment before the book was sewn (pp. 573-606).

Binding description

20th-century inboard binding covered in quarter mid-brown tanned calfskin with marbled paper on the sides.

Binding dimensions (mm)

296 x 244 x 102.

Left endleaves

The endleaf construction is the result of repairs during the rebinding. A light-blue medium-thickness, handmade wove paper survives as a free endleaf from an earlier binding and is tipped to a separate leaf of light-yellow, medium-thickness, machine-made wove paper. A narrow piece of thin cotton fabric has been adhered along the joint with one stub pasted to the board and the other stub tipped to the inner free endleaf. A separate leaf of light-yellow, medium-thickness, machine-made wove paper has been added and pasted to the board as a pastedown.

Right endleaves

The endleaf construction is the result of repairs during the rebinding. A light-blue medium-thickness, handmade wove paper survives as a free endleaf from an earlier binding and is tipped to a separate leaf of light-yellow, medium-thickness, machine-made wove paper. A narrow piece of thin cotton fabric has been adhered along the joint with one stub pasted to the board and the other stub tipped to the inner free endleaf. A separate leaf of light-yellow, medium-thickness, machine-made wove paper has been added and pasted to the board as a pastedown. An endleaf from a previous binding survives in the last gathering (pp. 461–462). It appears to be a single leaf that does not belong to the rest of the text-block and contains numerous worm holes which do not match those in the previous leaf. A stub of ruled parchment has been added after f. 601, with yet another sequence of sewing holes to which the particular leaf has been adhered with both stub and leaf bearing the impression and remnants of leather turn-ins at head, tail and fore-edge. These, together with two manuscript inscriptions on the verso of the final leaf, suggest that they were originally adhered to the inside of a left board.

Endleaf condition

Discolouration, stains, grime, small losses, flaking of ink and limited insect activity.

Sewing

The text-block is re sewn with an unsupported structure, sewn all-along with a medium-thickness, tight S-twist, white thread, using the four V-nicks in the spine folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 15, 110, 195, 245 mm from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been retrimmed. Irregular trimming of tail-edge, with occasional loss of text.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear rounded and lightly stained. Traces of earlier decoration on the tail-edge.

Tooling

A gold-tooled title and a gold-tooled shelf mark number on the spine, both tooled directly.

Provenance

Possibly owned by one Annikia 1170/1. Restored in Kephalos, Kos by the anagnostes Arnados Vergotes from Kos town for the deacon Talouras, note dated 16 Mar 16[73]. Owned by the Monastery of the Holy Trinity on Chalke. Acquired, probably there, by J. D. Carlyle 1799–1801, purchased by Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton and deposited in LPL 17 March 1806.

Textual tradition

Gregory-Aland 473; Soden ε1390 (I K^a); Scrivener 512.

Dating

Style of Hand A consistent with 11th century, earlier than note f. IIIr (p. 1), dated 1170/1. Style of Hand B consistent with 14th–15th century.

Remarks

Described and variant readings collated in MSS. 1223, 1224 and 1255. ff. III–X (pp. 1–16) were apparently separate when acquired by J. D. Carlyle, as indicated by their separate pagination and the appearance of his MS number (I.9) on p. 1 of the main sequence.

Script (general characteristics)

Hand A, main text: Very disciplined upright mixed minuscule Perlschrift with minimal expansion of letters, very occasional flourishes on bottom line or at line ends, no superscript word endings, deletions by erasure or expunctuation with row of dots above word. Hand A, rubric: Alexandrine majuscule. Hand A, Gospel headings, minor initials, p. 443 lection: Epigraphic majuscule. Hand B: Quite informal upright mixed minuscule with significant variation in letter size, superscript word endings at line ends only.

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A, mixed minuscule: All minuscule forms present; alpha, gamma, mu, nu, sigma, upsilon, psi always minuscule; beta, delta, epsilon, pi, omega usually minuscule; distinctive letter forms: minuscule alpha, delta with loop slightly open at top right; elongated iota with no turn at the foot; distinctive ligatures: tau-omega with tau rising from centre of minuscule omega; ornate beta-alpha with majuscule beta open at the base, loop from lower right spiralling to join alpha from below. Hand A, Alexandrine majuscule: nu with diagonal extended beyond right-hand vertical; phi slightly open at top; elongated iota with no turn at foot. Hand B: gamma, mu, nu, sigma, always minuscule; beta, zeta, lambda, xi, psi always majuscule; distinctive letter forms: majuscule beta with large, horizontally extended lower cell, small upper cell; majuscule lambda low relative to main line of text; distinctive

p. 150 (Hand A, Konstantinos)

ligatures: epsilon-iota, epsilon-upsilon with angular epsilon; epsilon-sigma with loop of epsilon squashed beneath open sigma; epsilon-tau with majuscule epsilon with no central stroke.

Diacritics & punctuation

Hand A, mixed minuscule: Breathings angular and half-angular; almost always uses smooth in place of rough breathing; circumflexes small, but expanded over breathings; mute iota absent or adscript; decorative use of double dot on iota and upsilon; use of lower, middle and upper point, lower and middle comma, question mark and full stop; chevron and s-shaped quotation marks; double grave present on δὲ, μὲν, μὴ. Hand A, Alexandrine majuscule: also occasional use of hyphens to merge words. Hand B: Breathings round; mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota; use of lower, middle and upper point and middle comma.

Abbreviations

Hand A, mixed minuscule: Nomina sacra (accents absent or separate from strokes, regardless of length); γὰρ, καί; syllabic (rare, at line ends only); horizontal stroke for nu. Hand A, Alexandrine majuscule: Nomina sacra (accents absent or separate from strokes, regardless of length); δέ, ἐστί, καί, περί, παρὰ, μετά, κατά, μάρτυς; syllabic; suspensions. Hand B: Nomina sacra (accents sometimes separate from strokes, sometimes joined); syllabic (rare).

Apparatus

Rubricated marginal chapter headings with numbers; rubricated marginal chapter numbers; marginal Ammonian section numbers; rubricated marginal lections; rubricated interlinear marks at start and end of lections; rubricated headings for chapter lists; rubricated numbers in chapter lists; marginal modern chapter references in Roman numerals, in pencil.

Ornament

Pylai for start of Gospels pp. 67, 149, 289, in red ink, containing palmette and demi-palmette foliage (p. 289 architectural). Major initials for start of Gospels pp. 67, 149, 289, in red ink (p. 149 includes fish and blessing hand). Simple plaits for start of chapter lists pp. 65, 146, 288, in red ink (all of the above in different ink from rubric). Simple horizontal bands in brown ink above and below note on composition of Gospel of Mark p. 66 (rows of s-curves, comma shapes etc). Rubricated minor initials. Stars in ink accompanying lection notes by Hand B pp. 23, 117, 321. Doodle in black ink p. 262.

Text leaves

Medium-thickness parchment, off-white colour; skins arranged with hair-side facing hair-side throughout.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(p. 31) 215 x 165.

Text leaf condition

Cockling appears throughout text-block. Leaves in the first and last gatherings are worn and abraded. Grime, dirt, water stains and discolourations in the marginal area of the gatherings. Losses to pp. 1–2, 35–36, 45–46, 49–50, 87–88, 233–234, 273–274, 295–296, 307–308, sometimes with some loss of text; cuts/tears to edges of pp. 1–16, 25–26, 41–42, 49–50, 75–76, 125–128, 131–134, 169–178, 191–192, 225–226, 257–258, 271–272, 279–280, 289–290, 323–324, 349–352. Folios excised at time of production after pp. 46, 52, 124, 130, 340.

Binding description

20th-century inboard binding covered in quarter mid-brown tanned calfskin with marbled paper on the sides.

Binding dimensions (mm)

228 x 183 x 65.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same and is the result of repairs during the rebinding. A light-blue medium-thickness, handmade wove paper survives as a free endleaf from an earlier binding at each end and is tipped to a separate leaf of light-yellow, medium-thickness, machine-made wove paper. A narrow piece of thin, cotton fabric has been adhered along the joint with one stub pasted to the board and the other stub tipped to the inner free endleaf at each end. A separate leaf of light-yellow, medium-thickness, machine-made, wove paper has been added and pasted to the board as a pastedown.

Light discolourations in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block is resewn with an unsupported structure, sewn all-along with a medium-thickness, tight S-twist, white thread, using the five V-nicks in the spine folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 35, 65, 115, 160, 195 mm from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been retrimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear rounded and worn.

Tooling

A gold-tooled title and a gold-tooled shelf mark number on the spine, both tooled directly.

Script (general characteristics)

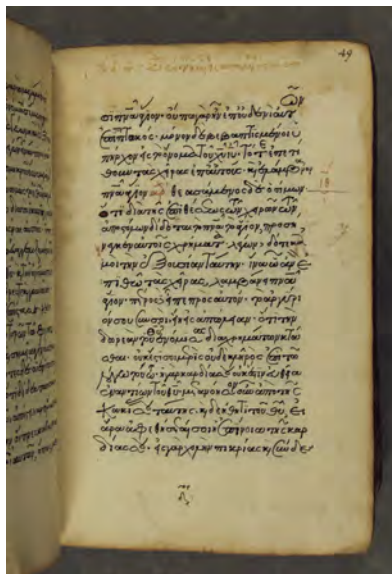

Hand A, main text: Large regular upright mixed minuscule with limited expansion of letters, flourished tails at line ends, superscript word endings at line ends only, deletions by strikethrough in red ink. Hand A, rubric: Alexandrine majuscule. Hand B: Somewhat unsteady mixed minuscule, slanted slightly to the right, with considerable expansion of letters, occasional flourished tails in bottom row, common superscript word endings, deletions by strikethrough in red ink.

p. 210 (Hand A)

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A, mixed minuscule: xi, psi always majuscule; nu, upsilon always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: majuscule alpha with narrow loop with parallel sides; minuscule eta with short ascender; iota with doubled ascender; low minuscule kappa with curved base, ascender slanting right and club at top; wide majuscule kappa; majuscule mu with undulating tail to left at start of line; bulbous open rho; distinctive ligatures: epsilon-nu with long half-epsilon joining minuscule nu at base of descender; split epsilon-nu with long upper part of epsilon extending well beyond lower part to left, joining minuscule nu at base of descender; split epsilon-pi with upper part well short of end of lower part on left; split omicron-upsilon with broad, flattened upper part with long tail to right; tau-omicron with omicron joined to end of curving horizontal of tau and narrowing to a point at junction. Hand B: kappa, psi always majuscule; mu, nu always minuscule; long-bowed beta present; distinctive letter forms: heart-shaped majuscule beta, sharply turned to left so that thick looped divider between cells is diagonal or vertical; majuscule delta with long curving ascender; majuscule epsilon with bar on central stroke; majuscule kappa with diagonals joined by loop to left of vertical; minuscule lambda with horizontal joined to down-turn from top of upright; minuscule xi with large upper curve; minuscule sigma with tail curving down to base of main line of text; phi with loop pointed to left, curved to right; distinctive ligatures: ligatures with long half-epsilon; epsilon-xi with half-epsilon in main line of text curving up to join minuscule xi at top; tau-omicron with omicron replacing right-hand part of curving horizontal of tau and narrowing to point at junction.

p. 49 (Hand B)

Diacritics & punctuation

Hand A: Breathings round; some circumflexes double-curved; mute iota occasionally subscript, otherwise absent; decorative use of double dot on iota and upsilon; use of middle and upper point, lower and middle comma, question mark and full stop; double comma quotation mark (diple); double grave present on δέ, μὲν, μὴ; horizontal strokes over personal names; use of hyphen to merge words. Hand B: Breathings round; circumflexes small, but enlarged over breathings; mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on upsilon; use of middle and upper point, lower and middle comma, question mark and full stop; single comma quotation mark (haple); double grave present on ἀν, δέ, ἐπεὶ, καὶ, μὲν, μὴ; horizontal strokes over personal names; occasional use of hyphen (right or right and left margin) to join words across line breaks.

Abbreviations

Hand A: Nomina sacra (accents separate from strokes); δέ, καί, φασί; syllabic (usually at line ends only); horizontal stroke for nu. Hand B: Nomina sacra (accents sometimes separate from strokes, sometimes joined); δέ, καί, περὶ; syllabic (throughout line); horizontal stroke for nu.

Apparatus

Rubricated headings for books and supporting texts; rubricated lection notes, marginal and in line of text; pp. 69, 75, 77, 791–793: marginal modern chapter and verse numbers, Roman and Arabic numerals, in dark brown ink; marginal modern chapter numbers, Roman numerals, in pencil; modern marginal notes of missing and transposed folios, in English, in pencil.

p. 304 (Hand A)

Ink

Hand A: mid-brown and dark red; Hand B: black, red-brown and bright red; Hand C: bright red; Hand D: black; Hand E: pale brown; Hand F: grey; Hand G: mid-brown; Hand H: mid-brown; Hand I: black; Hand J: pale brown; Hand K: dark brown; Hand L: mid-brown; Hand M: pale brown; Hand N: black; Hand O: pale brown; Hand P: mid-brown; Hand Q: black; J. D. Carlyle: grey-brown; Charles Burney: mid-brown; Hand T: pencil.

Ornament

Headpiece for start of text p. 1: rectangular block of plaiting, with leaf ornament at corners, in black with red paint infill. Headpieces for start of books pp. 9, 207 (p. 9: rubricated rectangular block containing rinceau with palmettes, with leaf ornament at corners; p. 207: rubricated rectangular block containing medallions with flowers). Rubricated initials for sections, with scroll ornament pp. 3, 9, 753, 760, 791–793. Plait line-fillers and marginal decorations pp. 1–2, 7, 753, 757, 760, 765–777, 779–781, 783–784, 786–790 (plaits in rectangular surround, plaits in rectangular surround with one leaf terminal, spiked plaits, spiked quatrefoil plaits, bars with multiple spiked quatrefoils, small cruciform designs with spiked plaits etc.), in red ink or (pp. 775–777, 779–780, 786–790) in black ink and red infill or red ink and black infill. Simple bands of horizontal ornament precede sections pp. 194, 200, 286, 290, 364, 367, 421, 436, 439, 466, 468, 487, 489, 507, 510, 527, 530, 539, 542, 563, 566, 581, 583, 592–593, 597, 602, 665, 667, 687, 689, 713, 728, 732, 754 (wavy lines with space-fillers, rows of comma marks, s-shapes etc., with leaf terminals), in brown and red ink. Rubricated minor initials. Rubricated epigraphic majuscule for headings of books. Later crude incised decoration p. 206: elliptical border containing medallions and small circles. Crude later quatrefoil and partial quatrefoil designs p. 730, in black ink. Crude abstract designs in black ink pp. 241, 281, 365, 580, 610–611, 658. Crude abstract designs (pen trials?) in mid-brown ink pp. 277, 288, 388, 460, 464, 608. Frequent small crosses in upper margin, in black ink.

p. 1 (Hand B)

Illustration

Crude outline drawing of bird with human face p. 395, in black ink, partially erased. Crude outline drawing of tubular figure with human face p. 592, in black ink, partially erased.

Text leaves

pp. 1–68, 75–76, 755–794: medium-thickness handmade laid paper with fish watermark; pp. 69–74, 77–754: handmade wove paper. Do not resemble known Western European papers.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(pp. 25–26) 262 x 163.

Text leaf condition

Single folios missing after pp. 368, 376; pp. 453–478 bound out of order (correct order: pp. 457–458, 455–456, 453–454, 463–464, 461–462, 459–460, 465–466, 467–470, 473–474, 471–472, 477–478, 475–476). Water damage appears throughout text-block. Leaves are ragged and stained in the marginal area especially in the last gatherings. Tears to edges of pp. 1–2, 47–48, 53–56, 65–66, 135–136, 145–146, 255–256, 321–324, 355–356, 361–362; small holes in pp. 133–134, 189–190, 253–254, 289–290, 359–360, 371–372, 551–554, 557–558, 617–618, 665–666, 695–696; rodent damage to pp. 299–304; limited insect activity in pp. 5–16, 33–38, 641–794, more substantial in pp. 741–794.

Old repairs

Occasional leaves were repaired with plain paper to the margins and spine-folds and overcasting appears in ff. 49–69 and in the last gatherings.

Binding description

Greek-style binding covered in tanned goatskin and decorated with blind tooling.

Binding dimensions (mm)

280 x 194 x 125.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same. Probably sewn double-fold endleaves of white handmade paper with the outermost leaf at each end pasted to the boards. Only torn paper stubs and a pastedown on each board now remain.

Endleaf condition

Losses, stains, tears and discolouration.

Sewing

The text-block is resewn with an unsupported structure, sewn all-along with a single, medium-thickness, tight S-twist, natural-colour thread, using four V-nicks in the spine-folds at 35, 100, 170, 230 mm from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Spine linings

An overall lining of one layer of natural-colour, plain woven textile is visible and covers the full length of the spine and extends onto the outside of the boards.

Spine lining condition

The lining is complete and intact on the spine and the boards.

Boards and board attachment

9mm wooden boards, the same size as the text-block with U-shaped edge grooves cut into the head, tail and fore-edges of the boards, run round the corners. It is not clear whether the attachment is integral with the sewing or is made by separate bridling.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been retrimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear rounded and worn and have been blackened by dirt.

Endbands

Greek-style projecting two-core primary endbands sewn to the boards with oblique sewing on the lower core and perpendicular sewing on the upper. Both cores are made from the same cord and are sewn with a plain, natural-colour thread. There is no secondary sewing.

Endband condition

Both head- and tailbands are attached to the book-block but the headband upper core is partially broken across the spine.

Covering

Full cover of mid-brown tanned goatskin. The turn-ins are untrimmed, irregular in size and shape and the corners have butt mitres.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions and missing areas in the covering material with limited insect damage. The covering skin has developed a blackened surface with a mixture of dirt and grease. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached to the boards.

Tooling

The cover has a blind-tooled decoration with four small hand tools and fillets. The sides are tooled in blind with a three-line border frame containing a saltire cross, a lozenge and a single horizontal line, all created with the same three-line tool. The compartments in the design are filled with the impressions of small tools. There is a later gold-tooled title on the spine.

Furniture & fastenings

Originally the book had a pair of triple tanned-skin straps attached to the fore-edge of the right board, fastening onto two edge pins in the left board.

Furniture & fastenings condition

The triple holes drilled for the straps remain empty in the right board. All fastenings, straps, clasps, and edge pins are now completely missing.

Bookmarks

A primary marker fastened under the headband core consisting of natural-colour threads plied together. No evidence of the secondary marker.

By pages, recto only, top right, Arabic numerals, grey-brown ink, with errors (one unnumbered folio after p. 82, so numbers too small by two thereafter; 99 appears twice in succession, so numbers too small by four thereafter; 275–278 omitted, so numbers correct thereafter; one unnumbered folio after p. 362, so numbers too small by two thereafter); pp. 413–445, 465–467: by pages, recto only, bottom right, Arabic numerals, grey-brown ink, giving correct sequence of incorrectly bound folios; pp. 5–99 bis: by folios, right margin (sometimes replicated on repair patches), Greek numerals, black ink and pencil.

Quire numbers

At end of each quire, verso, bottom centre (sometimes replicated on repair patches), Greek numerals, black ink or pencil, discounting initial bifolio; numbers of earlier quire sequence, at beginning and end of each quire, recto at beginning, verso at end, bottom centre or centre-right, Greek numerals, pale brown ink; ordinal numbers of folios in each quire, recto (p.2 verso), bottom centre, bottom right or lower right margin, Greek numerals, grey-brown ink, with occasional duplication and corrections.

Columns & lines

Single column, 27 lines.

Script (general characteristics)

Theophanes, main text: Ornate calligraphic up-right mixed minuscule with considerable, sometimes extravagant expansion of letters and flamboyant flourishes into margins, many elaborate ligatures, common superscription of word endings, abbreviations sometimes very large. Theophanes, chapter lists and rubric: Alexandrine majuscule.

Script (letters & ligatures)

Theophanes, mixed minuscule: All minuscule forms present; upsilon always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: minuscule alpha with tail curving back below letter; majuscule beta with elongated lower loop pointed at top right; minuscule gamma strongly inclined to the left; very large half-epsilon in main line of text; theta with curvaceous downward horizontal; majuscule kappa with doubled ascender; angular, kinked minuscule nu; minuscule pi with left-hand cell greatly

p. 340 (Theophanes) elongated downwards, sometimes from base of right-hand cell; enlarged minuscule upsilon curving sharply inwards; large undulating minuscule upsilon; chi with long downturn on up-left diagonal; majuscule omega with base bent downward on each side; distinctive ligatures: epsilon-alpha with central stroke of majuscule epsilon curving down to join alpha from below to the right; epsilon-xi with half-epsilon forming upper curve of xi; epsilon-pi, epsilon-tau with epsilon without central stroke, not touching horizontal of following letter; epsilon-sigma with central stroke of majuscule epsilon curving down to join open-backed sigma; sigma-omicron-iota with downward tail of sigma becoming omicron, curving round to join iota within it; sigma-epsilon with minuscule sigma with downward tail, superscript majuscule epsilon; split epsilon-tau with upper part extending markedly to the left of lower part; omega-nu with descender of minuscule nu passing through flat-bottomed majuscule omega.

Diacritics & punctuation

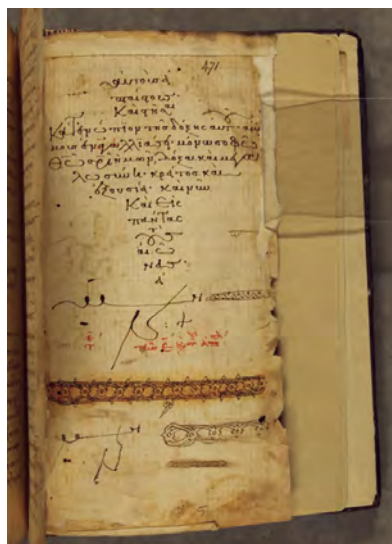

Theophanes: Breathings round; circumflexes joined to letters and abbreviations (ὦν); mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota and upsilon; use of lower, middle and upper point, lower comma, question mark and full stop; single comma quotation mark (haple); double grave present on δέ, μέν, μή; horizontal strokes over personal names; occasional use of hyphen (left margin) to join words across line breaks.

Abbreviations

Theophanes: Nomina sacra (accents separate from strokes); γάρ, δέ, καί, μετά, περί; syllabic (throughout line); horizontal stroke for nu.

Apparatus

Rubricated headings to books, chapter lists and hypotheses; rubricated marginal ancient chapter numbers; rubricated marginal modern chapter headings; marginal modern chapter numbers; rubricated marginal modern chapter subdivision numbers; rubricated marginal lection notes; marginal modern chapter numbers to chapter lists; rubricated marginal modern chapter subdivision numbers to chapter lists; rubricated marginal date numbers to summary menologion; pp. 12–14: rubricated marginal ordinal numbers to list of citations; marginal modern chapter numbers, Roman numerals, pencil.

Ornament

Pyle precedes start of main text p. 24, containing rinceaux, with vegetative ornament at corners, in red ink. Headpieces precede main text of books pp. 147, 191, 233, 263, 282, 299, 326, 338, 346, 357, 365 (p. 147: rectangle containing rinceaux and medallions containing vegetative ornament of various types, with leaf ornament at corners and on top; pp. 191, 233, 263, 282, 338, 357: rectangles containing rinceaux, with leaf ornament at corners and sometimes on top; pp. 299, 326: rinceau with trefoil leaves or demi-palmettes; pp. 346, 365: spiked plaits, p. 346 with vegetative terminals), in red ink, pp. 147, 191 with some black infill, probably later. Initials for start of books and hypotheses pp. 24, 142, 147, 191, 232–233, 261, 263, 281–282, 298–299, 312–313, 324, 326, 338, 344, 346, 355, 374, 376, 411, 422, 424, 440, 446, 449, 462, 464–465, 468, with vegetative ornament, in red ink. Headings for books in epigraphic majuscule. Simple horizontal bands of rubricated ornament and/or line-fillers precede/accompany start of sections pp. 1, 11, 17, 141–142, 189, 230–231, 261, 280–281, 298–299, 311–313, 324, 343–344, 355, 370, 374, 376, 409–411, 422, 438–440, 445–446, 449, 461–462, 464–465, 467–468 (solid bar with small crossbars, with dots or vegetative ornament at terminals, wavy line or broken wavy line with space fillers, or series of such bars or wavy lines, rows of s-shapes, s-curves with space-fillers, with vegetative ornament at terminals; some line-fillers comprise only vegetative terminal). Two later spiked plaits follow end of text p. 471, in brown ink, one with red and grey infill. Rubricated minor initials.

f. 338r (Theophanes)

Illustration

Simple outline drawing of a pair of eyes p. 472.

Text leaves

Medium-thickness handmade paper with faint laid and chain lines that does not resemble known Western European papers.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(pp. 25–26) 252 × 173.

Text leaf condition

Seven folios missing at start of MS; folios bound in incorrect order, probably subsequent to numbering of folio sequences of quires (which follow the correct order of the text), but prior to modern page numbering: pp. 161–166 (correct order: 165–166, 163–164, 161–162), pp. 205–208 (correct order: 207–208, 205–206), pp. 241–254 (correct order 243–244, 241–242, 247–248, 245–246, 249–250, 253–254, 251–252), pp. 415–444 (correct order: 431–444, 415–430), pp. 465–468 (correct order: 467–468, 465–466). Leaves are worn and abraded. Tears to pp. 165–166, 171–172, 183–184, 201–202, 207–208, 211–212, 287–288, 291–292, 295–298, 301–304, 307–308, 333–334, 397–400, 413–414, 463–464, especially pp. 333–334; small holes in pp. 181–182, 287–288, 325–328; minor insect activity in pp. 41–66, 161–174, 385–388, 411–452, more substantial in pp. 175–192, 349–384, 401–410. Partial loss of marginal notes due to heavy trimming appears throughout text-block. Stains and discolourations in the marginal area of the leaves and especially in the first and last gatherings.

Old repairs

Leaves were repaired to the margins and spine-folds with plain paper before the book was sewn.

Binding description

Greek-style binding covered in tanned goatskin and decorated with blind tooling that has been re-backed, not contemporary with the text.

Binding dimensions (mm)

273 x 195 x 110.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same. Sewn double-fold endleaves of beige handmade laid paper, with the outermost leaf at each end pasted to the boards, added during recent conservation work.

Sewing

The text-block has been resewn all-along during recent conservation work on four recessed single cord supports with a single, waxed, medium-thickness, S-twist, white thread, using the four V-nicks in the spine-folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 35, 102, 175, 230 mm from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Spine linings

The spine has been repaired and due to a heavy application of adhesive the material and number of layers of the linings cannot be identified.

Boards and board attachment

13 mm wooden boards, the same size as the text-block with square edges. The support slips have been laced through the boards.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been retrimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear worn and the head-edge appears to have been blackened by dirt.

Endbands

Greek-style projecting endbands sewn to the boards. The two cores are of a plain thread S-twist cord of medium thickness and natural colour, and the secondary sewing is executed in red, green, blue and yellow silk threads.

Endband condition

Both head- and tailbands are damaged. The coloured silk threads of their secondary sewing have been worn away and small parts of the cores are released and have been secured with white linen thread during recent conservation work.

Covering

Originally covered in full black tanned skin, subsequently re-backed with new black tanned skin. The original turn-ins are irregular in size and shape, and the corners have open-mitres.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions and lacerations. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached to the boards.

Tooling

The cover has a blind-tooled decoration with a small hand tool and fillets. The sides have four concentric, approximately rectangular frames tooled in blind with a three-line tool. The impressions are visible but the surface of the leather is heavily pressed and damaged. There is a later gold-tooled title on the spine.

Furniture & fastenings

Originally the book had a triple-tanned skin strap attached to the fore-edge of the right board, which fastened onto an edge pin in the left board.

Furniture & fastenings condition

The triple holes drilled for the strap remain empty in the right board. All fastenings, strap, clasp, and edge pin are now completely missing.

Colophon(s)

p. 472: colophon of Theophanes, dating his completion of the manuscript to Wed 23 May 1358: “+ Ἐργ<άφη> ἐν ἔτει ,ΖΩΕΖ’ (Ἰνδικτιῶνος) ΙΑ’ Θεοῦ τὸ δῶρον καὶ πόνος Θεοφάνους· + Γόνυ μὲν ζεύξας καὶ ὑποκλίνας κάραν, χεῖρας ἐκτείνας πρὸς τὰς θείας τετράδας, ἐκπεπλήρωκα τὴν θεόδοτον δέλτον: + Μὴν Μάϊος. Notes & marks of ownership

Other notes

p. 472: conversion of colophon's AM date to AD: “Εἰς τ(οὺς) ,ΑΤΝΗ’ Μαῖω ΚΓ’ ἡ<μέρα> Δ’>”; pasted to right pastedown: erroneous calculation of the date 1356 AD from 6866 AM, giving 1350 AD; Gregory of Nazianzus, Carmina moralia, part (PG 37, cols. 908–909, lines 1–3): “Ἀχὴν ἀπαντ(ων) κ(αὶ) τέλος ποιού Θε(ὸ)ν· βί<ου> τὸ κέρδος ἐκβιοῦν καθημεραν· γινω<σκε>”.

Provenance

Acquired by J. D. Carlyle in the islands of the Aegean or the Sea of Marmara 1799–1801, purchased by Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton and deposited in LPL 17 March 1806.

Textual tradition

Gregory-Aland 216; Soden α469 (I^b); Scrivener 183.

Dating

Dated by colophon to Wed 23 May 1358.

Script (general characteristics)

Hand A, main text: Upright mixed minuscule with negligible expansion of letters, superscript word endings throughout line, but quite rare except in contents list, deletions by erasure; text on pp. 219–221 very small. Hand A, heading p. 6: Constantinopolitan majuscule. Hand B: Somewhat irregular mixed minuscule with variable slant, with moderate expansion of letters, superscript word endings at line ends only. Hand C: Somewhat irregular mixed minuscule, slanted slightly to the right, with negligible expansion of letters, superscript word endings at line ends only, text on pp. 279–280 markedly larger and more widely spaced. Hand D: Regular mixed minuscule, upright or slanted slightly to the left, without expansion of letters, superscript word endings at line ends only. Hand E: Regular mixed minuscule, upright or slanted slightly to the left, with significant expansion of letters, superscript word endings at line ends only, deletions by erasure or expunctuation with ring of dots. Hand F: Regular mixed minuscule, upright or slanted slightly to the left, with significant expansion of letters, superscript word endings at line ends only. Hand G: Very square regular mixed minuscule, upright, with moderate expansion of letters,

p. 222 (Hands C, AA, AB)

modest flourishes at line ends and occasionally on bottom line, superscript word endings at line ends only, abbreviations occasionally very large.

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A, mixed minuscule: xi always majuscule; mu, upsilon always minuscule; long-bowed beta present; distinctive letter forms: majuscule beta with upright slanting to the right; long-bowed beta with bottom of upper loop at base of main line of text; majuscule epsilon, theta with bar on central stroke; minuscule lambda with horizontal joined to diagonal near base (p. 124); phi with bulbous upper loop; distinctive ligatures: gamma-alpha with right-hand part of minuscule gamma as horizontal, turning up to join alpha from below to the right (p. 188); sharp-angled epsilon-iota; epsilon-pi with line descending vertically from top of minuscule epsilon to form first vertical of majuscule pi. Hand B: zeta, xi always majuscule; upsilon always minuscule; short eta present; distinctive letter forms: majuscule beta with elongated lower cell; minuscule pi with incomplete division between cells, left cell elongated downwards,

p. 266 (Hand D)

bulbous right cell. Hand C: zeta, kappa, lambda, mu, xi always majuscule; nu, upsilon always minuscule; short eta present; distinctive letter forms: minuscule eta with left-hand side of base raised above main line of text; minuscule nu elongated downwards to form a point. Hand D: beta, zeta, lambda, xi, psi always majuscule; alpha, sigma, upsilon always minuscule; long-bowed beta, short eta, sigma telikon present; distinctive letter forms: majuscule lambda with minimal ascender; distinctive ligatures: upsilon-pi with upsilon shaped so as to join majuscule pi at foot but not actually connected. Hand E: beta, zeta, eta, xi, psi always majuscule; upsilon always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: majuscule beta with loops tilted markedly to left; wide theta, sometimes with bar on central stroke; majuscule kappa with long upward and short downward diagonal; psi with bar on ascender; flat-bottomed majuscule omega; distinctive ligatures: mu-epsilon-nu with elongated line joining mu to nu, also joined by half-epsilon. Hand F: beta, zeta, xi, psi always majuscule; mu, nu, upsilon, omega always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: wide theta; psi with bar across ascender; distinctive ligatures: epsilon-epsilon with wide upsilon; sharp-pointed epsilon-iota. Hand G: eta, psi always majuscule; delta, mu, nu, sigma, upsilon always minuscule; majuscule beta always long-bowed; distinctive letter forms: majuscule alpha with very long loop; minuscule alpha with flourished tail curving back below letter; initial-style majuscule epsilon formed of semi-circle with three strokes in normal text; minuscule epsilon with vertical ascender; very square minuscule zeta; very square minuscule xi; chi with both lower diagonals inclining upwards; distinctive ligatures: epsilon-pi with central stroke of majuscule epsilon joining minuscule pi at base; alpha-iota-sigma with alpha joined to upper part of long iota, open minuscule sigma joined from centre of it (p. 317); epsilon-upsilon with wide upsilon.

Diacritics & punctuation

Hand A: Breathings half-angular and round, very occasionally angular; circumflexes joined to abbreviations (ὦν); mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota; use of lower, middle and upper point, lower and middle comma, question mark and full stop; single comma quotation mark (haple); double grave present on δέ, μέν, μὴ.

Hand B: Breathings round; mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota; use of middle point, lower and middle comma and full stop.

Hand C: Breathings half-angular and round; mute iota absent or subscript; decorative use of double dot on iota and upsilon; use of middle point, lower comma and question mark; double grave present on ἐπεὶ. Hand D: Breathings round; acute accents joined to letters, circumflexes joined to abbreviations (ὦν); mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota; use of lower, middle and upper point, lower and middle comma, question mark and full stop; double grave present on μὴ.

Hand E: Breathings round; acute accents joined to letters, circumflexes sometimes double-curved; mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota and upsilon; use of middle and upper point, lower comma and question mark; double grave present on ἐπεὶ; occasional use of hyphen to join words across line breaks. Hand F: Breathings round; mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota; use of lower, middle and upper point, lower comma and question mark. Hand G: Breathings angular; circumflexes often wide; circumflexes joined to letters and abbreviations (ὦν); mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota, upsilon and eta (p. 318); use of middle and upper point, lower and middle comma and full stop.

Abbreviations

Hand A: Nomina sacra (accents usually separate from strokes, occasionally joined); ἐπί (in contents list only), καί (with accent crossing ascender); syllabic (throughout line). Hand B: γάρ, δέ, καί; horizontal stroke for nu (including in mid-line). Hand C: Nomina sacra (accents separate

Ornament

Major initial to start of Acts p. 6, in red and black ink. Major initial to start of 1 John p. 144, in red ink. Headpieces to books pp. 6, 165, 170, 212, 291, 307 and at conclusion of book p. 169: plaits in brown ink, pp. 291, 307 with bright red infill. Line-fillers accompany start of books, chapter lists etc. pp. 161, 320, 342–343, 354, 362, 366, 399: demi-palmettes etc., in brown ink, all with red infill except p. 161. Simple line-fillers precede start of colophons, chapter lists, months etc. pp. 328, 364, 401, 407: rows of s-shapes and pairs of horizontal bars, with vegetative terminals, in brown and red ink. Rubricated minor initials.

Text leaves

Medium-thickness Western handmade paper, two types (pp. 1–222, 281–404 and pp. 223–280, 405–418).

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(pp. 1–2) 210 x 141.

Text leaf condition

Folios missing after pp. 12, 48, 60, 230, 256, 312, 358; pp. 51–52 bound in backwards. Losses to pp. 179–186, 415–418; tears to edges of pp. 1–2, 5–14, 31–32, 39–42, 48–50, 107–108, 119–122, 159–160, 188–189, 203–204, 213–216, 221–222, 229–232, 291–292, 345–346, 353–354, 357–358, 363–366, 379–380, 401–406; limited insect activity throughout, more substantial to pp. 75–90, 291–312. Water stains and discolourations in the marginal area (pp. 1–59, 275–405). Occasional drops of candle wax on the surface of the leaves. Some marginal text lost to trimming.

Old repairs

Occasional leaves were repaired to the spine-folds with plain paper before the book was sewn.

Binding description

20th-century inboard binding covered in quarter mid-brown tanned calfskin with marbled paper on the sides.

Binding dimensions (mm)

225 x 161 x 59.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same and is the result of repairs during the rebinding. A light blue medium-thickness, handmade wove paper leaf survives as a free endleaf from an earlier binding at each end. A narrow piece of thin cotton fabric has been adhered along the joint with one stub pasted to the board and the other stub tipped to the free endleaf at each end. A separate leaf of light yellow, medium-thickness, machine-made wove paper has been added and pasted to the board as a separate pastedown at each end.

Light staining and discolourations in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block has been resewn on recessed sewing supports with five false bands on the spine. It is sewn all-along with a medium-thickness, tight S-twist, white thread, using the four V-nicks in the spine folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 20, 65, 146, 185 mm from the head of the text-block. There is evidence of another sewing in the spine folds of ff. 414–415 using four stations at 35, 74, 125, 166 mm from the head of the text-block. Due to a heavy application of adhesive and restricted opening it was difficult to examine the sewing structure.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been retrimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear rounded and lightly stained.

Endbands

Primary endbands worked without a bead in plain thread over plain cord cores and secondary sewing in pink and beige silk with a front bead. Due to a heavy application of adhesive and restricted opening it was difficult to examine the frequency of tie-downs.

Endband condition

Remnants of adhesive, staining and accumulation of dirt.

Tooling

The six panels on the spine have a single blind-tooled line at the head and tail of each panel, a gold-tooled title in panel 2 and a gold-tooled shelf mark number in panel 4, both tooled directly.

Bookmarks

A loose, simple bookmark of a tight twist, S-ply, natural-colour, thin, double thread (ff. 224–225).

Provenance

Owned by a certain Diamantes. Owned by a certain Ioannes. Owned by the Church of the Prodomos on Antigone. Acquired, probably there, by J. D. Carlyle 1799–1801, purchased by Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton and deposited in LPL 17 March 1806.

Textual tradition

Gregory-Aland 642; Soden α552 (I^a); Scrivener 185.

Dating

Style of Hands A–F consistent with 14th century.

Remarks

The changes in the size of text and corrections at the end of the sections by Hand A (pp. 219–221) and Hand D (pp. 279–280) suggest a collaborative production with each scribe assigned a portion of the text and number of quires, with poor coordination. Hand A apparently had to fit additional text into a small space on additional pages, on a different occasion from the main element of the work done by this scribe, using different ink and paper. Hand C stretched the last portion of the assigned text to fill the available space in the scribe's last quire. An error in coordination appears to have led to the duplication on p. 281, at the beginning of the section by Hand E, of the final verses copied by Hand D; this prompted the striking through of p. 281. While nearly all the text on p. 281 duplicates that copied by Hand D, the final words continue beyond the end of the text copied by that hand; Hand D has therefore copied these again above Hand E's text (subsequently overwritten by Hand F) on p. 282.

By folios, recto, top right, Arabic numerals, pencil, very discontinuous with errors: 1, 2, 10, 13, 18, 20, 23 appear correctly; 40 appears one folio too early; 50 appears correctly; 60 appears one folio too early; 70 appears two folios too early; 78, 100 appear three folios too early; 140 appears six folios too early; 150, 151 appear five folios too early.

Quire numbers

At beginning of each quire, recto, top right, Greek numerals, mid-brown ink by Hand A, mostly lost to trimming (f. 46r: ΚΓ'; f. 62r: ΚΕ'; f. 70r: ΚΖ'; f. 118r: ΛΒ').

Columns & lines

Single column, 23 lines.

Script (general characteristics)

Hand A, main text: Somewhat square, regular upright mixed minuscule with minimal expansion of letters, some slight flourishes on alpha and eta at line ends, without superscript word endings, deletion by erasure. Hand A, rubric, headings, hypotheses and colophons: Alexandrine majuscule, superscript word endings common.

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A, mixed minuscule: zeta, xi always majuscule; the only other majuscule forms present are alpha, gamma, kappa, mu, nu; distinctive letter forms: wide minuscule gamma, joined low down; minuscule eta with short ascender and base markedly distinct from ascender, sometimes broad; phi with long descender; hooks on mu, nu, rho, phi.

Diacritics & punctuation

Hand A: Breathings angular; circumflexes small, do not appear above breathings; mute iota usually absent, otherwise adscript; use of double dot functional only; use of lower, middle and upper point, question mark and full stop; chevron quotation mark for biblical citations, horizontal bar with dot above and below for classical citations; Nomina sacra strokes decorated with x-mark.

Abbreviations

Hand A, mixed minuscule: Nomina sacra (accents absent); καί; horizontal stroke for nu. Hand A, Alexandrine majuscule: Nomina sacra (accents absent); καί, περί; syllabic (throughout line); suspensions.

Ornament

Simple horizontal ornament precedes hypotheses and books, line-fillers at end of books (rows of horizontal or vertical bars, asterisks, s-curves with space-fillers, s-shapes etc., sometimes with leaf terminals), in mid-brown and blue ink. Minor initials for start of books, in mid-brown and blue ink. Scraps of crude later marginal ornament (plaits etc.) ff. 37v, 38v, 39r, in black ink. Crude later marginal ornament f. 44v, in pale grey-brown ink. Red stripe across tail-edge.

Illustration

Simple outline drawing of a face f. 18r.

Text leaves

Medium-thickness parchment, off-white colour; skins arranged with hair-side facing hair-side throughout.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(f. 2) 202 x 155.

Text leaf condition

First 16 quires missing. Cockling and stains appear throughout text-block and especially in ff. 144–151. Small losses and tears to edges of ff. 1, 6–12, 21, 31, 52, 121, 125, 139, 145–146, 149–150; small holes in f. 50; fore-edge of f. 65 closely trimmed.

Old repairs

Occasional leaves were repaired with sewing thread (f. 129).

Binding description

20th-century inboard binding covered in quarter mid-brown tanned calfskin with marbled paper on the sides.

Binding dimensions (mm)

211 x 176 x 59.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same and is the result of repairs during the re-binding. A narrow piece of thin cotton fabric has been adhered along the joint with one stub pasted to the board and the other stub tipped to the first and last leaves of the text-block. Two separate leaves of light yellow, medium-thickness, machine-made wove paper have been added. The inner leaf is tipped on top of the stub as a free endleaf and the outermost leaf is pasted to the board as a separate pastedown at each end.

Light staining and discolourations in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block has been resewn on recessed sewing supports with five false bands on the spine. There is evidence of three V-nicks in the spine folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 45, 95, 155 mm from the head of the text-block. It is now sewn with a medium-thickness, single, S-ply, loose twist white thread, using five pierced-hole stations at 10, 45, 95, 155, 185 mm from the head of the text-block. Due to a heavy application of adhesive and restricted opening it was difficult to examine the sewing structure.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is broken in the left side and the first gathering is detached.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut and have been retrimmed. Traces of earlier red colour decoration on the head-edge.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear rounded, worn and have been blackened by dirt and grime.

Endbands

Primary endbands worked without a bead in plain thread and secondary sewing in pink and purple silk with a front bead. Due to a heavy application of adhesive and restricted opening it was difficult to examine the cores and the frequency of tie-downs.

Endband condition

Remnants of adhesive, staining and accumulation of dirt.

Tooling

The six panels on the spine have a single blind-tooled line at the head and tail of each panel, a gold-tooled title in panel 2 and a gold-tooled shelf mark number in panel 6, both tooled direct.

Script (general characteristics)

Hand A, main text: Mixed minuscule Perlschrift, upright or slanted slightly to the right with minimal expansion of letters, superscript word endings rare, at line ends only (omicron-upsilon ligature only), with deletions by erasure, systematic itacisms and similar spelling errors. Hand A, rubric: Alexandrine majuscule. Hand B, main text: Very rectangular mixed minuscule, resembling Anastasios style, using Western pen, slanted markedly to the right, with minimal expansion of letters, occasional slight flourishes on bottom line, without superscript word endings, with deletions by erasure. Hand B, rubric: Alexandrine majuscule.

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A, mixed minuscule: All minuscule forms present except xi; the only majuscule forms present are beta, epsilon, eta, kappa, lambda, xi, pi; beta usually minuscule; distinctive ligatures: epsilon-iota tilted to the left; epsilon-nu with large half-epsilon, break between preceding letter and nu. Hand B: All minuscule forms present except xi; nu, upsilon, psi always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: majuscule beta without descender, with elongated lower loop; majuscule gamma with descending vertical; v-shaped minuscule gamma; minuscule epsilon with ascender formed in separate movement from loop and horizontal; majuscule lambda extended down-right; distinctive ligatures: epsilon-xi with xi joined from middle of ascender of epsilon.

(I) p. 51 (Hand A)

Diacritics & punctuation

Hand A: Breathings angular, half-angular and round; mute iota absent; use of double dot functional only; use of middle and upper point and full stop; double grave present on δέ, μῆ. Hand B: Breathings angular, half-angular and round (predominantly round); frequent misuse of breathings in mid-word; wide circumflexes over breathings; mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota and upsilon; use of lower and upper point, lower and middle comma, question mark and full stop; double grave present on ἄν, δέ, μὴ.

Abbreviations

Hand A: Nomina sacra (accents absent on non-enclitics up to three letters long, otherwise absent or separate from strokes); καί; syllabic (rare, at line ends only); horizontal stroke for nu. Hand B: Nomina sacra (accents absent or separate from strokes, regardless of length); γὰρ, δέ, καί; syllabic (rare, at line ends only); horizontal stroke for nu.

(ii) p. 202 (Hand B)

Apparatus

Rubricated headings for lections, marginal and in line of text; rubricated ekphonic musical notation; additional marginal lection notes in later hands; marginal modern chapter references in Latin script, Arabic and Roman numerals, in pencil.

Ink

Ornament

Pylai for start of synaxarion, weeks of Matthew (i) p. 1, (ii) p. 1, containing leaf ornament and rosettes, Sasanian palmettes etc. in medallions, with leaf, flower etc. ornament at corners ((i) p. 1 topped with crosses, in dark red ink (matching that of Hand D), replacing earlier erased headpieces). Traces of erased rectangular headpieces for start of synaxarion, weeks of Matthew (i) p. 1, (ii) p. 1, in bright red ink, with ornament at corners. Major initials for start of synaxarion (i) p. 1, weeks of Matthew (ii) p. 1, with decoration, apparently replacing earlier erased initials. Simple horizontal bands of ornament for start of lections of the Passion, months (ii) pp. 135, 202, 214, 220, 235, 251, 258, 262, 265, 267, 276, 279: wavy lines with space-fillers, with ornamented terminals. Rubricated initials for lections (i) pp. 1–65, (ii) pp. 1–25, with decoration, in bright red ink, sometimes with grey, brown or black infill, or space left for infill but not added ((ii) pp. 23, 25 later addition of green paint). Rubricated initials for start of lections (ii) pp. 25–289, with decoration, in dark red ink, sometimes with green infill, minor initials in dark red ink for summary lections. Later simple headpiece for start of menologion (ii) p. 183: rectangular box containing plait, in red and black ink. Simple headpiece for start of Pseudo-John Chrysostom text (ii) p. 289: horizontal band of vegetative and other ornament, in dark brown ink. Initials for start of Pseudo-John Chrysostom text (ii) p. 289, with decoration, in dark brown ink. Space left for ornament which was never added (ii) p. 37, 66, 74, 77, 183.

(i) p. 1 (Hand A)

Text leaves

Medium-thickness parchment, off-white colour; skins arranged with hair-side facing hair-side throughout. Low quality with frequent flaws, including on written surface.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

((i) pp. 27–28) 255 x 182.

Text leaf condition

Cockling appears throughout text-block. Grime and stains, especially in the first and last gatherings. Leaves in the last gatherings in particular are worn and ragged. Cuts/tears to (i) pp. 37–38, (ii) pp. 221–222, 283–284; holes in (i) pp. 1–8, 21–24, 55–56 (ii) pp. 47–48, 67–68, 213–214 259–260, 263–264, 289–90; significant insect activity in (i) pp. 1–2, (ii) pp. 283–290. Candle wax stains appear occasionally on the surface of the leaves. Folios excised at time of production after (ii) pp. 12, 46, 54, 60, 84, 94, 100, 110, 162, 256, 266.

Old repairs

Occasional leaves were repaired to the margins and spine-folds with plain parchment before the book was re sewn. Repairs with sewing thread in (i) pp. 25–26, 35–36, 169–170, 219–220, 259–260. Leaves in the last gatherings have repairs with Japanese tissue.

Binding description

Italian-style inboard binding with a primary cover of tanned skin and a secondary cover of silk velvet with metal decoration, probably added at a later date. It has been re sewn on supports, possibly dating to the late 15th-early 16th century, not contemporary with the text.

Binding dimensions (mm)

268 x 215 x 98.

Left endleaves

A sewn double-fold endleaf of light-grey wove paper, with the outermost leaf pasted to the board and the inner leaf cut into a stub. A handwritten index in English on nine pieces of plain paper pasted to the inside of the inner fold of the endleaves at a later stage.

Right endleaves

A sewn single leaf text-hook of Greek manuscript parchment waste within a two leaf outside hook endleaves. A later addition was made during repairs to the binding and eight lifted spine linings of manuscript waste were encapsulated in a folded polyethylene film. The film was adhered along the spine to a separate folded paper guard that allows both sides of the fragments to be seen and it was tipped to the outermost parchment stub of the endleaves. There is no pastedown; remnants of Greek manuscript paper waste with adhesive residues on the wooden board.

Endleaf condition

The outermost single leaf of Greek manuscript parchment waste and stubs have stains and discolourations from leather turn-ins, suggesting that they were originally adhered to the inside of a right board. They are cockled and ragged with adhesive stains, grime, small tears, losses and limited insect activity.

Sewing

The text-block is resewn with a supported structure, a bypass sewing with a single, medium-thickness, loose S-twist, natural-colour thread and there are four V-nicks in the spine-folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 45, 100, 160, 220 mm from the head of the text-block. The current sewing structure is supported on three flat straps of alum-tawed skin and it seems likely that there has been an intermediate sewing on supports, probably split-strap alum-tawed supports between which the lifted spine linings were glued. Stations for the current sewing are at 30 (head kettle), 55, 60, 125, 130, 200, 205, 230 mm (tail kettle) from the head of the text block.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Spine linings

The spine has been slightly rounded. The material and number of layers of the linings is not visible and cannot be identified.

Boards and board attachment

17 mm wooden boards, the same size as the text-block with square edges. The support straps are laced through tunnels cut in the spine edge of the boards and secured in three external channels with nails.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been retrimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear even. The head-edge appears to have been blackened by dirt.

Endbands

Single-core endbands across the width of the spine, sewn in pink, blue and white silk threads with a front bead over a core of tanned skin and tie-downs in every gathering.

Endband condition

Both head- and tailbands are attached to the book-block but their cores are broken across spine and are loose with silk threads slightly worn away and stained with a mixture of dirt.

Covering

Primary cover of full brown tanned goat or sheepskin, with a secondary cover of dark red silk velvet with the selvage edge of green and yellow preserved in the right fore-edge turn-in. The other turn-ins are trimmed, regular in size, with lapped corners.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions, embrittled areas, small tears and losses in the covering material, especially along the spine. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached to the boards.

Furniture & fastenings

Originally the book had bosses. A round hole in the velvet in the upper inner corner of the right board suggests a nail from a boss on the earlier leather cover. Embossed silver-coloured metal fittings survive on the left board. A central cruciform piece with Christ on the Cross is placed in the centre, almost framed by right-angled corner pieces, each bearing an embossed figure of one of the Evangelists. All the fittings are secured with metal surface nails. The book also had a triple clasp-strap on the right board that fastened onto the simple copper alloy edge pin that survives in the fore-edge of the left board.

Furniture & fastenings condition

The metal fittings on the left board appear to have been lifted and re-attached. The triple holes drilled for the straps remain empty in the right board. Straps, clasp, and bosses are completely missing.

Notes & marks of ownership

Left pastedown: "MS 1187"; "I.14"; ex libris of Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton 1805; Iv: "No. 1187"; (i) p. 1: "I.14"; "1187".

Inserts

Pasted to <I>v-<II>r: index of lections by initial chapter and verse. In plastic sheath bound inside right board: eight small parchment fragments bearing Greek text of Old Testament and other religious texts.

Other notes

(ii) p. 284: erroneous modern note of missing folio; right pastedown: fragments of at least three former pastedowns, one with text printed across from p. 290, one with Greek text, one with Hebrew text.

Provenance

Acquired by J. D. Carlyle in the islands of the Aegean or the Sea of Marmara 11799–1801, purchased by Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton and deposited in LPL 17 March 1806.

Textual tradition

Gregory-Aland I 229; Scrivener 223.

Dating

Style of Hand A consistent with 11th century. Style of Hand B consistent with mid-11th–mid-12th century. Style of Hand C consistent with mid–late 12th century; transfer of ink from p. 290 to right pastedown and leather turn-in indicates that Hand C worked after the codex was bound. Erasure of original ornament and its replacement by ornament in the same ink as Hand D indicates the latter was not part of the original production.

Remarks

The poor quality of parchment, use of Western pen, style of script and of ornament indicate a south Italian origin.

Script (general characteristics)

Hand A, main text: Regular mixed minuscule slanted slightly to the right, with minimal expansion of letters, occasional flourishes in bottom line, superscript word endings very rare, at line ends only. Hand A, headings and summary lections: Alexandrine majuscule. Theodoros kalographos, main text: Ornate, calligraphic mixed minuscule, slanted slightly to the right with relatively rare but dramatic expansion of letters (chiefly tau and less frequently majuscule gamma), flourishes on bottom line, often with kinked upturn, sometimes florid and decorated with x-marks and dots, slight flourishes at line ends, superscript word endings at line ends only, deletions by erasure. Theodoros kalographos, headings: Alexandrine majuscule.

p. 34 (Hands A, D)

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A: All minuscule forms present; delta, mu, nu, upsilon, psi always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: minuscule alpha with short tail curving back below letter; majuscule epsilon with double-curved central stroke separate from curve; z-shaped majuscule zeta; tilted, angular minuscule nu; wide, flat-bottomed minuscule upsilon; flat-bottomed majuscule omega; distinctive ligatures: epsilon-gamma with triangular epsilon; epsilon-nu with central stroke of majuscule epsilon attached to nu but not to curve of epsilon; epsilon-omega with minuscule epsilon without horizontal, squashed loop open at the top, turning down to join minuscule omega from below (p. 23); theta-eta with theta reduced to loop on line joining previous letter to theta at top; omega-nu with tail descending from centre of minuscule omega to join nu at foot; omega-rho with rho passing through centre of minuscule or majuscule omega. Theodoros kalographos: kappa, xi always majuscule; delta, zeta, nu, omega always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: minuscule alpha with tail bending back below letter; majuscule epsilon with bar on central stroke; majuscule eta with extended tail; theta with horizontal separate from loop; theta with blob on horizontal; majuscule mu with extended left-hand horizontal; tilted, angular minuscule nu; minuscule pi with horizontal attached only to right-hand side of right-hand cell, curving from left over top of letter to join following letter; arrowhead-shaped tau; kinked majuscule psi; distinctive ligatures: omicron-nu with majuscule nu inside, sharing left vertical with omicron; tau-omega-nu with horizontal of tau curving down to join minuscule omega at centre from below, tail curving down from centre of omega to join minuscule nu at foot.

Diacritics & punctuation

Hand A: Breathings angular and round (usually round); circumflexes small, but expanded over breathings; mute iota absent; use of double dot functional only; use of middle and upper point and full stop; double grave present on δέ, μέν, μὴ; single comma quotation mark (haple). Theodoros kalographos: Breathings angular and round (usually round); circumflexes small, but expanded over breathings; mute iota absent; use of double dot functional only; use of middle and upper point and full stop; double grave present on δέ.

Abbreviations

Hand A, mixed minuscule: Nomina sacra (accents absent on non-enclitics up to three letters long, otherwise absent or separate from strokes); καί, περὶ; syllabic (at line ends only); horizontal stroke for nu. Hand A, majuscule: Nomina sacra (accents absent); καί; syllabic (throughout line); suspensions. Theodoros kalographos, mixed minuscule: Nomina sacra (accents separate from strokes); γάρ, καί; syllabic (at line ends only); horizontal stroke for nu. Theodoros kalographos, majuscule: Nomina sacra (accents separate from strokes); μάγισ, μέγας; syllabic (throughout line).

Apparatus

Rubricated (pp. 1–606 gilded) lection headings; rubricated and gilded marginal date numbers; rubricated ekphonic musical notation; ethnon notes in later hand; modern chapter and verse references in Latin script, Arabic numerals, in pencil.

Ornament

Pyle for start of text p. 1, containing rinceaux with trefoil leaves, small medallions with Sasanian palmettes or round flowers, large medallions with eight-petalled or circular flowers, with vegetative ornament at corners and on top, in gold, red, green, blue and white paint. Headpieces for start of weeks of Luke, of Lent and of lections of the Hours pp. 215, 399, 491: rectangular boxes containing rinceaux with demi-palmettes or trefoil leaves, in gold, red, green, blue and white paint. Headpiece for start of March p. 574: rectangular box containing crenellated ornament, in gold, red, blue and green paint. Simple horizontal bands for start of months and occasional lections pp. 529, 539, 541, 545, 557, 571, 576, 584, 587, 595: row of s-curves with space-fillers, rubricated and gilded. Major initials for lections pp. 1–606, with decoration, rubricated and gilded or in gold, red, green, blue and white paint. Rubricated initials for lections pp. 607–636.

p. 215 (Hand A)

Text leaves

Medium-thickness parchment, off-white colour; skins arranged with hair-side facing hair-side throughout.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(p. 25–26) 283 x 222.

Text leaf condition

Cockling appears throughout text-block. Stains and tears, especially in the last gatherings. Leaves in the last gatherings in particular are worn and ragged. pp. 357–358, 371–372 partially detached; tears to pp. 19–20, 33–36, 247–248, 465–466, 505–506, 533–534, 605–606, 633–636; small holes in pp. 1–2, 215–216, 241–242, 249–250, 323–324, 465–466, 509–510, 531–534, 577–578, 597–598, 615–616; minor insect activity in pp. 633–636. Candle wax stains appear occasionally to the surface of the leaves and especially in pp. 529–537, 595–610. Slight loss of text at head due to trimming. Folios excised at time of production after pp. 562, 572, 622.

Old repairs

Occasional leaves were repaired with plain paper in the margins and text area; substitute text on repair patches replacing losses to pp. 33–34, 47–48 by Hand D.

Binding description

Greek-style binding covered in silk velvet with metal decoration. It has been resewn unsupported with re-used boards, not contemporary with the text.

Binding dimensions (mm)

Left endleaves

A sewn single-fold endleaf of white, medium-thickness, handmade laid paper. There is no pastedown. A handwritten index in English is pasted to the inner fold of the endleaves at a later stage.

Right endleaves

A sewn single leaf text-hook of a re-used, handmade laid paper was adhered to a single text leaf to create the outer bifolium of the last gathering. It has a bull's-head watermark comparable to Harlfinger Boeuf 11 (dated 1404), Briquet 15228–15238 (dated 1407–58), and was previously folded with four holes of different sizes cut out of it. There is no pastedown.

Endleaf condition

Stains, discolourations and grime, tears, and small losses.

Sewing

The text-block is resewn with an unsupported structure, sewn all-along with a single, medium-thickness, tight S-twist, white thread, using the four V-nicks in the spine-folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 30, 105, 185, 255 mm from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Spine linings

The spine is rounded. An overall lining of one layer of natural-colour, plain woven textile covers the full length of the spine and extends onto the outside of the boards.

Spine lining condition

The lining is complete on the spine and the boards but there is a limited loss of adhesion.

Boards and board attachment

Re-used 12 mm wooden boards, the same size as the text-block, with V-shaped edge grooves cut into the head, tail and fore-edges of the boards, stopped short of the corners in reverse points. Both boards had been prepared for a Western supported structure and have three cut tunnels, but were used for an unsupported Greek-style structure, prepared for four stations; the attachment is integral with the sewing.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound. Both boards were sawn and have remnants of paper with adhesive residues.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been retrimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear even, slightly worn and rounded.

Endbands

Greek-style endbands sewn to the boards. Primary endbands worked in plain thread over cord cores of medium thickness, tight S-twist, and natural colour. The secondary sewing is executed in red, green, and blue silk threads.

Endband condition

Both endbands are still attached to the book-block but are slightly loose. The tailband core is partially broken and the silk threads of the secondary sewing have been worn away.

Covering

Full cover of purple silk velvet. The turn-ins are trimmed, regular in size and shape, with lapped corners.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions and missing areas in the covering material with extensive tears, and embrittled parts over the spine area and right board. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached to the boards.

Furniture & fastenings

The left board is completely covered by three pieces of embossed silver-gilt. A rectangular piece in the centre depicting Christ on the Cross was nailed over five other pieces, embossed all over with leafy scrolls, arranged with two large pieces across head and tail, and smaller pieces on each side of the central rectangular piece, under the lower part of which is a much smaller piece. Three out of four roundels with embossed images of the Evangelists remain in the corners of the board, and all the pieces are secured with metal surface nails. The book also had two triple-braided green silk ties attached through the turn-ins on the right board that fastened onto two edge pins in the fore-edge of the left board.

Furniture & fastenings condition

The metal plates seem to have been reattached and some parts are missing. The silk ties are broken off and survive only in the turn-ins of the right board. The clasps and the edge pins are all missing.

Colophon(s)

p. 635: colophon of Theodoros kalographos: “+ Ὁ καὶ γραφεὺς Θεόδωρος καλογράφος +”.

Notes & marks of ownership

Inside left board: ex libris of Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton 1805; <I>v: “1188”; <III>v: “I.15”; 1r: “I.15”.

Inserts

Small slip of loose paper at beginning of MS with English text, including: “West terrace. Park road, Upper Holloway”.

Other notes

p. 636: obituary of Athanasia, Abbess of Nunnery of St Veronica, dated Tue 3 Nov 1291: “Ε-κοιμ<η>θ<η> ηγουμ(έ)ν<η> τ(ῆς) αγ<ίας> Βαρωνίχης η μωρίχη Αθανασια Νοεὺρίω εις τ(ὰς) Γ' ἡμέρ<α> Τρίτ<η> τ(ῆς) ἰν<δικτιῶνος> Ε' τοῦ έτους ,ζΩ' ”.

p. 635 (Theodoros)

Provenance

Probably owned by Nunnery of St Veronica 1291. Acquired by J. D. Carlyle in the islands of the Aegean or the Sea of Marmara 1800–1, purchased by Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton and deposited in LPL 17 March 1806.

Textual tradition

Gregory-Aland 1 230; Scrivener Evst. 224.

Dating

Style of Hand A and of Theodoros kalographos consistent with mid-11th–early 12th century. Hand C dated by note on p. 636 to 3 Nov 1291.

Remarks

Theodoros kalographos is erroneously dated by Vogel and Gardthausen on basis of later note by Hand C, and this dating is followed in the Repertorium and PLP.

By folios, verso, top left, Greek numerals, dark brown ink; by pages, recto and verso, top outer corner, Arabic numerals, pencil.

Columns & lines

Two columns, 26–28 lines.

Ruling

pp. 1–302: system Leroy 1; layout unclassified by Leroy (margins only), hardpoint; text area: 183 mm x 136 mm; pp. 303–310: system Leroy 12; layout Leroy 21D2a, hardpoint, text hangs from lines; text area: 177 mm x 143 mm; interlinear distance: 6–7 mm.

Scribe(s)

Hand A: pp. 1–302; Hand B: pp. 303–310, col. 2, line 7; Ioannes Aleuras: p. 310, col. 2, lines 10–27; Hand D: note p. 1; Hand E: correction p. 171; Hand F: lection note p. 239; Hand G: note <IV>r; Hand H: folio numbers; J. D. Carlyle: MS numbers left pastedown, Hand J: modern lection references, pagination; Hand K: lection index; Hand L: MS number left pastedown.

Script (general characteristics)

Hand A: Thick, flattened, somewhat inelegant mixed minuscule, upright, with moderate expansion of letters, superscript word endings at line ends only, frequent itacisms and similar spelling errors. Hand B: Curvaceous mixed minuscule, slanted to the right, with fairly common superscript word endings.

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A: gamma, eta, kappa, xi, psi always majuscule; mu, upsilon always minuscule; delta, epsilon, lambda, pi nearly always majuscule; distinctive letter forms: majuscule alpha with long, narrow, pointed loop; very heart-shaped majuscule beta; wedge-shaped majuscule delta; broad theta; majuscule nu with horizontal continued beyond right-hand vertical; large flat-bottomed majuscule omega; distinctive ligatures: theta, phi and omega ligatures where the right-hand curve is run together with the following letter. Hand B: zeta, kappa, psi always majuscule; nu, upsilon always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: majuscule beta with large, tapering upper loop, flatter lower loop; angular minuscule epsilon; theta with horizontal separate from loop; minuscule lambda with diagonal curving back to the left; transitional mu; distinctive ligatures: epsilon-pi with final curve of minuscule pi curving back over letter and back on itself to form horizontal of split ligature; epsilon-omega with central stroke of majuscule epsilon curving down to join omega from below in centre.

p. 96 (Hand A)

Diacritics & punctuation

Hand A: Breathings round; breathings sometimes omitted, sometimes added in mid-word, sometimes misuse of smooth breathing for rough, rough for smooth; circumflexes joined to letters; mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota; use of middle and upper point, lower and middle comma, question mark and full stop. Hand B: Breathings round; acute accents joined to rough breathings and letters, circumflexes joined to letters; mute iota subscript; use of double dot functional only; use of middle and upper point, lower and middle comma, question mark and full stop.

Abbreviations

Hand A: Nomina sacra (accents absent or separate from strokes, regardless of length); syllabic (at line ends only, except in summary entries); horizontal stroke for nu (rare); suspensions (only in headings and summary entries). Hand B: Nomina sacra (accents absent, separate from or joined to strokes, regardless of length); δέ, κατά, μετά; syllabic (throughout line); suspensions (in headings and summary synaxarion entries only).

Apparatus

pp. 1–302: rubricated headings for lections, marginal and in line of text; pp. 3, 19, 49, 59, 205: rubricated eothinon notes, marginal and in line of text; marginal modern chapter and verse references, English text and Arabic numerals, in pencil; pp. 1–3: rubricated ekphonic musical notation; pp. 303–310: partially rubricated headings for lections, in line of text.

Pylai for start of synaxarion, weeks of Luke pp. 1, 96, containing rinceaux, with leaf and/or plaited ornament at corners, outlined in red or red and black ink with red infill. Headpieces for start of weeks of Mark, lections of the Passion, month of August pp. 139, 206, 298: rectangular blocks in above style, outlined in red and black ink with red or red and black infill. Headpiece for start of menologion p. 241: rectangular block of thick rectangular plaiting, in red ink. Simple horizontal bands of ornament precede summary entries in synaxarion, months in menologion pp. 136, 240, 254, 261, 263, 277, 290, 292, 298 (wavy line with space-fillers, with leaf terminals, bar with vegetative terminals interrupted by rows of s-shapes or s-curves with space-fillers), in red and black ink. Border around heading for start of weeks of Matthew p. 63: rectangular boxes with vegetative ornament at corners, in red and black ink. Empty rectangular box with vegetative ornament at corners precedes month of February p. 284, in red ink. Rubricated major initials for lections, with decoration. Heading to first lection in epigraphic majuscule p. 1. Simple horizontal band for start of eothinon lections p. 303: crude plait in red ink.

Text leaves

pp. 1–302: medium-thickness parchment, off-white colour; skins arranged with hair-side facing hair-side throughout. pp. 303–310: Western handmade paper with crown watermark.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(pp. 19–20) 220 × 175.

Text leaf condition

Cockling and staining appear throughout text-block. Folios in the first gathering are worn. Candle wax stains appear occasionally to the surface of the leaves. Some loss of marginal text at head-edge due to trimming. Folio excised at time of production after p. 242, two after p. 284, two after p. 294, one after p. 298, four after p. 310.

Old repairs

Occasional leaves were repaired in the spine-folds, pp. 1–4, 15–16, 239, 301, and to the edges, pp. 201–202, 285–286, with plain paper.

Binding description

Italian-style inboard binding covered in silk velvet with fastenings. It has been resewn on supports, possibly dating to the late 16th century.

Binding dimensions (mm)

245 x 199 x 65.

Left endleaves

A sewn double-fold endleaf of white handmade laid paper, with the outermost leaf pasted to the board. A folded paper handwritten index in English was pasted to the inner fold of the outer free endleaf at a later stage.

Right endleaves

A sewn double-fold endleaf of white handmade laid paper, with the outermost leaf pasted to the board. Paper patches were adhered on the fore-edge over the inner ends of the straps.

Endleaf condition

Light stains and discolouration.

Sewing

The text-block is resewn all-along on four single cord supports, with a single, medium-thickness, S-twist, natural-colour thread, using the four V-nicks in the spine-folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 34, 85, 145, 200 mm from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Spine linings

The spine is rounded and an overall lining of one layer of natural-colour, plain woven textile covers the full length of the spine and extends onto the outside of the boards.

Spine lining condition

The lining is complete and intact on the spine and the boards.

Boards and board attachment

10mm wooden boards, cut to give squares at head, tail and fore-edge. The pastedowns obscure the exact manner in which the attachment is carried out.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been retrimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear even. The head-edge appears to have been blackened by dirt.

Endbands

Single-core endbands, across the width of the spine with primary sewing in plain natural-colour thread over a cord core, with tie-downs in every gathering, and secondary sewing with a front bead worked in red and white coloured silk thread. The slips of the cores are laced through the boards.

Endband condition

Both head- and tailbands are attached to the book-block.

Covering

Full cover of green silk velvet. The turn-ins are trimmed, regular in size and shape, with lapped corners.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions and embrittled areas in the covering material with small tears and losses. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached to the boards.

Furniture & fastenings

There are two metal slotted pin clasps each attached to the right board by a flat strap of green silk woven textile, which fasten onto two simple copper alloy edge pins inserted into the fore-edge of the left board.

Furniture & fastenings condition

The straps seem to have been replaced or possibly reinforced, as there are paper patches over their inner ends inside right board.

Provenance

Donated to the Monastery of St George of the Precipice on Chalke by Ioannes Aleuras in memory of his parents May 1618. Acquired, probably there, by J. D. Carlyle 1799–1801, purchased by Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton and deposited in LPL 17 March 1806.

Textual tradition

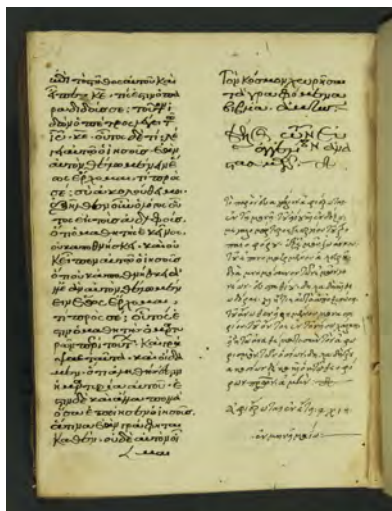

Gregory-Aland I 231; Scrivener Evst. 225.

Dating

Style of Hand A consistent with 14th century. Style of Hand B consistent with 15th–16th century.

Script (general characteristics)

Hand A, main text: Elegant upright mixed minuscule Perlschrift with occasional flourished tails on bottom line, usually with sharp upturn, limited expansion of letters, without superscript word endings, deletions by erasure. Hand A, headings and summary lections: Alexandrine majuscule.

Hand B: Flamboyant upright mixed minuscule with much expansion of letters, frequent flourishes, common superscript word endings. Hand C: Informal, scruffy upright mixed minuscule with common superscript word endings, frequent itacisms and similar spelling errors.

p. 49 (Hand A)

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A, mixed minuscule: All minuscule forms present; gamma, zeta, eta, psi always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: minuscule alpha with tail curving back below letter; minuscule delta with ascender sometimes vertical, sometimes sharply curving to left; majuscule epsilon with bar on central stroke; wide theta; majuscule mu beginning with thickened curve at start of line; tau with curving crossbar rising from and descending to level of base; chi with strong downward turn to up-left diagonal; distinctive ligatures: epsilon-xi with bipartite epsilon as small separate curve below linking curve rising from xi to join next letter. Hand B: beta, zeta, kappa, lambda, xi, omega always majuscule; upsilon always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: majuscule alpha, lambda with long flourished down-right descender; very large majuscule beta with pointed cells, resembling crescent moon; deep, steep minuscule gamma without descender; iota, tau with descender, curving back to the left; distinctive ligatures: epsilon-upsilon with ascender of epsilon joining large, deep upsilon at the top; sigma-tau with loop in descender. Hand C: kappa, lambda, xi, upsilon always majuscule; nu, xi, omega always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: majuscule lambda with both descenders curving outwards; minuscule sigma with horizontal clearly distinct from loop.

p. 27 (Hands A, E, F)

Diacritics & punctuation

Hand A: Breathings round; circumflexes small; mute iota absent or adscript; use of double dot functional only; use of middle and upper point, lower comma and full stop; double grave present on δέ, μέν, μή; single comma quotation mark (haple). Hand B: Breathings round; circumflexes joined to abbreviations (ὦν); mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota and upsilon; use of lower, middle and upper point, lower comma and full stop. Hand C: Breathings round; mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota; use of middle and upper point and full stop.

p. 134 (Hands B, C)

Abbreviations

Hand A: Nomina sacra (accents absent or separate from strokes, regardless of length); γάρ, καί, οὖν; syllabic (rare, at line ends only); horizontal stroke for nu. Hand B: Nomina sacra (accents separate from strokes); καί; syllabic (throughout line). Hand C: Syllabic (throughout line); suspensions.

Apparatus

Rubricated and gilded lection headings; marginal date numbers, sometimes rubricated; rubricated ekphonic musical notation; echos, eothnon, sticheron etc. notes in later hands; later interlinear Slavonic glosses for selected passages; modern chapter and verse references in Latin script, Arabic numerals, in pencil.

Ornament

Rubricated and gilded initials. Headings in epigraphic majuscule, rubricated and gilded. Rubricated and gilded text for notes on major feasts. Traces of blue paint printed across from ornament on lost folios: traces from small pyle with medallions for start of synaxarion p. II, headpieces for start of months pp. 1, 194, 207, 214, 228, 240, 258.

Text leaves

Medium-thickness parchment, off-white colour; skins arranged with hair-side facing hair-side throughout.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(pp. 25–26) 255 x 164.

Text leaf condition

One quire (13) and several folios missing after p. 124, two quires (17, 18) and several folios missing after p. 136, one quire (21) missing after p. 160; single or multiple folios missing before p. I, after pp. II, 12, 18, 30, 32, 36, 58, 72, 88, 102, 126, <126A>, 132, 144, 166, 208, 214, 228, 232, 240; latter part of MS missing. Loss of almost the whole of five folios after p. 128, majority of pp. <126A–B>, <128A–D>, <206A–B>. Cockling appears throughout text-block. Grime, dirt and small losses (pp. 127–129, 206–207, 245–260). Tears from edges (pp. 1, 11, 27–37, 57, 83, 101, 109, 185–214). Small tears throughout; burn holes in pp. 245–260; small holes in pp. 5–6, 33–34, 45–46; insect activity in pp. I–II, 1–18. Water stains and discolourations in the marginal area of pp. 3–35. Occasional drops of candle wax on the surface of the leaves.

Old repairs

Text leaves repaired with plain paper (pp. 1–2, 129–132, 135–136, 163–164, 243–244).

Binding description

20th-century inboard binding covered in quarter mid-brown tanned calfskin with marbled paper on the sides.

Binding dimensions (mm)

268 x 200 x 50.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same and is the result of repairs during the rebinding. A light blue, medium-thickness, handmade wove paper leaf survives as a free endleaf from an earlier binding at each end. A narrow piece of thin cotton fabric has been adhered along the joint with one stub pasted to the board and the other stub tipped to the free endleaf at each end. A separate leaf of light yellow, medium-thickness, machine-made wove paper has been added and pasted to the board as a separate pastedown at each end.

Light discolourations in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block has been resewn and there is evidence of four V-nicks in the spine-folds of ff. 414–415 from an earlier unsupported sewing at 40, 100, 155, 195 mm from the head of the text-block. Due to a heavy application of adhesive and restrictions to the opening the sewing structure cannot be identified.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been retrimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear rounded and worn.

Endbands

Primary endbands worked without a bead in plain thread over plain cord cores and secondary sewing in pink and beige silk with a front bead. Due to a heavy application of adhesive and restricted opening it was difficult to examine the frequency of tie-downs.

Endband condition

Remnants of adhesive, staining and accumulation of dirt and grime.

Tooling

The six panels on the spine have a single blind-tooled line at the head and tail of each panel, a gold-tooled title in panel 2 and a gold-tooled shelf mark number in panel 6, both tooled directly.

Notes & marks of ownership

Inside left board: ex libris of Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton 1805; p. I: "I.17"; "MS. 1190".

Inserts

Pasted to <I>v: index of lections by initial chapter and verse, by J. D. Carlyle, with additions by Charles Burney.

p. II (Hands D, G)

Provenance

Acquired by J. D. Carlyle in the islands of the Aegean or the Sea of Marmara 1799–1801, purchased by Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton and deposited in LPL 17 March 1806.

Textual tradition

Gregory-Aland I 165; Scrivener Apost. 57.

Dating

Style of Hand A consistent with 11th century. Style of Hands B and C consistent with 13th century. Style of Hand D consistent with 14th–15th century.

Remarks

All folios bearing significant ornament have been removed. Vocabulary in the Slavonic glosses by Hand E suggests the work of a speaker of an Eastern Slav language. The weeks in pp. 38–56 are incorrectly numbered by Hand A, later emended by Hand L.

(p. 3) 198 x 164.

Text leaf condition

First two or three quires missing, quire 8 missing after p. 46; multiple folios missing after pp. 18, 20, 32, 50, 66, 94, 118, 122, 138, 140, 142, 148; loss of most of four folios before p. 1, one folio after p. 34, several folios after p. 148; loss of majority of pp. 1–6B, 155–156; pp. 45, 53–56, 59–62 detached; pp. 51–52 detached and misplaced (should appear after p. 84). Cockling appears throughout text-block and especially in the last gathering. Grime, dirt and water stains in the leaves of the last gatherings. Losses from edges of pp. 149–154, with slight loss of text; small tears to edges of pp. 1–2, 13–14, 19–34, 57–58, 69–70, 73–74, 113–114, 117–118, 133–136, 145–150; small holes in pp. 15–16, 107–108, 113–114, 119–120, 143–144, 147–148, 151–152.

Old repairs

Overcasting appears in the first and last gatherings. Leaves were repaired to the margins and to the spine-folds with plain paper before the book was sewn. Tear to pp. 57–58 repaired with glue. Corner of p. 151 repaired with paper patch partially covering text and bearing replacement text, now itself largely lost.

Binding description

20th-century inboard binding covered in quarter mid-brown tanned calfskin with marbled paper on the sides.

Binding dimensions (mm)

213 x 185 x 45.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same and is the result of repairs during the binding. A narrow piece of thin, cotton fabric has been adhered along the joint with one stub pasted to the board and the other stub tipped to the first and last leaves of the text-block. Two separate leaves of light-yellow, medium-thickness, machine-made wove paper have been added. The inner leaf is tipped on top of the stub as a free endleaf and the outermost leaf is pasted to the board as a separate pastedown at each end.

Endleaf condition

Light discolourations in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block has been re sewn on recessed sewing supports with five false bands on the spine. There is evidence of three V-nicks in the spine folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 20, 85, 160 mm from the head of the text-block. It is now sewn with a medium-thickness, single, S-ply, loose twist white thread, using four pierced-hole stations at 15, 45, 145, 180 mm from the head of the text-block. Due to a heavy application of adhesive and restricted opening it was difficult to examine the sewing structure.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been retrimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear rounded, worn and have been lightly blackened by dirt.

Endbands

Primary endbands worked without a bead in plain thread over plain cord cores and secondary sewing in pink and beige silk with a front bead. Due to a heavy application of adhesive and restricted opening it was difficult to examine the frequency of tie-downs.

Endband condition

Remnants of adhesive, staining and accumulation of dirt and grime.

Tooling

The six panels on the spine have a single blind-tooled line at the head and tail of each panel, a gold-tooled title in panel 2 and a gold-tooled shelf mark number in panel 6, both tooled directly.

Provenance

Acquired by J. D. Carlyle in the islands of the Aegean or the Sea of Marmara 1799–1801, bought by Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton and deposited in LPL 17 March 1806.

Textual tradition

Gregory-Aland l 166; Scrivener Apost. 59.

Dating

Style of Hands A–B consistent with 11th century; continuity of text and presence on same folio suggests they were part of a single enterprise. Style of Hand C consistent with 12th century (text is a later addition to the MS). Style of Hand D (doing fresh work to replace lost folios) consistent with 12th century. Style of Hand E (doing fresh work to replace lost folios) consistent with 15th century.

Remarks

The ekphonic notation on pp. 89–92 was apparently marked before the text and ignored in writing it.

Script (general characteristics)

Hand A: Rounded mixed minuscule bouletée, upright, with minimal expansion of letters, flourishes in bottom row and occasionally at line ends, without superscript word endings, with deletions by erasure. Hand B: Alexandrine majuscule. Hand C, main text: Rather florid mixed minuscule with variable slant. Hand C, headings: Epigraphic majuscule. Hand D: Mixed minuscule, slanted to the right, with minimal expansion of letters, superscript word endings at line ends only. Hand E: Shaky mixed minuscule with considerable variation in size of letters, variable slant and uneven line discipline, common superscript word endings, deletions by strikethrough.

f. 122r (Hand B)

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A: kappa always majuscule, eta, nu, omega always minuscule; gamma, delta, psi almost always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: minuscule alpha with long tail curving back above letter; short minuscule gamma; minuscule epsilon with upward turn at end of ascender; enlarged majuscule epsilon with wavy central stroke separate from curve; large majuscule epsilon without central stroke wrapped around following letter; small tau with shortened vertical; minuscule xi with long horizontal tail below line; majuscule psi with horizontal bars on ascender and descender; occasional tau, psi etc. at start of line extended into left margin with elongated descender; clubs on lambda, nu, xi, rho, chi, long hooks on lambda, rho, hooks also on zeta, iota, nu, phi, psi; distinctive ligatures: flourished spiralling omicron-sigma at line ends. Hand B: Distinctive letter forms: delta with pronounced descenders from lower corners; nu with diagonal continued beyond right-hand vertical, sometimes with flourish; phi with horizontal bars on elongated ascender and descender; hooks on rho, phi, psi. Hand C, mixed minuscule: Distinctive letter forms: majuscule kappa with diagonals formed as curve separate from vertical; bipartite minuscule omega, joined at the base; transitional mu; open rho with bulbous loop and short descender; distinctive ligatures: tau-omega with tau rising from left-hand side or from centre of minuscule omega; tau-alpha with alpha formed of two widely separated loops. Hand E: psi always majuscule; eta usually majuscule; delta, zeta, mu, nu, xi always minuscule; sigma telikon present; distinctive letter forms: majuscule alpha open at top-right of loop; lunate sigma with pronounced inward curl at ends;

f. 175r (Hand A)

distinctive ligatures: split epsilon-tau with elevated and expanded upper part; epsilon-iota with long ascender.

Diacritics & punctuation

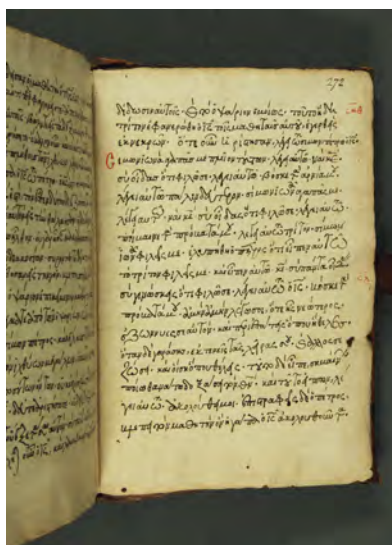

Hand A: Breathings angular; circumflexes small, but expanded over breathings; mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota; use of middle and upper point, lower comma, question mark and full stop; ε-shaped quotation mark. Hand B: Breathings angular and half-angular; mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota; use of middle point and full stop; ε-shaped quotation mark. Hand C: Breathings angular, half-angular and round; mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota; use of middle and upper point and full stop; double grave present on δέ; Nomina sacra strokes decorated with x-marks. Hand D: Breathings round; circumflexes joined to letters; mute iota absent; use of middle and upper point and middle comma. Hand E: Breathings round; circumflexes and acute accents joined to letters; mute iota absent; use of double dot functional only; use of lower, middle and upper point, lower and middle comma, question mark; two-dot colon as normal strong punctuation.

Text leaves

ff. 1–73, 74–79, 80–174, 175–266: medium-thickness parchment; ff. 73A, 80A, 175A, 267–272: medium-thickness handmade paper, f. 73A with SH watermark, comparable to Harlfinger Lettres 75–76 (dated 1548–56), Briquet 9616, 9674–9675 (dated 1548–84). Except f. 73A, which is blank, paper folios were added to replace the missing parts of the text, before the book was resewn.

f. 124v

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(f. 266 (parchment)) 203 x 131; (f. 267 (paper)) 205 x 136.

Text leaf condition

Folio missing after f. 72. Stains and grime in the marginal area of the gatherings throughout the text-block. Losses to ff. 40, 264; small tears/cuts to edges of ff. 118, 188, 221, 246; edges cut away ff. 111, 119, 175–177, 196; holes in ff. 24, 95, 107, 232; tear at centre of f. 32; cuts along ruling lines ff. 146, 149, 161. Very limited insect activity and occasional drops of candle wax on the surface of the leaves. Folios excised at time of production after ff. 37, 53, 56, 101, 166, 215. Significant flaking of miniature f. 124v; faded text in places.

Old repairs

Occasional leaves were repaired with plain paper (f. 168r), plain parchment (ff. 1r, 68r, 75r, 76r–77v, 78v, 80r–87v, 111r–v, 153r, 166v), parchment waste from a Latin manuscript (ff. 19r, 51r, 175r, 182r), manuscript waste from a Greek manuscript (ff. 74r–v, 79r, 88r, 95v, 165v, 171v–172r) and with sewing thread (f. 43) before the book was sewn; cut along ruling line (f. 134) formerly repaired with stitching, since removed.

Binding description

Greek-style binding covered in tanned skin using coarse materials, not contemporary with the text, possibly dating to the late 17th century.

Binding dimensions (mm)

216 x 150 x 105.

Left endleaves

Sewn two-leaf text-hook endleaves with a folded stub made from a bifolium of Greek manuscript parchment waste. The outermost leaf is pasted to the board. A strip of plain handmade paper is also glued to the board under the parchment pastedown.

Right endleaves

A single-leaf separate pastedown of plain white handmade paper. The full leaf is adhered to the board.

Endleaf condition

Cockling, creases, extensive adhesive stains and discolourations, small losses and limited insect activity.

Sewing

The text-block is re sewn with an unsupported structure, sewn all-along with a medium-thickness, loose S-twist, natural-colour thread, using the four V-nicks in the spine-folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 41, 87, 131, 175 mm from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The current structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Spine linings

The spine has been slightly rounded. An overall lining appears to cover the full length of the spine and extends onto the outside of the boards. The material and the number of layers are not visible and not clearly identifiable.

Spine lining condition

The lining is complete and intact on the spine and the boards.

Boards and board attachment

10 mm wooden boards, the same size as the text-block with square edges. The pastedowns obscure the exact manner in which the attachment is carried out.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been retrimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear even. The head-edge appears to have been blackened by dirt and grime.

Endbands

Greek-style projecting two-core endbands sewn to the boards. Both cores are made from a plain thread S-twist cord of medium thickness and natural colour. The secondary sewing is executed in red, green, and blue silk threads. Due to restricted opening it was difficult to examine the frequency of tie-downs.

Endband condition

Both head- and tailbands are sound and securely attached to the book-block.

Covering

Full cover of mid-brown thick tanned goat or sheepskin. The turn-ins are untrimmed, irregular in size and shape, with lapped corners with the fore-edge turn-in lying on top of the head and tail turn-ins.

Covering (existing repairs)

The spine has been repaired with strips of toned Japanese tissue paper at head and tail. Tears in the covering skin were repaired with stitching before the book was bound.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions and lacerations and the covering skin has developed a blackened surface with a mixture of dirt and grease. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached to the boards.

Tooling

The cover has a blind-tooled two-line border frame containing a saltire cross with visible but uneven, low-quality impressions. A later addition is the title EVANGELIA tooled in gold on the spine.

Furniture & fastenings

There is a simple copper alloy edge pin inserted into the fore-edge of the left board and a thick flat leather edge-pin strap with a hole for the edge pin, attached to the centre of the fore-edge of the right board, fastened under the pastedown.

Furniture & fastenings condition

The edge pin is sound and intact. The strap is attached securely to the board but is broken off at the hole made for the edge pin.

Outside left board: ex libris of Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton 1805; f. 1r: "S.1."

Provenance

Owned by the Monastery of St. Sabas in Palestine. Borrowed by J. D. Carlyle in 1800, purchased from his estate after his death by Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton and deposited in LPL 17 March 1806.

Textual tradition

Gregory-Aland 475; Soden ε138 (K^x); Scrivener 515.

Dating

Style of Hands A–B consistent with 11th century. Hand B rubric added after work of Hand A. Style of Hand C (on an existing folio from another MS reused as a pastedown) consistent with 13th–14th century. Style of Hands D–E (doing fresh work to replace lost folios) consistent with 14th–15th century.

Remarks

Described and variant readings collated in MSS. 1223, 1224.

By pages, recto and verso, top outer corner, Arabic numerals, pencil; 32 written a second time in error for 33 but sequence then continues correctly from 34, 191 followed by 200 so all numbers thereafter too large by 8.

Columns & lines

Two columns; pp. 29–86, 89–100, 103–122, 125–228, 241–306: 26 lines; pp. 1–28, 87–88, 101–102, 123–124, 229–240: 22–26 lines.

Ruling

pp. 29–86, 89–100, 103–228, 241–306: system Leroy 1; layout Leroy 20C2, piercing occasionally visible for horizontals, text hangs from lines; text area: 176 mm x 121 mm; interlinear distance: 6–7 mm; pp. 1–28, 87–88, 101–102, 229–240: system unclassified; layout Leroy 20C2, piercing visible for verticals and horizontals, text ignores ruling; text area: 178 mm x 123 mm; interlinear distance: 6–8 mm. On p. 168 a bend to the edge of the parchment prevented piercing for ruling down part of the edge, so that lines here were ruled from the edge of the folio rather than the margin as normal

p. 174 (Hands A, B)

J. D. Carlyle: MS number p. 1; Hand S: modern lection references, pagination; Hand T: lection index.

Script (general characteristics)

Hand A, main text: Regular, upright mixed minuscule, with modest expansion of letters, without superscript word endings, with frequent itacisms and similar spelling errors. Hand A, minor headings, summary lections and cross-references: Alexandrine majuscule. Hand B, major headings: Constantinopolitan majuscule. Hand C: Formal but clumsy mixed minuscule, possibly imitation of an older style, with tendency for loops to be incompletely closed, lines meeting at right angles to be slightly separated or to cross, upright, with modest flourishes at line ends and on bottom line, little expansion of letters, superscript word endings at line ends only.

p. 1 (Hand C)

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A, mixed minuscule: All minuscule forms present; gamma, epsilon, eta, kappa, lambda, xi, pi, sigma only majuscule forms present; distinctive letter forms: majuscule tau with elongated descending serif at right-hand end of horizontal; minuscule zeta with undulating tail to left; majuscule kappa with vertical separate from and considerably taller than diagonals; large tau with down-turn at left-hand end of horizontal, up-turn at right-hand end; clubs on top of eta, iota, kappa; distinctive ligatures: large minuscule sigma with small omicron inside. Hand C: xi always majuscule; nu, sigma, upsilon, psi always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: majuscule beta with no descender, incomplete contraction and angular lower cell; minuscule epsilon with ascender rising from apex of loop; large, almost w-shaped minuscule eta (p. 3); minuscule kappa with short ascender; minuscule mu with very short descender; hooks on minuscule lambda, rho; distinctive ligatures: epsilon-gamma, epsilon-iota etc. without ascender.

Diacritics & punctuation

Hand A: Breathings angular, half-angular and round; circumflexes small but expanded over breathings; always misuses smooth breathing in place of rough; mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota; use of middle point and full stop; punctuation rare (many middle and upper points added by rubricator). Hand C: Breathings angular, half-angular and round; lines of angular breathings occasionally cross, and are often very asymmetrical (unconventional formation suggestive of deliberate archaism); mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota and upsilon; use of middle and upper point, lower and middle comma and full stop; double grave present on δέ, μή.

Abbreviations

Hand A, mixed minuscule: Nomina sacra (accents absent on non-enclitics up to three letters long, otherwise absent or separate from strokes); καί; syllabic (rare, at line ends only) (alpha-iota-sigma abbreviation systematically employed to denote eta-sigma); horizontal stroke for nu; suspensions (in majuscule only). Hand A, majuscule: all of the above, also κατά; syllabic (throughout line); suspensions. Hand C: Nomina sacra (accents separate from strokes); καί; syllabic (rare, at line ends only except in headings).

Apparatus

Left pastedown, <Ir>, <IVr-VIv>: interlinear scholia; pp. 1–306: partially rubricated headings for lections, in line of text and/or marginal; rubricated ekphonic musical notation; marginal chapter and verse numbers for start of lections identified by modern hand in Latin script, Roman and Arabic numerals; pp. 84–158: marginal notes of eothinon and echos numbers in later hand; pp. 241–304: marginal notes of months in later hand, Arabic script.

Ink

Hand A: pale and mid-brown; Hand B: bright red; Hand C: dark brown and dark red; Hand D: black; Hand E: dark brown; Hand F: mid-brown; Hand G: dark brown; Hand H: dark brown; Hand I: black; Hand J: black; Hand K: black; Hand L: dark brown; Hand M: pale grey; Hand N: dark brown; Hand O: pale brown; Hand P: black; Hand Q: black; J. D. Carlyle: grey-brown; Hand S: pencil; Hand T: mid-brown.

Ornament

Major initials, mostly with decoration, for start of lections pp. 29–86, 89–100, 103–123, col. 2, line 5, 125–228, 241–306, in red ink, brown ink with red or red and yellow infill or red ink with yellow infill, in distinctive south Italian style (including tau incorporating bird p. 36; epsilons incorporating blessing hands pp. 74, 83, 155, 157, 164, 257, 295; omicron in form of fish p. 174; alpha incorporating bird p. 272). Large headpieces precede lections pp. 125, 177, in red ink with yellow infill (rectangular boxes containing palmettes, with knob or leaf ornament at corners). Small headpieces precede or follow lections or months pp. 36, 81, 83, 170, 221, 241, 257, 259, 262, 276, 285, 290, 294, 296, 304: plaits, bands of red ink (some with crude plait designs in black ink added by Hand P), wavy line with space fillers and triangular terminals, or rectangular boxes containing palmettes, cusped lozenge patterns or crenellations, with trefoil or leaf ornament at corners, in red ink, brown and red ink, brown ink with red or red and yellow infill, or red ink with yellow infill. Headings for lections or months in Constantinopolitan majuscule pp. 29–31, 37, 262, 276, 285, 290, 294, 296, 304, in brown ink with red infill. Triangular patterns of triangles or commas, s-shapes etc. follow tapered ends of lections pp. 81, 221, in brown

p. 36 (Hands A, B)

ink. Rubricated major initials, some with decoration, for start of lections pp. 1–28, 87–88, 101–102, 123, col. 2, line 6–p. 124, pp. 229–240 (including epsilon incorporating blessing hand p. 17). Pyle for start of text p. 1, in red ink, containing vine scrolls, with leaf ornament at corners, topped with cross. Simple horizontal bands mark beginning and end of eothinon and Pannychis lections pp. 229, 236, 239: wavy lines with space-fillers and leaf terminals, in brown and red ink, or band of red ink.

Text leaves

pp. 1–306: medium-thickness parchment, off-white/yellow colour, skins arranged with hair-side facing hair-side throughout; <I–VI>: paper, with watermark.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(p. 69) 237 x 170.

Text leaf condition

Folio missing after p. 216. Cockling and pleating appear within the leaves throughout the text-block and especially in the last gatherings. Some leaves are worn and ragged and partially detached from their conjugates (pp. 69–74, 241–244, 249–250, 255–258, 263–266, 273–306). Stains and grime in the marginal area of the gatherings throughout text-block and especially in pp. 173–175, 217–227. Drops of candle wax on the surface of leaves, notably pp. 304–305. Loss to pp. 29–30; tears/cuts to edges of pp. 57–58, 119–123, 159–162, 249–250, 279–280, 289–90, 303–306; fore-edge of pp. 135–136 cut away; substantial holes in pp. 44–45, 163–164; small holes in pp. 25–28, 85–88, 167–168, 181–182, 215–216, 227–228, 247–248, 259–260, 303–304. Folios excised at time of production after pp. 162, 182, 188, 266, 267.

Old repairs

Overcasting is visible at p. 306 and leaves were repaired to the margins and text area with plain handmade paper (pp. 239–240) before the book was sewn; pp. 247–248 repaired with stitching.

Binding description

Greek-style binding covered in tanned skin using coarse materials, not contemporary with the text.

Binding dimensions (mm)

250 x 190 x 86.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same. Sewn double-fold endleaves using bifolia of Greek manuscript waste, smaller in size than the text leaves, with the outermost leaf at each end pasted to the boards.

Endleaf condition

Adhesive staining and discolourations from leather turn-ins, grime, and small losses.

Sewing

The text-block is resewn with an unsupported structure, sewn all-along with a medium-thickness, loose S-twist, natural-colour thread, using the three V-nicks in the spine-folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 35, 110, 193 mm from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is broken in the right side, the centre of the text-block is loose and the sewing thread is sound.

Spine linings

The spine has been slightly rounded. An overall lining of one layer of blue woven textile is visible and covers the full length of the spine and extends onto the outside of the boards.

Spine lining condition

The lining is complete on the spine and the boards but there is loss of adhesion.

Boards and board attachment

15 mm wooden boards, the same size as the text-block with square edges. The pastedowns obscure the exact manner in which the attachment is carried out.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been retrimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear stained, rounded and worn and the tail-edge especially, heavily ragged. The head-edge appears to have been blackened by dirt and grime.

Endbands

Greek-style projecting two-core endbands sewn to the boards. Both cores are made from a plain thread S-twist cord of medium thickness and natural colour, and the primary sewing has tie-downs in every gathering. The secondary sewing is executed in red, blue, and green silk threads.

Endband condition

Both head- and tailbands are attached to the book-block but tie-downs have been pulled-out and the coloured silk threads of the secondary sewing have been slightly worn away.

Covering

Full cover of mid-brown thick tanned goat or sheepskin. The turn-ins are untrimmed, irregular in size and shape, with lapped corners with the fore-edge turn-in lying on top of the head and tail turn-ins.

Covering (existing repairs)

The spine has been repaired with strips of toned Japanese tissue paper at head and left board spine edge. Tears in the covering skin have been repaired with stitching before the book was bound.

Covering material condition

The covering skin is embrittled, with small tears, abrasions and lacerations. It has also developed a blackened surface with a mixture of dirt and grease. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached to the boards.

Tooling

The cover has a blind-tooled two-line border frame containing a saltire cross with visible but uneven, low quality impressions.

Furniture & fastenings

There is a simple copper alloy edge pin inserted into the fore-edge of the left board and a thick flat leather edge-pin strap with a hole for the edge pin, taken through the centre of the fore-edge of the right board, and fastened under the pastedown.

Furniture & fastenings condition

The edge pin is sound and intact. The strap is attached securely to the board but is broken off at the hole made for the edge pin.

Bookmarks

Evidence of green silk thread from a primary marker in f. 1, but the material is missing and cannot be identified. A loose piece of woven textile of natural colour in ff. 160-161.

Outside left board: ex libris of Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton 1805; p. 1: "S.2."

Other notes

p. 176: "Ι(ησοῦ)ς Χ(ριστὸ)ς Υ(ιὸ)ς Θ(εο)ῦ Μ(ήτηρ) Θ(εο)ῦ"; cancelled Arabic note; p. 228: "Τοῦτο ἤδη τρίτον ἐφανερώθη ὁ Ι(ησοῦ)ς τοῖς μαθηταῖς αὐτοῦ ἐγεροθεῖς ἐκ νεκρῶν"; p. 241: "ἐπίδη τρήτον ε[- -] ε[..]δοις".

Provenance

Owned by the Monastery of St. Sabas in Palestine. Borrowed by J. D. Carlyle in 1800, purchased from his estate after his death by Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton and deposited in LPL 17 March 1806.

Textual tradition

Gregory-Aland l 232; Scrivener Evst. 226.

Dating

Style of Hands A–B consistent with later 11th century–12th century. Style of Hand C consistent with 12th century. Hand D active 1760s–1770s, as established by colophons in the endleaves of PLJ MS. Tapou 79.

Remarks

Accompanied by an index of lections by initial chapter and verse. Hand A's breathing errors, itacisms etc. indicate a low level of literacy.

By pages, recto and verso, top outer corner, Arabic numerals, pencil; by folios on first folio of each quire, top right, Arabic numerals, pencil.

At beginning of each quire, recto, bottom right, Arabic numerals, pencil.

Columns & lines

Single column, 17 lines.

Ruling

System Leroy 1; layout Leroy 20C1, hardpoint, piercing visible for verticals, text usually hangs from, sometimes guided by lines; text area: 128 mm x 85 mm; interlinear distance: 8 mm.

Scribe(s)

Hand A: main text and rubric. Hand B: rubric. Hand C: Arabic notes pp. 26, 29, 52, 55, 58, 64, 74; Hand D: replacement of faded text pp. 2–4, occasional modern chapter and verse numbers and page references; J. D. Carlyle: MS numbers inside left board, p. 1. Hand F: modern lection references, pagination. Hand G: lection index.

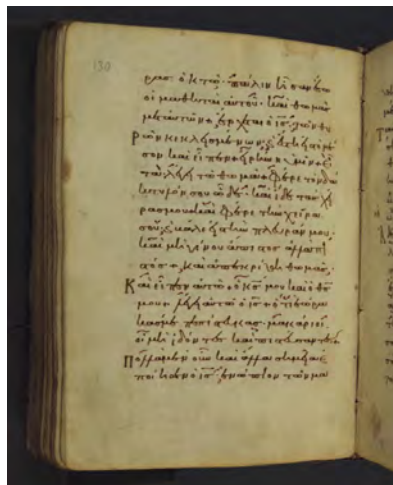

Script (general characteristics)

Hand A, main text: Plain mixed minuscule, slanted slightly to the right, with limited expansion of letters, without superscript word endings.

Hand A, headings: Alexandrine majuscule.

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A, mixed minuscule: xi always majuscule; delta, lambda, mu, psi always minuscule; alpha, beta, gamma, nu usually minuscule; long-bowed beta present; distinctive letter forms: minuscule gamma nearly always v-shaped; large z-shaped zeta; open theta with low upper loop, curve of open lower loop rising to the same height or higher; minuscule sigma with loop pointed down-right and sometimes enlarged; phi with main loop curved to the left, pointed to the right; chi with long down-right diagonal with pronounced hook at right-angle; distinctive ligatures: kappa-alpha with downward diagonal of large majuscule kappa curving down to join alpha from below to right; gamma-iota with vertical rising from top right terminus of minuscule gamma to join elongated iota at top; chi-iota with short up-right diagonal of chi turning upwards to join elongated iota at top; sigma-theta-eta with theta reduced to loop on line joining sigma to eta; gamma-omicron-upsilon with omicron-upsilon joined from foot of majuscule gamma.

p. 130 (Hand A)

Diacritics & punctuation

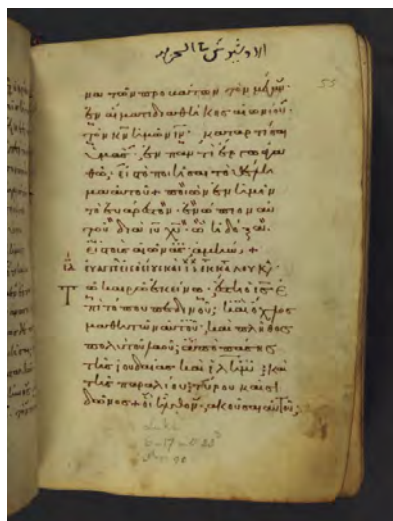

Hand A: Breathings half-angular and round and occasionally angular; mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota; use of middle and upper point.

Abbreviations

Hand A: Nomina sacra (accents usually absent, otherwise separate from strokes); καί (including in mid-word), πρός; horizontal stroke for nu.

Apparatus

Rubricated headings for lections, marginal and in line of text; rubricated marginal lection numbers; rubricated ekphonic musical notation; pp. 26, 29, 52, 55, 58, 64, 74: later marginal Arabic lection notes; marginal modern chapter and verse references, with page references to modern edition, in English text and Arabic numerals, by two hands, in pencil and black ink; letters in gutter marking position of initial letters for rubricator.

p. 55 (Hands A, B, C)

Ink

Hand A: mid-brown; Hand B: dark red; Hand C: black; Hand D: black; J. D. Carlyle: grey-brown; Hand F: pencil; Hand G: mid-brown.

Ornament

Headpiece p. 1: rectangular box with leaf ornament at corners, containing rinceau medallions, rubricated and gilded. Simple horizontal bands precede sections pp. 41, 166, 203, 216: wavy line with space-fillers and leaf terminals or row of chevrons, vertical lines, s-curves with space fillers, rubricated and gilded. Rubricated minor initials. Headings and initials, sometimes also lection numbers gilded.

Text leaves

Medium-thickness parchment, off-white colour; skins arranged with hair-side facing hair-side throughout. Each bifolio has been ruled with dry point before folding the quires.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(p. 33–34) 190 x 144.

Text leaf condition

Cockling appears throughout text-block. Leaves in the first and last gatherings are ragged and worn. Losses to pp. 1–2, 215–218; tears from edges of pp. 1–2, 215–216, insect damage to pp. 1–2, 217–218, and water damage in pp. 202–218. Occasional drops of candle wax on the surface of the leaves, and stains, grime and discolourations in the first and last gatherings, pp. 81–99, and in marginal area of occasional gatherings.

Old repairs

Overcasting appears in pp. 1–16, 109–218.

Binding description

Greek-style binding covered in tanned skin, not contemporary with the text, possibly dating to the late 17th century.

Binding dimensions (mm)

195 x 160 x 38.

Left endleaves

Sewn full-size single-fold endleaves of plain white Western paper, and an English manuscript index in paper pasted on the first free left endleaf at a later stage.

Right endleaves

The current separate pastedown consists of pieced Greek printed paper waste.

Endleaf condition

Adhesive staining and discolourations from leather turn-ins.

Sewing

The text-block is re sewn with an unsupported structure, sewn all-along with a double-twisted sewing thread (i.e two twisted threads) of medium thickness, Z-twist, natural colour, using the four V-nicks in the spine-folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 25, 65, 120, 160 mm from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is loose at pp. 176–177, but the sewing thread is intact and remains strong enough to maintain the integrity of the structure during handling.

Spine linings

An overall lining of one layer of natural-colour, plain woven textile is visible and covers the full length of the spine and extends onto the outside of the boards.

Spine lining condition

The spine is smooth and slightly concave. The lining is complete and intact on the spine and the boards but the spine adhesive is breaking up and there is some loss of adhesion.

Boards and board attachment

2 mm laminated paper boards, the same size as the text-block and attached to the text-block with the same thread as the sewing thread. A zig-zag arrangement of the thread is clearly visible inside the left board, but it cannot be seen whether the attachment is integral or uses a separate bridling.

Board attachment condition

Both boards are cockled and left board is becoming delaminated.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been retrimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear worn and that of the last gathering ragged.

Endbands

Greek-style projecting two-core endbands sewn to the boards with a front bead and a crowning core. Both cores made from a plain thread S-twist cord of medium thickness and natural colour and the primary sewing has tie-downs in every gathering. The secondary sewing is executed in green and red silk threads.

Endband condition

Both endbands are still attached to the book-block but are slightly loose. The head-band cores are partially broken across the spine. The coloured silk threads of the secondary sewing have been worn away and parts of the cores are released.

Covering

Full cover of mid-brown tanned goatskin. The turn-ins are untrimmed and irregular in size and shape. The upper outer corner of the left board has open-mitres and the lower corner is lapped. The right board corners are not visible.

Covering (existing repairs)

The covering material at the right board has been patched at the head with a piece of light brown tanned goatskin which is turned-in over the board with a triangular turn-in.

Covering material condition

The covering skin is embrittled, with abrasions and lacerations. There are small tears and losses in the spine and corners and it has developed a blackened surface with a mixture of dirt and grease. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached to the boards.

Tooling

The cover has a blind-tooled three-line border frame with an inner frame with intersecting corners containing a lozenge, vertical and a saltire cross. The resulting compartments are filled with impressions from two small hand tools.

Furniture & fastenings

Small holes on both boards from two pairs of fore-edge ties, which are now missing; the material cannot be identified.

Inside left board: "S3"; ex libris of Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton 1805; f. <II>v: "1194"; p. 1: "S.3."

Inserts

Pasted to <I>v: index of lections by initial chapter and verse. Right pastedown composed of fragments of three leaves of early printed Greek hymn book.

Provenance

Owned by the Monastery of St Sabas in Palestine. Borrowed by J. D. Carlyle in 1800, purchased from his estate after his death by Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton and deposited in LPL 17 March 1806.

Textual tradition

Gregory-Aland 1 477; Scrivener Evst. 363/Apost 60.

Dating

Style of Hand A consistent with late 11th–early 12th century.

By pages, recto and verso, top outer corner, Arabic numerals, pencil, skips from 85 to 90, so numbers thereafter too large by four.

Quire numbers

At end of each quire, verso, bottom centre, Greek numerals, black or bright red ink (by Sophianos).

Columns & lines

Single column: ff. Ir–IIv: 26 lines; pp. 1–146: 16–17 lines.

Ruling

None.

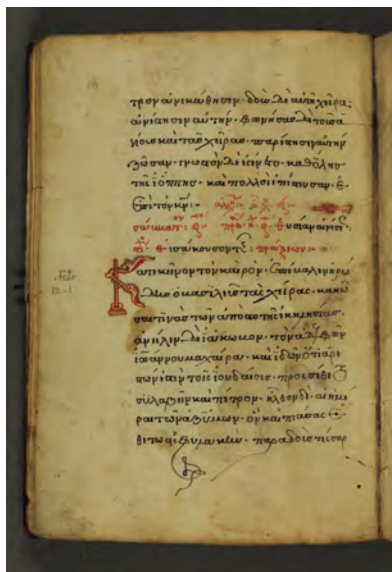

p. 150 (Sophianos)

Scribe(s)

Sophianos (Repertorium I, 363): pp. 1–148, 150, quire numbers; Hand B: ff. Ir–IIv; Hand C: p. 149; Anton, monk: Arabic note pasted to left board; Hand E: Arabic note p. 81; Rizqallāh, deacon: Arabic note p. 105; Hand G: stubs before f. I, after f. II; J. D. Carlyle: MS number f. Ir; Hand I: modern lection references, pagination; Hand J: lection index.

Script (general characteristics)

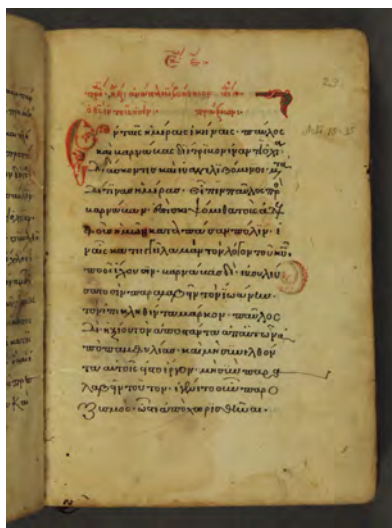

Sophianos: Fairly florid mixed minuscule with variable slant, extensive expansion of letters and frequent flourishes at line ends and in bottom line, occasionally elsewhere, quite common superscript word endings, usually only at line ends, deletions by strikethrough in red and green or by expunctuation by dot circle or line of dots above in red. Hand B: Regular upright mixed minuscule with substantial expansion of letters, common superscript word endings.

p. 18 (Sophianos)

Script (letters & ligatures)

Sophianos: kappa, xi always majuscule; upsilon always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: majuscule beta with figure-eight loops (p. 6); heart-shaped beta, sometimes with long diagonal descender; large majuscule gamma with very pronounced hook at end of horizontal; majuscule delta with small triangle, long base and curve; majuscule epsilon, theta with bar on central stroke; minuscule zeta tilted sharply to left; theta with separate wavy central stroke; majuscule kappa with diagonals joined by loop to left of vertical, sometimes flourished; transitional mu; clover-shaped xi; rho with straight diagonal tail; y-shaped upsilon (p. 51); chi with long down-left diagonal; psi with bar on vertical; distinctive ligatures: epsilon-pi with central stroke of majuscule epsilon forming horizontal of minuscule pi; ligatures with near-vertical half-epsilon; eta-sigma with central stroke of majuscule eta continued to join open-backed sigma (p. 50); phi-rho with rho passing through centre of phi, no lower left curve in phi (p. 95); phi-rho-omicron with rho passing through centre of phi, tail joining omicron from below to the right (p. 50). Hand B: kappa, lambda always majuscule; alpha, delta, mu, sigma, upsilon, psi always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: majuscule epsilon, theta with bar on central stroke; minuscule epsilon with club at top of ascender; small minuscule kappa tilted to the left; transitional mu.

p. 23 (Sophianos)

Diacritics & punctuation

Sophianos: Breathings round; circumflexes sometimes large, sometimes double-curved; acute accents and circumflexes joined to letters; mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota and upsilon, occasionally misused on diphthongs; use of middle and upper point, lower, middle and upper comma and full stop; double grave present on $\mu\grave{\iota}$. Hand B: Breathings round; mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota; use of lower, middle and upper point and full stop.

Abbreviations

Sophianos: Nomina sacra (accents separate from strokes); $\delta\acute{\epsilon}$, $\kappa\alpha\acute{\iota}$; syllabic (throughout line); suspensions. Hand B: Nomina sacra (accents sometimes separate from strokes, sometimes joined); syllabic (throughout line); horizontal stroke for nu; suspensions.

p. 50 (Sophianos)

Apparatus

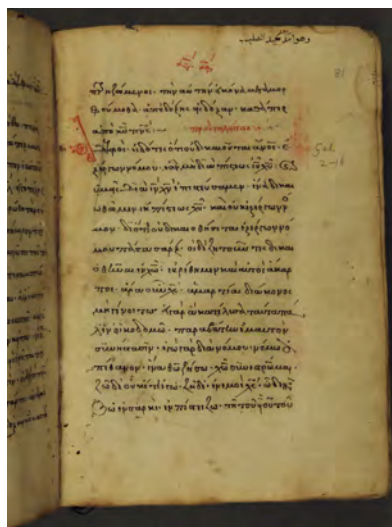

ff. Ir–IIv: rubricated headings for hymns; pp. 1–146: rubricated headings for lections, marginal and in line of text; occasional rubricated echos notes etc., in line of text; modern marginal chapter and verse numbers, in Latin script, Arabic numerals.

Ink

Sophianos: black and bright red; Hand B: dark brown and bright red; Hand C: black; Anton: black; Hand E: black; Rizqallāh: black; Hand G: black; J. D. Carlyle: grey-brown; Hand I: pencil; Hand J: mid-brown.

Ornament

Pyle for start of text p. 1, containing rinceaux, with demi-palmette ornament at corners, topped by plaited cross, in red ink with green infill. Heading for first lection p. 1 in epigraphic majuscule, in red ink with green infill. Initials for lections pp. 1–146, with scrolling ornament (except pp. 46, 48, 52, 54, 64, 101 with birds and vegetation, pedestals, pp. 1, 18, 58, 108 with demi-palmettes, pedestals, plaits etc.), in red ink, sometimes with green infill. Line-fillers often accompany start of lections pp. 1–146 (pp. 5, 7, 13, 18, 23, 24, 34, 39, 129, 135, 136, 138: horizontal bars with plaits and vegetative ornament at terminals; pp. 11, 28: scrolling ornament; elsewhere series

p. 81 (Sophianos, Hand E) of tripartite full stops etc.), in red ink, sometimes with green infill. Rubricated minor initials ff. Ir–IIV. Later six-pointed stars faintly printed in black ink, p. 1.

Text leaves

Thick handmade wove paper, off-white colour.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(pp. 33–34) 262 x 184.

Text leaf condition

Folio missing after p. 123. Extensive water damage, stains and discolourations appear throughout text-block. Limited insect activity, occasional pleating and folding and drops of candle wax on the surface of the leaves. Outer surface of the outer leaves of each gathering appear to be dirtier, possibly they were unbound before binding was repaired. Small tears from edges of pp. 145–150. Folios excised at time of production after pp. 30, 82.

p. 52 (Sophianos)

Old repairs

The margins and spine-folds of the leaves were repaired with plain paper before the book was sewn.

Binding description

Greek-style binding with reused wooden boards not covered in the rebinding, badly prepared, with remnants of leather from an earlier covering.

Binding dimensions (mm)

265 x 190 x 38.

Left endleaves

Remains of a paper pastedown and a sewn single fold of plain paper. Free endleaves made from a single-fold of Greek manuscript wove-paper waste, with an external plain paper guard.

Right endleaves

Skinned remnants from a paper pastedown are clearly evident on the inner surface of the board. Two free integral endleaves of handmade paper formed by the outer blank leaves of the last gathering.

Endleaf condition

Small tears, stains, discolourations and previous repairs to margins and spine-folds with plain paper appear in the left free endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block was resewn with an unsupported structure in a quite inconsistent pattern, with a medium-thickness, Z-twist, natural-colour double thread, using the three V-nicks in the spine-folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 40, 125, 215 mm, and two extra pierced-hole stations at 20 and 235 mm. The additional threads found in occasional gatherings are possibly the remnants of quire tackets.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure has broken at left end (pp. 8–9) while the joint area remains intact.

Spine linings

An overall lining of one layer of blue, plain woven textile which covers the full length of the spine and extends onto the outside of the boards.

Spine lining condition

The lining is complete on the spine and the boards but there is a loss of adhesion.

Boards and board attachment

The attachment uses separate bridling. Re-used 9 mm wooden boards with remnants of earlier turn-ins (red goat skin), the same size as the text-block with square edges were prepared for bridling through three tunnels.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, and have been retrimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear even, slightly worn and rounded, with very limited insect activity. Traces of earlier colour decoration on the head-edge, which appears to have been lightly blackened by grime.

Endbands

Greek-style projecting endbands sewn to the boards in plain thread over a single core of a plain S-twist cord of medium thickness and natural colour with tie-downs in every gathering. The tie-downs are anchored to the wooden boards through tunnels drilled through the thickness of the board.

Endband condition

Both head- and tailbands are sound but some tie-down threads have been pulled-out, and small parts of the cores are released.

Furniture & fastenings

A simple iron edge pin is inserted into the fore-edge of the left board. There are small holes for triple interlaced straps on the fore-edge of the right board.

Furniture & fastenings condition

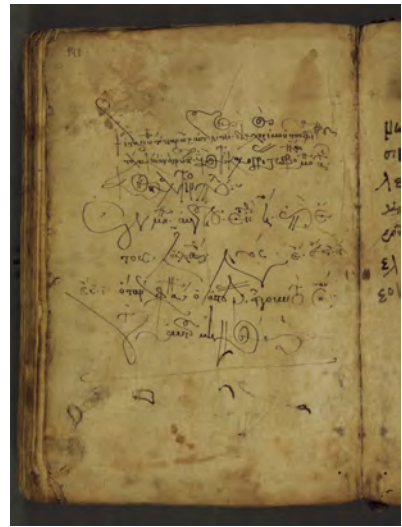

The edge pin is sound and intact. The straps and the clasp are missing.

Bookmarks

A small piece of straw at f. 124, possibly a remnant of a loose bookmark.

Colophon(s)

p. 148: colophon of Sophianos, anagnostes, son of Sophronia, nun of Constantinople, dating his completion of the manuscript to 8 Aug 1532, and to the time of the appearance of Halley's Comet (which actually occurred in 1531): “Ἐτε-λοιώθη<η> τὸ παρῶν αὐτοῦ βιβλίον, διὰ χειρὸς ἐμοῦ Σωφριανοῦ, τάχα καὶ ἀναγνώστου· υἱὸς τῆς καλογρέ(ας) Σωφρονίας μοναχ(ῆς) Κωνσταντινοπόλεως· ἐν μην<ι>· Αὐγούστου· εἰς τ(ὰς) Η΄· ἐπὶ ἔτους ,ΖΜ΄· (ἰνδικτιῶν)ος· Ε΄· (ῆ-λί)ου· κύ(κλος)· ΙΒ΄· (σελήνης) κύ(κλος)· Ι΄· ὅταν ἐφάν(ι) (δὲ) ὁ ἀστέρ(ας), εἴγουν τὸ ση(μεῖ)ον· τοῦ αὐτοῦ μηνός” (date ,ΖΜ΄ (AM 7040 = AD 1532) corrected from ,ΖΛΑ΄ (AM 7031 = AD 1523); p. 150: Arabic colophon of Sophianos:

("In the name of God: This is what(?) the deacon Rizqallāh, son of [- -], from the village of Kafarnūn, through a(?) transaction purchased from the monk Anton, book(?) [- -], for the amount of [- -] here(?) by God in it and [- -] long(?). Ayyūb, priest in name (only), was witness for this. Farajallāh was witness for this. [- -] This took place on the following date: on Sunday during the day in the year [- -] 7046 of our father Adam, may the peace and praise of God be on him always. The lowly Rizqallāh, deacon anagnostes in name (only), wrote it (this note). He wrote on the date (sic). May God have mercy on the writer, the reader and the person who says "amen, amen".").

Inserts

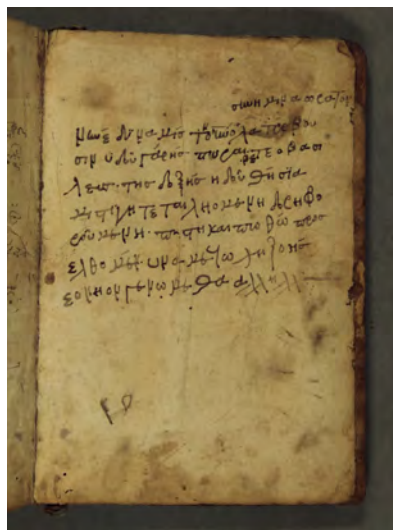

Loose at beginning of MS: index of lections by initial chapter and verse.

Other notes

p. 1: "Ι(ησο)υ βοήθιοι μοι"; p. 81: Arabic lection note: "وهو احد بعد عيد الصليب" ("and it is a Sunday after the Feast of the Cross"); p. 124: note regarding discontinuous order of text: "+ Σά<ββατον> Α'. ζήτ<ε> ή άρχ<ή>, όπισθ(εν) του φύλ<λου>:- λαθη".

Provenance

Purchased in 1537/8 from Anton, monk, by Rizqallāh, deacon, an inhabitant of the village of Kafarnūn (possibly the village of this name near Aleppo, or another in modern Lebanon). Owned by the Monastery of St Sabas in Palestine. Borrowed by J. D. Carlyle in 1800, purchased from his estate after his death by Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton and deposited in LPL 17 March 1806.

p. 149 (Hand C)

Textual tradition

Gregory-Aland I 167; Scrivener Apost. 61.

Dating

Dated by colophon p. 148 to 8 August 1532 (AM 7040), which corresponds correctly to the stated indiction and solar and lunar cycles. However, the colophon also states that it was completed at the time of the appearance of Halley's Comet, which occurred in 1531, reaching perihelion on 26 August. The Anno Mundi date was originally written as 7031 (1523) before being corrected to 7040 (1532), which may suggest that the scribe was thinking of 1531.

Remarks

Arabic notes transcribed and translated by Krisztina Szilágyi. The Arabic notes of Sophianos and Rizqallāh display extensive deviations from normal Arabic orthography and grammar, indicating that they lacked any training in Arabic scribal practice. The end of the lection for the first Saturday of Lent, on p. 125 (recto), is directly followed by that for the second Saturday on p. 126 (the verso of the same folio). The intervening lection for the first Sunday, evidently initially omitted by the scribe, was inserted on additional folios in the middle of that for the first Saturday, of which only the last folio (pp. 123–124) remains.

Script (general characteristics)

Hand A, main text: Regular upright mixed minuscule with little expansion of letters, some flourished tails in bottom line, occasionally with ornament, superscript word endings rare, at line ends only. Hand A, rubric: Alexandrine majuscule.

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A, mixed minuscule: kappa always majuscule; upsilon, psi always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: majuscule delta, lambda with ascender sharply curving to the left; large, tilted, angular minuscule nu; distinctive ligatures: epsilon-iota with long diagonal ascender, sometimes markedly tilted to the left with ascender almost perpendicular to the upright.

p. 349 (Hand A)

Diacritics & punctuation

Hand A: Breathings angular, half-angular and round; circumflexes small but enlarged over breathings; mute iota absent; use of double dot functional only; use of full stop; double grave present on δέ, ἐπεὶ, μὲν, μὴ.

Abbreviations

Hand A: Nomina sacra (accents absent); καί; syllabic (at line ends only); horizontal stroke for nu; chi-rho monogram for Χρυσόστομος.

Ornament

Simple rubricated initial for start of text p. 1. Simple rubricated band of ornament precedes text p. 1: horizontal line with alternating bars and x-shapes. Simple rubricated bands of ornament precede Holy Week lections and months, or accompany headings as space fillers pp. 374, 376, 378, 380, 386, 391, 416, 418, 420–421, 425, 431: wavy lines with space fillers, sometimes with leaf ornament at terminals. Rubricated minor initials.

Illustration

Crude outline drawing of figure holding mace p. 239. Crude outline drawing p. 436.

Text leaves

Medium-thickness parchment, off-white/yellow colour, skins arranged with hair-side facing hair-side throughout.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(pp. 215–216) 270 x 208.

Text leaf condition

Cockling and pleating appear in pp. 435–438 and in the first and last gatherings. Occasional leaves are worn and partially detached from their conjugates (p. 367). Tears/cuts to edges of pp. 1–4, 11–14, 17–18, 25–26, 31–32, 35–46, 55–56, 85–86, 101–102, 105–108, 111–112, 115–118, 131–134, 139–142, 149–150, 155–160, 165–166, 191–192, 195–196, 207–208, 221–226, 231–240, 245–248, 266–268, 277–282, 285–286, 301–304, 307–308, 317–318, 327–330, 333–352, 365–370, 381–394, 401–408, 411–412, 417–418, 421–426, 429–438; small holes in pp. 1–2, 39–40, 63–64, 243–244, 307–308, 351–352, 358–359, 391–392, 421–422, larger hole in pp. 3–4. Stains and grime in the marginal area of the gatherings throughout text-block, especially pp. 47–79 and in the first and last folios. Folios excised at time of production after pp. 402, 412.

Old repairs

Occasional leaves were repaired with sewing thread (pp. 2–3, 241–242, 385–386, 391–394, 421–422, 425–426, 429–430; repairs to pp. 241–242, 429–430 torn again) and with plain handmade paper to the marginal area, before the book was sewn.

Binding description

Greek-style binding covered in tanned skin using coarse materials, not contemporary with the text, possibly dating to the late 17th century.

Binding dimensions (mm)

283 x 225 x 115.

Left endleaves

A sewn endleaf hook of white handmade laid paper within an outside hook; the outer stub and full leaf are pasted to the board.

Right endleaves

Sewn single-fold endleaf of white handmade laid paper within a guard, with the outer element of the guard and the outermost leaf pasted to the board.

Endleaf condition

Adhesive staining and discolouration, penetration and transparency appear all over in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block has been re sewn with an unsupported structure, sewn all-along with a medium-thickness, loose S-twist, natural-colour thread, using the four V-nicks in the spine-folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 25, 95, 167, 237 mm from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The current structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Spine linings

The spine has been rounded. An overall lining of one layer of plain, natural-colour woven textile is visible and covers the full length of the spine and extends onto the outside of the boards.

Spine lining condition

The lining is partly split along the left joint.

Boards and board attachment

13 mm wooden boards, the same size as the text-block with square edges. The pastedowns obscure the exact manner in which the attachment is carried out.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been retrimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the first and last gatherings appear ragged and blackened by dirt and grime whereas in the rest of the text-block the edges are lightly worn and stained.

Endbands

Greek-style projecting endbands sewn to the boards. Primary endbands worked in plain thread over single cord cores of medium thickness, tight S-twist, and natural colour and the primary sewing has tie-downs in every gathering. The secondary sewing is executed in red, green, and blue silk threads, incorporating a crowning core.

Endband condition

Both head- and tailbands are sound and securely attached to the book-block.

Covering

Full cover of mid-brown thick tanned goat or sheepskin. The turn-ins are untrimmed, irregular in size and shape, with lapped corners with the fore-edge turn-in lying on top of the head and tail turn-ins.

Covering (existing repairs)

Tears in the covering skin have been repaired with stitching before the book was covered.

Covering material condition

The covering skin is embrittled, with small tears, abrasions and lacerations. It has also developed a blackened surface with a mixture of dirt and grease. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached to the boards.

Tooling

The cover has a blind-tooled two-line border frame containing a saltire cross with visible but uneven, low quality impressions.

Furniture & fastenings

There is a simple copper alloy edge pin inserted into the fore-edge of the left board and a thick flat leather edge-pin strap with a hole for the edge pin, attached to the centre of the fore-edge of the right board, fastened under the pastedown.

Furniture & fastenings condition

The edge pin is sound and intact. The strap is attached securely to the board but is broken off at the hole made for the edge pin.

Bookmarks

Piece of later paper manuscript waste in English as a loose bookmark between ff. 436–437.

Notes & marks of ownership

Script (general characteristics)

Hand A: Calligraphic upright mixed minuscule with significant expansion of letters and common flourishes at line ends and in bottom line, expanded and flamboyantly decorative words at end of sections, common superscript word endings, usually at line ends, deletions by strikethrough in brown and red ink and by erasure, very erratic spelling.

f. 9r (Hand A)

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A: eta, kappa, lambda, psi always majuscule; delta, zeta, nu, xi, upsilon always minuscule; beta, gamma, usually minuscule; distinctive letter forms: wide theta, sometimes with bar on central stroke; majuscule kappa with diagonals joined by loop to left of vertical, sometimes flamboyant; large tau with curved horizontal extending only to left joining vertical below top; chi with extended down-left diagonal; distinctive ligatures: alpha-nu with stroke of majuscule alpha vertical, descending to join minuscule nu at foot of descender; epsilon-rho with half-epsilon extended far to left of open rho; theta-epsilon merging right-hand curve of wide theta with left-hand curve of majuscule epsilon.

f. 4v (Hand A)

Diacritics & punctuation

Hand A: Breathings round; circumflexes double-curved; circumflexes joined to abbreviations (ω); mute iota absent or subscript; decorative use of double dot on iota and upsilon; use of lower, middle and upper point, lower and middle comma, question mark and full stop; double grave present on ἀμὴν, γὰρ, δέ, ἐάν, οὐαί.

Abbreviations

Hand A: Nomina sacra (accents sometimes separate from strokes, sometimes joined); καί, περί; syllabic (throughout line); suspensions.

Apparatus

Rubricated headings for works.

Ink

Hand A: dark brown and bright red; Hand B: grey; Hand C: pale brown; Hand D: grey; Hand E: grey; Hand F: grey; Hand G: pencil.

Ornament

Headpieces to works ff. 1r, 5r, 11r (f. 1r: thin horizontal band of short vertical and horizontal lines, topped with three plants, with T-shaped vegetative terminals; f. 5r: horizontal plait topped with three plants, with vegetative terminals, topped with birds and with protruding snakes, linked with thin horizontal band below heading with vegetative terminals; f. 11r: thin horizontal band of wavy lines and short vertical curves topped with Russian cross standing on steps, with vegetative terminals topped with angels), in dark brown ink with red and beige infill. Major initials for start of works ff. 1r, 5r, 11r, 18v, 20v, with vegetative and other ornament (f. 5r with blessing hand), in dark brown ink with red and beige infill. Ornate final words of text f. 4v, with decoration in red ink. Curves and loops of letters often filled with red ink.

f. 11r (Hand A)

Illustration

None.

Text leaves

Medium-thickness Western handmade paper, off-white colour, with scales watermark comparable to Harlfinger Balance 62 (dated 1515), Briquet 2569 (dated 1479).

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(f. 17) 210 x 129.

Text leaf condition

One or more folios missing after f. 1. Insect activity, stains and discolourations appear throughout text-block. Occasional drops of candle wax on the surface of the leaves. First and last folios are partially detached and occasional small tears in the marginal area of the leaves.

Binding description

English early 19th-century inboard binding with a natural hollow back and reversed caps, half-covered in parchment with brown wove paper on the sides.

Binding dimensions (mm)

218 x 135 x 15.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same. A sewn single fold of light blue, medium-thickness, handmade wove paper with the outermost leaf pasted to the board.

Endleaf condition

Light discolourations in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block has been resewn all-along on three thin, recessed single cord supports, with a medium-thickness, single, S-ply, loose twist, natural-colour thread, using five pierced-hole stations at 11 (head kettle), 45, 100, 160, 190 mm (tail kettle) from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Spine linings

A lining of one layer of plain, off-white paper is visible and covers the full length of the spine.

Boards and board attachment

3 mm paper boards, cut to give squares at head, tail and fore-edge. The support slips appear to have been laced through the boards.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been re-trimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear rounded and worn.

Covering

The binding is covered in half parchment with brown wove paper (cobb paper) on the sides, and the turn-ins are trimmed, regular in size with corners with open-mitres.

Covering material condition

There are stains and abrasions in the covering paper and the parchment has developed a darkened surface with a mixture of dirt. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached.

Other notes

<I>r: bookplate recording conservation funded by the Friends of Lambeth Palace Library, to commemorate the term in office of Archbishop Rowan Williams; f. 12r: “Ὅτι ἤκουον τοῦ ἀγίου εὐαγγελίου”; f. 18r: “Καὶ σηχορίσε ἡμ(ην)· ὁ Θε(ε)ὸς ἡμῶν καὶ μεταλαβομεν· ἀκατακρίτος τοῦ τιμοῦ σώματος· καὶ αἵματος· εἰς ἀφεσ(ην) ἁμαρτυῶν (καὶ) ζωὴν αἰώνιον”; f. 21v: “Ἀλλη πάρεην εαν οὐ πιουσ(ην) τα προριθεντ<α>, ἄλλος παραγουσ(ην) δια στο<ματος> (?)”.

Provenance

Acquired by J. D. Carlyle in the eastern Mediterranean 1799–1801, purchased by Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton and deposited in LPL 17 March 1806.

Dating

Style of Hand A consistent with 15th or 16th century. Watermarks comparable to examples from late 15th–early 16th centuries (see Text leaves).

Script (general characteristics)

Hand A: Rather florid mixed minuscule, slanted slightly to the right, with significant expansion of letters, common superscript word endings, deletions by strikethrough, use of catchwords.

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A: beta, zeta, lambda, xi, omega always majuscule; eta, mu, nu always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: minuscule epsilon with curved upright joining loop from the left, loop tapering to the right; very large half-epsilon; majuscule kappa with diagonals extended to left of vertical, often forming loop; very hook-shaped tau; wide, flat, flourished upsilon; chi with pronounced hook on down-left diagonal; distinctive ligatures: alpha-rho with alpha joined to open rho from above; phi-rho with rho passing through centre of phi.

Diacritics & punctuation

Hand A: Breathings round; circumflexes double-curved; mute iota absent; use of double dot functional only; use of middle and upper point, middle comma and full stop; horizontal strokes over personal names; use of hyphen (right margin) to join words across line breaks.

Abbreviations

Hand A: Nomina sacra (accents sometimes separate from strokes, sometimes joined); δέ, καί; syllabic (throughout line); suspensions.

Ornament

Headpiece precedes start of text f. 1r: rubricated rectangular block containing rinceaux with palmettes and demi-palmettes, with decoration at corners and on top. Rubricated horizontal band with scroll decoration precedes start of Roman history f. 56v. Rubricated line-fillers with scroll decoration precede reigns of Theodosios and Basil I f. 149r, 273r. Rubricated major initials for sections with scroll decoration. Occasional rubricated minor initials within line of text. Occasional red infill of omicron. Crude five-pointed stars by later hand f. 153r, in dark brown ink.

Text leaves

Western handmade paper, medium thickness, off-white colour.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(f. 10) 191 x 136.

Text leaf condition

Stains and grime appear throughout the text-block and especially to the first and last gathering. Limited insect activity in ff. 1–5, 215–228, 300–318, <II>. Partial loss of marginal notes due to trimming in ff. 24, 145, 235.

Binding description

German-style inboard binding, covered in tanned goatskin and tooled in blind with stuck-on endbands, possibly comes from one of the Orthodox countries of the Balkans, dating to the late 16th–early 17th century, contemporary with the text.

Binding dimensions (mm)

208 x 155 x 73.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same. A sewn single fold of white, medium-thickness, handmade laid paper with the outermost leaf adhered to the board at each end. Remnants of three stubs of early printed paper waste in Greek are clearly evident along the joint on the right board.

Endleaf condition

Stains, discolouration, small tears and limited insect activity.

Sewing

The text-block is resewn all-along on two single, raised, twisted cord supports, with a single, loose Z-twist, natural-colour thread, using the four V-nicks in the spine-folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 10, 70, 127, 185 mm from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Spine linings

The spine has been rounded. An overall lining of early printed paper waste in Greek appears to cover the full length of the spine and extends onto the outside of the boards. The number of layers is not visible.

Spine lining condition

The lining is complete and intact on the spine and the boards.

Boards and board attachment

7 mm wooden boards, cut to give squares at head, tail and fore-edge. Both boards have centre bevels at head, tail and fore-edge on the outer surfaces of the boards. The support slips appear to have been laced through the boards but the pastedowns obscure the exact manner in which the attachment is carried out.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been retrimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear even. The head-edge appears to have been blackened by dirt.

Endbands

Stuck-on woven endbands in beige and blue thread adhered to the head and tail of the spine.

Endband condition

Both head- and tailbands are attached to the book-block and are lightly stained with dirt.

Covering

Full cover of red-brown tanned goatskin. The turn-ins are untrimmed, irregular in size and shape, with lapped corners.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions, lacerations, stains and encrusted dirt in the covering skin. The turn-ins remain attached to the boards.

Tooling

Both covers have blind-tooled decoration. There is a border frame with a centrepiece and four corner-piece stamps on the left board and a two-panel frame within a frame, with a centrepiece on the right board. The three panels on the spine have blind-tooled double lines at head and tail.

Furniture & fastenings

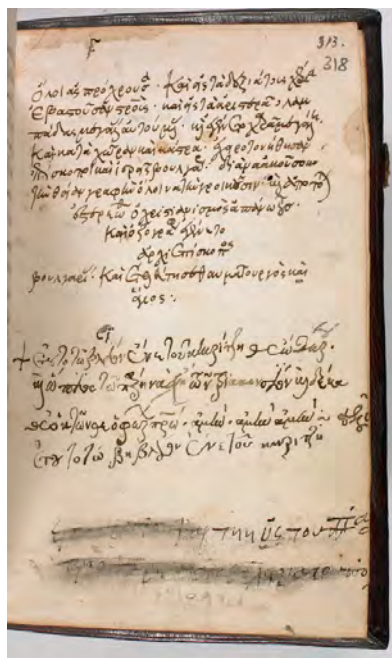

Originally the book had a pair of tanned-skin straps with clasps, attached to the fore-edge surface of the right board under the covering material, which fastened onto two edge pins in the left board.

Furniture & fastenings condition

All fastenings, straps, clasps, and an edge pin are now completely missing. Only one of the two edge pins is sound on the fore-edge of the left board.

English early 19th-century inboard binding with a natural hollow back and reversed caps, half-covered in parchment with brown wove paper on the sides.

Binding dimensions (mm)

199 x 147 x 20.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same. A sewn single fold of light blue, medium-thickness, handmade wove paper with the outer leaf adhered to the board at each end.

Endleaf condition

Light discolourations in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block has been re sewn on recessed sewing supports. There is evidence of three V-nicks in the spine folds (ff. 11–26) from an earlier unsupported sewing at 15, 74, 135 mm from the head of the text-block. It is now sewn all-along on three single cords supports, with a medium-thickness, single, S-ply, loose twist, natural colour thread, using five pierced-hole stations at 10 (head kettle), 40, 88, 138, 178 mm (tail kettle) from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Spine linings

A lining of one layer of plain, off-white paper is visible and covers the full length of the spine.

Boards and board attachment

3 mm paper boards, cut to give squares at head, tail and fore-edge. The support slips appear to have been laced through the boards.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been re-trimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear even. The head-edge appears to have been stained.

Covering

The binding is covered in half parchment with brown wove paper (cobb paper) on the sides, and the turn-ins are trimmed, regular in size with lapped corners.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions in the covering paper and the parchment has developed a darkened surface with a mixture of dirt. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached.

Left pastedown: "No 1203"; ex libris of Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton 1805.

Other notes

Left pastedown: f. ir: "Dionys Perieget. A V. 43 ad finem. Aeschyli Persa"; f. 1r: "IA*" f. 6r, right margin, lines 16–17: "φάεθον".

Provenance

Acquired by J. D. Carlyle in the eastern Mediterranean 1799–1801, purchased after his death by Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton and deposited in LPL 17 March 1806.

Textual tradition

Text of Dionysios Periegetes identified by Tsavari as derived from MS. Bodleianus Auct. f. 4. 5 (Misc. gr. 104).

Dating

Difference in paper and lack of physical integration or textual relationship suggests that ff. 1–26 (by Michael Souliardos) and ff. 27–58 (by Hands B–D) were originally separate entities. Style of Hands B–D consistent with 14th century; watermarks of ff. 27–58 comparable to mid–late 14th-century examples (see Text leaves). Period of activity of Michael Souliardos known from other dated MSS (Repertorium I, 286, II, 392, III, 468) as mid-15th–beginning of 16th century.

Ruling

Usually on recto, sometimes verso; layout non-Leroy: margins only: top, bottom, right, hardpoint; text area 210 mm x 155 mm.

Scribe(s)

Hand A: main text f. 1r–f. 63r, line 10, ff. 65r–72v; Hand B: initials and section numbers, added heading f. 58v, duplicate headings ff. 59r, 64r, partial replacement heading f. 65r, note f. 58v; Hand C: main text, f. 64r, lines 1–18; Hand D: main text f. 63r, line 10–f. 63v, f. 64r, line 19–f. 64v, scholia ff. 1–63r, 64r, 65r–72v; Hand E: scholia ff. 32v, 64v–72v; Hand F: corrections ff. 4r, 36r, 62v, 63r; Hand G: pagination.

Script (general characteristics)

Hand A: Florid, scholarly mixed minuscule, with variable slant, tending towards “blob style”, considerable enlargement of letters and accents, occasional short tails in right margin, common superscript word endings and frequent use of abbreviations, deletions by strikethrough or erasure. Hand B: Alexandrine, sometimes pointed majuscule for initials, Alexandrine majuscule with some minuscule forms for section numbers, mixed minuscule for headings and notes, upright, with some expansion of abbreviations. Hand C: Slightly shaky scholarly mixed minuscule, slanting to the right, with limited expansions of letters and some flourishes. Hand D: Informal scholarly mixed minuscule slanting markedly to the right with letters widely spaced, occasional deletions by strikethrough. Hand E: Compact scholarly mixed minuscule, slanting slightly to the right, letter size reasonably consistent but with some enlarged forms.

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A: beta, gamma, zeta, lambda, xi always majuscule; eta, mu, nu, sigma, upsilon, psi always minuscule; minuscule pi present only in ligatures; short eta, sigma telikon present; distinctive letter forms: large telikon-style sigma both at word-ends and mid-word, often wrapped around following letter; large zeta often wrapped around following letter; iota, majuscule pi and tau with foot of verticals turned to the left; base of majuscule delta raised somewhat above the normal line of text; majuscule for minor initials ff. 65r–72v with clubs on base of tau, prominent serifs at extremities, especially upper and lower parts of epsilon, bars on centre of eta, sometimes phi. Hand B: Distinctive ligatures: epsilon-rho with low half-epsilon and rho reduced to a vertical; phi-rho with vertical of rho passing through the middle of phi. Hand C: beta, gamma, zeta, kappa, lambda, xi always majuscule; delta, eta, mu, nu, upsilon, psi always minuscule; short eta, sigma telikon present; distinctive ligatures: double lambda without ascenders. Hand D: beta, zeta, lambda, xi always majuscule; eta, mu, nu, sigma, upsilon, psi always minuscule; beta always long-bowed; distinctive ligatures: fluent epsilon-chi with half-epsilon absorbed into the curve of chi. Hand E: beta, gamma, zeta, kappa, lambda, xi always majuscule; eta, mu, nu, upsilon always minuscule; long-bowed beta, sigma telikon present; distinctive letter forms: theta with elongated horizontal.

Diacritics & punctuation

Hand A: Breathings round; circumflexes often very wide, acutes sometimes elongated; accents joined to letters and breathings; mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota and upsilon; double grave present on ᾶν, δὲ, μὲν; use of lower, middle and upper point, middle comma and full stop. Hand B: Breathings round; circumflexes often quite wide and double-curved; decorative use of double dot on iota. Hand C: Breathings round; circumflexes sometimes very wide and double-curved, acutes joined to letters sometimes elongated; accents joined to letters, breathings and abbreviations (ῶν); mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota and upsilon; use of lower, middle and upper point, middle comma and full stop. Hand D: Breathings round; accents joined to letters, breathings and abbreviations (ῶν); mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota; use of lower, middle and upper point, lower and middle comma, question mark and full stop. Hand E: Breathings round; accents joined to letters, breathings and abbreviations (ῶν); mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota and upsilon; double grave present on ᾶν; use of lower, middle and upper point and lower comma.

Abbreviations

Hand A: Nomina sacra (accents separate from strokes); γάρ, δέ, καί; syllabic. Hand B: none. Hand C: γάρ, καί, syllabic. Hand D: Nomina sacra (accents joined to strokes); καί; syllabic; horizontal stroke for nu; suspensions. Hand E: Nomina sacra (accents joined to strokes); γάρ, δέ, ἐστί, καί, σελήνη, φησί; syllabic.

Apparatus

Headings; rubricated marginal chapter numbers (roughly corresponding to standard sequence, but with variations).

Ink

Hand A: mid-brown; Hand B: red, with variations in tone (eg. f. 29r); Hand C: mid-brown and red; Hand D: variable brown (considerable variation in ink and ductus even on same page, eg. f. 29r); Hand E: mid-brown and red; Hand F: black; Hand G: pencil.

f. 67v (Hands A, D, E)

Ornament

Headpieces precede beginning of Prob. 4 f. 8r, De Mirabilibus Auscultationibus f. 65v: plait, alternating pairs of vertical and horizontal lines, with spearhead terminals. Line-fillers accompany beginning of sections ff. 3r, 5v, 11r, 11v, 12r, 13v, 14v, 19r, 23r, 23v, 24r, 24v, 28r, 32r, 36r, 37r, 40r, 43r, 47r, 48r, 48v, 50r, 54v, 55r, 56v, 57r, 58r, 59r: plaits, partially plaited shafts with acanthus terminals, wavy lines with space fillers, rows of pairs of horizontal lines alternating with pairs of vertical lines, with leaf terminals. Marginal ornament accompanies beginning of Problems or works ff. 5v, 11v, 14v, 19r, 23v, 24r, 25r, 26r, 28r, 29r, 32r, 34v, 36r, 37r, 41r, 47r, 48r, 48v, 50r, 53r, 56v, 57v, 58r: vine-scrolls, plaited quatrefoils, acanthus, wavy lines with space fillers. All of the above in red ink or brown ink with red ink infill. Rubricated major initials with scroll ornament for some Problem headings. Rubricated minor initials for headings in Problemata and for each section and subsection (for sections, and sometimes for headings and subsections, initials appear in space left for them, but for headings and subsections often written over normal text; in both cases diacritics are in brown).

Text leaves

Medium-thickness Western handmade paper.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(f. 15) 275 x 196.

Text leaf condition

f. 24A–B erroneously bound in after rather than before f. 24. Light discolourations in the marginal area of the gatherings. Some loss of text due to trimming. Insect damage leading to loss of some outer parts of early folios, with some loss of text.

Old repairs

Occasional leaves repaired with Japanese paper.

Binding description

20th-century inboard binding covered in quarter mid-brown tanned calfskin with marbled paper on the sides.

Binding dimensions (mm)

290 x 219 x 30.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same and is the result of repairs during the rebinding. A single fold of light yellow, medium-thickness, machine-made wove paper tipped within an outside hook of the same paper, itself tipped to the outermost text leaf at each end. The stub and the outermost full leaf at each end are pasted to the board.

Endleaf condition

Light discolourations in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block has been repaired and resewn on recessed sewing supports with five false bands on the spine. It is now sewn all-along with a medium-thickness, single, S-ply, tight twist, white thread, using five pierced hole stations at 20, 46, 124, 193, 250 mm from the head of the text-block. Due to a heavy application of adhesive and restricted opening it was difficult to examine the sewing structure.

Sewing condition

The current structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been retrimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear rounded and worn.

Endbands

Stuck-on, woven endbands in red and green coloured thread, adhered to the head and tail of the spine.

Tooling

The six panels on the spine have a single blind-tooled line at the head and tail of each panel, a gold-tooled title in panel 2 and a gold-tooled shelf mark number in panel 6, both tooled directly.

Provenance

Acquired by J. D. Carlyle in the eastern Mediterranean 1799–1801, purchased after his death by Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton and deposited in LPL 17 March 1806.

Textual tradition

Text of Pseudo-Aristotle, Problemata, identified by Ferrini as part of a sub-group derived from MS. Parisinus gr. 2036 but displaying other influences, most closely related to MSS. Londinensis Add. 23927 and Corpus Christi College, Oxford 113, both dated to the fourteenth century; likewise linked with MS. Londinensis Add. 23927 by Wiesner. Text of Pseudo-Aristotle, De Mirabilibus Auscultationibus placed by Flashar in in the second of three families of the tradition, ranking alongside MS. Vaticanus gr. 1302, the principal exemplar of this family, of similar date, but lacking any identified descendants.

Dating

Style of Hand A consistent with 13th or 14th century. Hand B rubric added after completion of text by Hand A. Hand C confined to one folio, among a few left blank by Hand A. Hand D text fitted around Hands A, B and C; style consistent with 15th century. Hand E text squeezed into space between Hands A and D. Hand F corrects Hand A.

Remarks

Various portions of the full text are omitted (Moraux et al., pp. 459–461), including the first four chapters of Prob. 15, which appears with a variant title (“Ὅσα περὶ τὰ οὐ(ρά)νια” in place of “Ὅσα μαθηματικῆς μετέχει θεωρίας ἀπλῶς καὶ ὅσα περὶ τὰ οὐράνια”). This may reflect the fact that only the first three chapters of this Problem concern mathematics; the usual form is perhaps the result of merging of two former Problems (ed. Mayhew, vol. 1, pp. 452–454). The words “περὶ παραδόξων” of the heading to Pseudo-Aristotle, De Mirabilibus Auscultationibus, f. 65r replace earlier erased text, possibly due to conversion from the common alternative form of the title in which “περὶ Θαυμασίων” would appear instead.

Scribe(s)

Hand A: all.

Script (general characteristics)

Hand A: Informal, fluid, scholarly mixed minuscule, slanted markedly to the right, with frequent blots and corrections, deletions by strikethrough or occasional expunction through line of dots above word.

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A: beta, zeta, kappa, lambda, xi, omega always majuscule; all other letters except pi always minuscule; short eta, sigma telikon present; distinctive letter forms: hourglass-like pi; chi with lower extremities joined; 3-shaped sigma telikon.

Diacritics & punctuation

Hand A: Breathings round, often long and sometimes almost straight; circumflex joined to rough breathing; mute iota subscript; double dot functional only; use of lower, middle and upper point, lower and middle comma, full stop and brackets; marginal double comma quotation mark (diple) to indicate main text; occasional use of horizontal stroke over a proper name; use of reference mark to link notes to text.

p. 19 (Hand A)

Abbreviations

Hand A: Nomina sacra (accents sometimes joined to strokes, sometimes separate); καί; occasional syllabic.

Apparatus

Text passages indicated by quotation marks in left margin, lines of text numbered in Arabic numerals in left margin in one sequence: ff. 5r–11v every line, ff. 12r–17r, 20v–21r, 24v, 30r–v every five lines, ff. 17v–20r, 21v–24r, 25r–29v, 31r–32r every ten lines; line 480 erroneously numbered 490, all numbers thereafter consequently ten lines out of step; occasional marginal scholia or corrections to text or exegesis (ff. 10v, 12v, 13r, 15v, 19r, 21r, 23r–v, 24v–25r, 26r) (notes in top margin largely lost due to trimming of folios).

Ink

Dark brown.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(pp. 31–32) 151 x 107.

Text leaf condition

Some loss of text due to trimming.

Binding description

20th-century adhesive case binding covered in full light brown bookcloth.

Binding dimensions (mm)

157 x 115 x 7.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same. A single fold of light yellow, medium-thickness, machine-made wove paper tipped to the outermost text leaf at each end. The outermost full leaf is pasted to the board.

Sewing

Two gatherings sewn all along with a medium-thickness, natural-colour thread at four pierced holes along the inner margin.

Sewing condition

The current structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut and undecorated.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear rounded.

Tooling

Shelf mark number tooled in black direct on the spine.

Other notes

Left pastedown: "ΛΥΚΟΦΩΝΟΣ ΑΛΕΞΑΝΔΡΑ Cum Schol. Ex init. Ad fin. Ver. 520 Not. In MS 490 ver. pro 480".

Provenance

Acquired by J. D. Carlyle in the eastern Mediterranean 1799–1801, purchased after his death by Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton and deposited in LPL 17 March 1806.

Dating

Style of script characteristic of 16th century.

Dilts, vol. 1, p. 30, lines 6–7)); f. <O>r: title of first oration of the MS (Philippica 3), with page references, inserted; f. Ov: blank, inserted.

By folios, recto, bottom centre, Arabic numerals, pencil; ff A–L: by folios, recto, top right, Latin letters, pencil; occasionally by folios, recto, top right, Arabic numerals, pencil, incomplete with errors; occasionally by folios, verso, bottom centre, Arabic numerals, pencil; ff. A, D, G, J: folio numbers on inserts, pertaining to following original folio, recto, bottom centre, Arabic numerals, dark brown ink.

Quire numbers

At end of each quire, verso, bottom right, Greek numerals, dark brown ink; first three quires and f. 8 missing so numbers begin f. 16v with number 5; numbers 16 and 21 swapped over due to erroneous binding of ff. 104 and 144, otherwise consistent except where folios missing.

Columns & lines

Single column; ff. 1r–103v, 105r, 144r–v, 153r–231v, Br–v, Er–v, Hr–v, Kr–v, <N>r–v: 23–28 lines; ff. 104r–v, 105v–130v, 131v–143v, 145v–151v: 27–30 lines; ff. 131r, 152r–v: 30–32 lines.

Ruling

None.

Scribe(s)

Hand A: ff. 1r–103v, 105r, 153r–231v, Br–v, Er–v, Hr–v, Kr–v, <N>r–v, scholia and corrections ff. 105v–143v, 145v–151v; Hand B: ff. 104r–v, 105v–130r, 131v–143v, 145r–151v; Hand C: ff. 130v–131r, 152r–v; Hand D: ff. 144r–v, 236r–v; Hand E: note f. 62v; Hand F: notes ff. 101r, 102r; Hand G: note f. 110r; Hand H: quire numbers; Charles Burney: inserts; Hand J: foliation; Hand K: MS number f. 1r.

Script (general characteristics)

Hand A: Scholarly mixed minuscule, upright, with occasional mild expansion of letters; some flourishes at line ends; quite common deletions using strikethrough or erasure of text. Hand B: Ornate scholarly mixed minuscule, upright or slanted slightly to the right, with considerable fluctuation in letter size, including both expansion of individual letters and sharp contraction of text; flourishes at line ends; descenders slant sharply back. Hand C: Similar to Hand B (deliberate imitation) but less accomplished, with greater slant to right; flourished tails on phi, rho in bottom line of folio. Hand D: Very similar to Hand A, but more assured.

f. 105v (Hands B, A)

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A: beta, gamma, zeta, xi always majuscule, delta, sigma, upsilon, psi always minuscule; long-bowed beta, short eta present. Hand B: beta, gamma, zeta, kappa, lambda, xi always majuscule; mu, nu, upsilon, psi always minuscule; long-bowed beta, sigma telikon present; distinctive letter forms: majuscule alpha with expanded loop; large, curving majuscule eta, sometimes with left vertical not joined to horizontal; large minuscule epsilon with curved upright joining loop from the left; large iota with left turn at bottom, right at top; tau with left horizontal curving below to meet base of vertical; large upsilon forming almost complete ring, with double dot inside; distinctive ligatures: epsilon often joined to following letter by upright rising vertically from apex of loop; καί-abbreviation with small loop surrounded by curve often joined to following word; large καί-abbreviation with loop surrounded by curve. Hand C: Similar to Hand B, but minuscule gamma present, eta always majuscule; some elaborate multi-letter ligatures. Hand D: Similar to Hand A.

Diacritics & punctuation

Hand A: Breathings round; circumflexes often quite wide and slightly double-curved; accents joined to letters, breathings and omega-nu abbreviation; mute iota absent; double dot used decoratively on iota and upsilon; double grave present on ᾗν, μὲν; use of lower, middle and upper point, lower and middle comma and full stop. Hand B: Breathings round; accents joined to letters, breathings and abbreviations (ῶν); mute iota subscript; double dot used decoratively on iota and upsilon; double grave present on ᾗν; use of lower, middle and upper point, lower and middle comma; horizontal strokes over some names. Hand C: Similar to Hand B; acute accent joined to omicron. Hand D: Breathings round; accents joined to letters, breathings and omega-nu abbreviation; mute iota absent; double dot used decoratively on iota and upsilon; double grave present on ᾗν; use of lower, middle and upper point, lower and middle comma and full stop; horizontal strokes over personal names.

f. 152r (Hand C)

Abbreviations

Hand A: Nomina sacra (accents separate from strokes); γάρ, δέ, ἐστί, καί; syllabic (throughout line, some joined to letters). Hand B: Nomina sacra (accents separate from strokes); δέ, ἐστί, καί; syllabic (throughout line). Hand C: Nomina sacra (accents separate from strokes); γάρ, δέ, καί; syllabic (throughout line); horizontal stroke for nu; very occasional use in mid-word of abbreviations normally only found at word end. Hand D: Nomina sacra (accents separate from strokes); γάρ, καί; syllabic (throughout line).

Apparatus

Headings for orations and hypotheses; ff. 3r–171v: marginal scholia (typical ancient scholia, possibly by Ulpian); f. 90r–v: marginal Greek numbers 1–8, corresponding to a series of legal provisions mentioned in the text; ff. 101r, 102r: notes of months; modern marginal page references to Wolf edition, in pencil.

Ink

Hand A: dark brown, occasionally mid-brown; Hand B: grey-brown; Hand C: grey-brown; Hand D: dark brown; Hand E: grey-brown; Hand F: black; Hand G: light brown; Hand H: dark brown; Charles Burney: mid-brown; Hand J: pencil; Hand K: pencil.

Ornament

Minor initial in brown ink to main text of oration f. 12r, line 2; elsewhere space has been left for initials to main text of orations but these have not been added; diacritics for them have however been included. Small, simple pen rosettes accompany headings.

Text leaves

Medium-thickness handmade paper with poor sheet formation. Faint laid and chain lines, long fibres and many inclusions. Does not resemble known Western European papers. Modern inserts on paper with watermarks: armorial crest and "1804".

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(f. 59) 258 x 185.

Text leaf condition

First three quires missing; ff. 8, 201, 208, 225 missing; positions of f. 104 and f. 144 reversed; f. 233 bound in backwards. Significant insect damage throughout, including with some loss of text ff. 229–31. First few folios faded, with some loss of text; light discolourations appears throughout text-block, especially near gutter, often with fading of script in this area, sometimes to illegibility; script in this area often transferred to opposite folio.

Old repairs

Text leaves were washed and resized. Leaves in the first gathering were repaired with Japanese paper.

Binding description

20th-century inboard binding covered in quarter mid-brown tanned calfskin with marbled paper on the sides.

Binding dimensions (mm)

273 x 219 x 82.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same and is the result of repairs during the rebinding. A single fold of light-yellow, medium-thickness, machine-made wove paper tipped to the outermost text leaf at each end and the outermost full leaf is pasted to the board.

Endleaf condition

Light discolourations in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block has been repaired and resewn on recessed sewing supports with five false bands on the spine. There is no evidence of an earlier sewing. It is now sewn all along on three single cords supports, with a medium-thickness, single, S-ply, loose twist white thread, using five pierced-hole stations at 20, 45, 120, 196, 234 mm from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The current structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been retrimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear rounded and worn.

Endbands

Stuck-on, woven endbands in red and green coloured thread, adhered to the head and tail of the spine.

Tooling

The six panels on the spine have a single blind-tooled line at the head and tail of each panel, a gold-tooled title in panel 2, and a gold-tooled shelf mark number in panel 6, both tooled directly.

Notes & marks of ownership

f. 1r: "MS. 1207".

Inserts

By Charles Burney: <7A>, <200A-B>, <207A>, <224A-B>: notes of missing folios; <152A>, <231A-N>: titles of orations, sometimes with references to Wolf and Reiske editions.

Other notes

f. 62v: "Ἐπὶ τούτω· ὡς ἐπὶ αἰτί(ας) λαμβανομ(έν)ῃ ἢ ἐπὶ διατοῦτο πρὸς δοτι<κ>(ήν) ἀπεδόθη. ἀντὶ τῆς ἐπὶ ταύτης προθε<σεως> [..5..]οτεροι μᾶλλον δὲ τῶν νεωτέρων

Provenance

Acquired by J. D. Carlyle in the eastern Mediterranean 1799–1801, purchased after his death by Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton and deposited in LPL 17 March 1806.

Textual tradition

Identified by McGay as a copy of MS. Monacensis gr. 485 and as the exemplar of MSS. Parisinus gr. 2997, Londinensis Add. 39617, Marcianus gr. Z 417, Vaticanus Urbinas gr. 114, Ambrosianus E 119 sup. and Skokloster, Bielke. Identified by MacDowell as belonging to the family derived from MS. Monacensis gr. 485, but also incorporating other influences, and as a source for MSS. Parisinus gr. 2995, Vaticanus gr. 68, Londinensis Harley 5670, Londinensis Add. 39617, Vaticanus gr. 71 and Vaticanus Urbinas gr. 114.

Dating

Alternation and textual continuity between Hands A–D, presence of scholia and corrections by Hand A on folios copied by Hand B indicates contemporaneous collaboration. Hands B and C similar to distinctive hands of Charitonymos, dated as late 13th century (Repertorium, III, 611).

Remarks

Described by Charles Burney in LPL MS. 1259, prior to the most recent rebinding. At that time the present f. 236 was unnumbered, perhaps loose, at the left end of the codex.

By folios, top right, Arabic numerals, black ink.

Quire numbers

At beginning of each quire, recto, and end of each quire, verso, bottom right, Greek numerals, mid-brown ink.

Columns & lines

Bible text: single column, 3–30 lines; catena: surrounds main text, one or two columns, up to 41 lines; layout varies depending on amount of catena text to be accommodated: on most pages biblical text forms a rectangular block of variable size, but occasionally, usually where catena text is greatly predominant, the biblical text in the centre of the page is arranged in the shape of a cross, a circle, two linked circles one above the other, sometimes with a small rectangular base below and/or a small elliptical protrusion above, a circle above a rectangle above a circle, four circles in a cruciform pattern etc.; these arrangements of text are usually surrounded by ornament or preparatory marking for it; occasionally (e.g. ff. 63r, 66r) a third brief catena passage appears in the margin beyond the two principal passages.

f. 60r (Koulix)

Ruling

System Leroy 9; layout Leroy K24D3 (strictly unclassified under Leroy system due to unusual three-column layout); hardpoint, piercing visible for horizontals and verticals; lines of text ignore ruling; text area 270 mm x 215 mm, interlinear space 11 mm. The function of the vertical lines varies according to the distribution of biblical and catena text: when the catena appear in two columns, the central vertical divider separates these; the pair of dividers on either side mark the outer edges of the biblical text when this is of medium width, whereas the outermost pair of dividers mark its outer edges when it fills most of the page.

f. 26v (Koulix, Hand E)

Script (general characteristics)

Ioannes Koulix, main text: Ornate calligraphic mixed minuscule, upright, with significant expansion of letters and many flamboyant ligatures, occasional flourishes on bottom line, with decoration (ff. 51r, 55v, 102v); superscription of letters common, but at line ends only; occasional deletions by strikethrough in red ink. Ioannes Koulix, rubric: Alexandrine majuscule.

Script (letters & ligatures)

Ioannes Koulix: All minuscule letter forms and all majuscule letter forms except mu, nu, upsilon present in mixed minuscule; distinctive letter forms: minuscule eta, iota, kappa with doubled ascender; open theta with bulbous upper loop; theta with x-mark on horizontal; large, kinked minuscule nu; flat-bottomed majuscule omega; distinctive ligatures: ligatures with large half-epsilon, especially epsilon-xi; ligatures with left-hand horizontal of pi curving over top to join following letter; ligatures with large open rho surrounding following letter; epsilon-psi with large half-epsilon in main line of text curving up through horizontal of minuscule psi to join at top; theta-epsilon-rho with split epsilon formed of downward-curved stroke from theta and separate diagonal stroke joining open rho; sigma-epsilon with tail of sigma joining superscribed long-bottomed half-epsilon from below; omega-rho with rho passing through middle of majuscule omega.

f. 150r (Koulix, Hand F)

Diacritics & punctuation

Ioannes Koulix: Breathings angular, half-angular and round; circumflexes often wide; mute iota usually absent, transitional when present; double dot almost always used functionally only, occasionally decorative on iota; double grave present on δέ, ἐπεὶ, καὶ, μὲν, μή; use of middle and upper point, lower and middle comma, question mark, full stop; chevron quotation marks; use of hyphen to merge words; horizontal strokes over proper names and numbers.

Abbreviations

Ioannes Koulix: Nomina sacra (accents separate from strokes); καί; φησί; syllabic (throughout line); horizontal stroke for nu; chi-rho monogram for Χρυσόστομος.

Apparatus

Rubricated author names and occasional headings for catena entries, marginal or in line of text; rubricated reference marks linking catena entries to the corresponding point in the biblical text; ff. 89v, 196r, 197r, 295r, 347v: notes of number of folios occupied by each book; ff. 221r, 265r, 266v, 268r, 269r, 269v: cross-references (incomplete due

Ornament

Rubricated borders surround book headings (in epigraphic majuscule, sometimes with scroll ornament) ff. 1r, 196v, 399v (f. 1r square box containing Sasanian palmettes in medallions, palmettes and rinceaux with demi-palmettes, with vegetative ornament at corners, text in quatrefoil, ff. 196v, 399v rectangular boxes containing rinceaux with demi-palmettes, with palmette ornament at corners). Rubricated headpieces precede book headings (in epigraphic majuscule, sometimes with scroll ornament) ff. 90v, 295r, 347v (ff. 90v, 347v rectangular box containing rinceaux with demi-palmettes, with vegetative ornament at corners, f. 295r rectangular box containing palmettes). Rubricated major initials for start of books ff. 1r, 90v, 198r, 295r, 347v, 400r, usually with vegetative or other ornament. Simple rubricated headpiece precedes note on translations f. 409v: wavy line with space fillers, with palmette terminals. Borders around biblical text occupying limited area in centre of page, laid out in decorative shape ff. 1v–3v, 46v–48v, 51v–52r, 58r–60r, 64r, 70v–71r, 89v, 109v–111r, 127v, 283v–284r, 286r–286v, 294v, 304r (ff. 1v–3v, 46v–47r, 89v, 109v–110r, 127v, 283v–284r, 286r–286v, 294v, 304r: quatrefoil, sometimes with vegetative ornament; ff. 47v, 70v–71r, 110v: circle; ff. 48r–48v, 51v–52r, 58r–60r, 64r, 111r: large circle with smaller circle or lozenge below, sometimes with oval or rectangular base below that, very small circle above), ff. 1v–3v, 127v, 283v–284r, 286r–286v, 304r rubricated, elsewhere outline faintly marked out in brown crayon prior to copying of text but never rubricated; outline does not always correspond to actual layout of biblical text. Rubricated minor initials, sometimes with scrolling ornament. Simple dot ornament to Hebrew lection notes ff. 36r, 46r, 56v, 64r, 77r, 82v. Decorative borders surround Hebrew lection notes ff. 91r, 103r, 119r, 132r, 141r, 150r, 159v–160r, 171r, 182r, 183r, 189r, 198r, 205r, 215v, 224v, 236r, 246r, 259r, 270r, 276v, 285v.

f. 198r detail

Text leaves

Medium-thickness parchment, off-white colour; skins arranged with hair-side facing hair-side throughout.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(f. 173) 334 x 273.

Text leaf condition

Cockling appears throughout text-block. Leaves in the first and last gatherings are worn and abraded. Grime, dirt, tears, small losses and limited insect activity (moderate damage to ff. 1–3, 412, minor damage to ff. 4–11, 408–411) in the leaves of the first and last gatherings. Small tears from edges of ff. 1–2, 8, 10–11, 83, 95, 103, 211–214, 217. Small holes in ff. 7, 76, 128, 129, 214, 407–412. Part of f. 410 cut off at the tail margin. Occasional partial loss of marginal notes and quire numbers due to trimming. Stains and discolourations in the marginal area of the last gatherings.

Old repairs

Occasional leaves were repaired with plain paper (f. 1) and plain parchment (ff. 7, 79, 128, 129, 207, 214, 231, 407–412) before the book was sewn.

Binding description

Greek-style binding covered in tanned skin and decorated with blind tooling, repaired and rebaked, not contemporary with the text.

Binding dimensions (mm)

345 x 283 x 155.

There are no surviving endleaves on the left side.

Right endleaves

Remains of a separate paper guard. Sewn single-fold endleaf of white hand-made paper (now torn away) after the last gathering.

Endleaf condition

Losses and discolourations in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block is re sewn with an unsupported structure, sewn all-along with a single, medium-thickness, loose Z-twist, natural-colour thread, using the six V-nicks in the spine-folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 30, 65, 125, 195, 260, 300 mm from the head of the text-block. The sewing structure is executed in a double sequence, starting from each board, with two halves joined together in a separate operation.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Spine linings

The spine has been repaired. An overall lining of one layer of natural-colour, plain woven textile appears to cover the full length of the spine and extends onto the outside of the boards.

Spine lining condition

The lining is complete on the spine and the boards but there is a limited loss of adhesion.

Boards and board attachment

14 mm wooden boards, the same size as the text-block with square edges, were prepared for integral bridling through six stations.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound. There are abrasions, missing areas, and insect damage in both boards.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut and undecorated.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear even. The head-edge appears to have been blackened by dirt.

Endbands

Greek-style projecting two-core endbands sewn to the boards. Both cores are made from a plain thread S-twist cord of medium thickness and natural colour, with tie-downs in every gathering and no secondary sewing.

Endband condition

Both head- and tailbands are sound but some tie-down threads have been pulled-out.

Covering

Full cover of black tanned goatskin. The turn-ins are untrimmed, irregular in size and shape with cut-out darts in the fore-edge turn-ins, and the corners have butt mitres.

Covering (existing repairs)

The spine has been repaired with light brown tanned goatskin.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions and small missing areas in the covering material with limited insect damage. The covering skin has developed a blackened surface with a mixture of dirt and grease. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached to the boards.

Tooling

The cover has blind-tooled decoration with a centrepiece, small hand tools and fillets. The sides have four concentric, approximately rectangular frames tooled in blind with a three-line tool, and the compartments in the design are filled with the impressions of three small hand tools. The impressions are visible but the surface of the leather is heavily pressed and damaged. There is a later gold-tooled title and a gold-tooled shelf mark number on the spine, both tooled directly.

Furniture & fastenings

Originally the book had domed copper alloy bosses on the right board and four triple tanned-skin straps attached to the fore-edge, head and tail-edge of the right board, which were fastened onto four iron edge pins in the left board.

Furniture & fastenings condition

Four of the five bosses are missing; a nail has been left behind, projecting above the surface of the right board. The triple holes drilled for the straps remain empty in the right board. All fastenings, straps and clasps are missing and only three of the four edge pins are sound and intact on the head and fore-edge of the left board.

Bookmarks

Evidence of threads from a primary marker fastened under the headband core, but the material is missing and cannot be identified.

Colophon(s)

f. 412v: colophon of Ioannes Koulix, recording his completion of the manuscript for Leo Nikerites, a senior Byzantine commander in the Balkans and later Duke of Cyprus, 12 Nov 1103: “Ἐτελειώθη ἡ ἱερὰ αὐτῇ βίβλ(ος) συν Θ(ε)ῶ τῆς Ὀκτατεύχου ἐπὶ βασιλέως μεγάλου ἐν Χ(ριστ)ῶ πιστοῦ καὶ ὀρθοδόξου αὐτοκράτορος Ῥωμαίων Ἀλεξίου τοῦ Κομνηνοῦ (καὶ) Ἰω(άννου) μεγάλου βασιλέως τοῦ πορφυρογεννήτου μη(νὸς) Νό<εμβρίου> IB’ νυκτ(ὸς) ὥρ<ας> Θ’ ἔτους ἀπὸ κτίσεως κοσμου> ,CXB’ ἰνδ<ικτιώνος> IB’ προστάξει Λέοντ(ος) τοῦ μεγαλ’ ἐπιφανεστάτου πρωτονωβελλισμ(ου)> (καὶ) οἰκείου ἀν(θρῶπ)ου τοῦ κρατ<αίου> (καὶ) ἀγίου ἡμῶν βασιλ<έως>, τοῦ Νικερίτ<ου>· διὰ χειρὸς Ἰω(άννου) τοῦ εὐτε<λοῦς> (καὶ) ξένου τοῦ Κούλικ(ος)· (καὶ) οἱ ἀναγινωσκοντες εὐχεσθε υπ<έρ> ἡμῶν διὰ τὸν Κ(ύριον)·- ἀμήν:-”.

f. 412v (Koulix, Hands V, W)

Notes & marks of ownership

Inside left board: ownership note of Alexandros <Konstantinou>; “Κ(αὶ) τὸ δε πρὸς τῖς ἄλλοις Ἀλεξάνδρου, ὅστις δ’ ἂν βουλοῖ ἀφαιρέσει τὴν βίβλον, ὑπόδικος ἔστω ταῖς τῶν τριακοσί(ων) δέκα κ(αὶ) ὀκτῶ θεοφόρων πατέρων ἀραῖς, κ(αὶ) ποιιστῶν τῶν δικαίων”; ex libris of Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton 1805; f. 1r: “MS 1214”.

Other notes

Tail-edge: “Λευιτικόν”; f. 1r: “Οἱ μὲν αὐτῶν ἦσαν ἐν εὐπορίᾳ χρημάτων”; “λεπὶ”; f. 3r: “Αἰσχυνεσθω πάπα εκούου”; f. 10v: “Ἡ καὶ ἄλλ(ως) ἀν(θρῶπ)ους μ(έν), τοὺς δικαίους, κτηνῶδεις δὲ, τοὺς ἀμαρτωλοὺς+”; f. 26v: Hebrew note recording omission of two verses: “ג' נבנב וקא רישו ג' נשנא תא רישו נאנב רשח”; f. 89r: “Κ(αὶ) ὀβολὸ ἔσται”; f. 93v: “Ἀπο εικοσαετου (καὶ) επανω”; f. 126v: “Ἀπὸ τῶν πρεσβυτέρων Ἰ(σρα)ήλ· οὗς αὐτ(ὸς) οἶδας”; f. 136r: “ἡ σι”; f. 200v: “ῶρ”; f. 293v: calculation; f. 298r: partially illegible note identifying book of Joshua: “יהושע [...]”; f. 317r: note of Ioannes: “Κ(ύρι)ε βοήθη το σον δοῦ<λον> Ἰω(άννην) αμαρτ<ωλόν>”; f. 319r: “+ Γνωστὸν ἔστο σι ῶ ὁ κλησιάρχ<α> ὅτι διὰ τὴν ἀγάπην τῇ ὁ ἀγι(ος) ὁσιήν”; f. 409v: “τ(ὴν) αβι[.]ω”; f. 412r: “πι πι”; “Θ’ Ἰ’ ΙΑ’”; “Ἰ(σρα)ήλ”; f. 412v: “429 Ἀπὸ τὸ εἶτος του Χ(ριστο)ῦ τετρακόσια ἔτη κ(αὶ) εικοσι ἑννέα-”; “412 leaves”; “τὸν κ(ύριον)”; inside right board: note repeating date from colophon: “Ἐν ἔτη ἀπὸ κτίσεως ,CXB’”; calculations in various hands, apparently attempting to interpret this date (AM 6612); “αφ”.

Provenance

Copied for Leo Nikerites, completed 12 November 1103. Owned by the Phanariot Greek aristocrat Alexandros Konstantinou, megas spatharios, in the 1760s. Acquired by Archbishop Charles Manners-Sutton and deposited in LPL by 1812.

Textual tradition

Assignable to Karo and Lietzmann's group IIIa. Copied in 1743 by Makarios Vouros; portions of this copy are now Institut Français d'Études Byzantines, MS. 1 and Athens, National Library, Metochion of Panagios Taphos MS. 1, part 3. Used by Nikephoros Theotokes for his edition of the catena in Constantinople the 1760s, while in the possession of Alexandros Konstantinou.

Dating

Dated by colophon to 12 November 1103. Style of script in Hebrew annotations by Hands L and M consistent with 15th century.

Remarks

Hebrew notes transcribed and translated by Israel Sandman. Some attempt has been made to erase crosses of invocation preceding headings.

Detailed content

Collation of variant readings in Mark in LPL MSS. 1175, 1176, 1177, 1178, 1179, 1180 (now PLJ MS. Taphou 139) and 1192 with J. J. Griesbach's edition of the text (Halle 1774-5 or London 1796-1806): f. 2r: title page; ff. 5r-40v, 43r-57v, 59r-79v, 81r-93v, 95r-103v, 105r-153v, 155r-202v, 204r-232v, 234r-240v: collation of readings; ff. 2v-4v, 41r-42v, 58r-v, 80r-v, 94r-v, 104r-v, 154r-v, 203r-v, 233r-v, 241r-243v: blank.

By folios, top right, Arabic numerals, pencil; ff. 5-40, 106-153, 156-240: by pages, recto only, top right, Arabic numerals, dark brown ink (landscape), in separate sequences (beginning from 1 on f. 5, from 153 on f. 106, from 349 on f. 156).

Columns & lines

Twelve columns, 33 lines (landscape).

Ruling

Printed, with line numbers; text area: 389 mm x 245 mm; interlinear distance: 7 mm.

Scribe(s)

Charles Burney; Hand B: page numbers.

Script (general characteristics)

19th-century Western hand.

Apparatus

Running MS numbers, marginal chapter and verse numbers to collation table.

Ink

Charles Burney: dark brown; Hand B: pencil.

Text leaves

Medium-thickness Western handmade paper with watermarks: "H. Willmott 1810"; armorial crest with horn, surmounted by crown.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(f. 1) 391 x 242.

Text leaf condition

Dirt and grime appear throughout edges of text-block. Small losses and tears in the marginal area of the first and last gatherings; tear to edge of f. 243.

Binding description

20th-century inboard binding covered in full blue bookcloth.

Binding dimensions (mm)

406 x 269 x 68.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same. A single fold of light yellow, medium-thickness, machine-made wove paper tipped within an outside hook of the same paper, itself tipped to the outermost text leaf at each end. The stub and the outermost full leaf at each end are pasted to the board.

Endleaf condition

Light discolourations in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

Due to a heavy application of adhesive and restricted opening it was difficult to examine the sewing pattern.

Sewing condition

The current structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are uncut and undecorated.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear rounded and stained.

Tooling

Gold-tooled title and shelf mark number on the spine, both tooled directly.

Inserts

Note on slip bound in after f. 156.

Other notes

f. 243v: "243 leaves".

Provenance

Left to LPL by Charles Burney (died 28 December 1817).

Dating

Paper watermarked 1810. Produced before the return of MS 1180 (now PLJ MS. Taphou 139) to the Patriarchate of Jerusalem in 1817.

Bibliography

Columns & lines

Twelve columns, 33 lines (landscape).

Ruling

Printed, with line numbers; text area: 389 mm x 245 mm; interlinear distance: 7 mm.

Scribe(s)

Charles Burney; Hand B: pagination.

Script (general characteristics)

19th-century Western hand.

Apparatus

Running MS numbers in bottom left corner; page numbers in left column; running MS numbers to collation table.

Ink

Charles Burney: dark brown; Hand B: pencil.

Text leaves

Medium-thickness Western handmade paper with watermarks: "H. Willmott 1810"; armorial crest with horn, surmounted by crown.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(f. 4) 398 x 241.

Text leaf condition

Dirt and grime appear in the marginal area of the first and last gatherings.

Old repairs

Occasional leaves were repaired to the spine-folds area and to the margins with Japanese paper (f. 1).

Binding description

20th-century inboard binding covered in quarter mid-brown tanned calfskin with marbled paper on the sides.

Binding dimensions (mm)

405 x 256 x 28.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same. A single fold of light yellow, medium-thickness, machine-made wove paper tipped within an outside hook of the same paper, itself tipped to the outermost text leaf at each end. The stub and the outermost full leaf at each end are pasted to the board.

Endleaf condition

Light discolourations in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block has been repaired and sewn on recessed sewing supports with five false bands on the spine. Due to a heavy application of adhesive and restricted opening it was difficult to examine the sewing pattern.

Sewing condition

The current structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are uncut and undecorated.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear rounded and stained.

Endbands

Stuck-on, woven endbands in red and green coloured thread, adhered to the head and tail of the spine.

Tooling

The six panels on the spine have a single blind-tooled line at the head and tail of each panel, a gold-tooled title in panel 2 and a gold-tooled shelf mark number in panel 6, both tooled directly.

Binding description

English mid-19th-century inboard binding. Full parchment over paper boards with reversed caps at head and tail of the spine and external bevels on all four sides of the boards.

Binding dimensions (mm)

235 x 205 x 79.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same. A sewn single fold of marbled paper followed by a separately-sewn single fold of thick, white wove paper. The inner marbled leaf is made to the outer white leaf and the outermost marbled leaf is pasted to the board.

Endleaf condition

Discolourations in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block is sewn on recessed sewing supports but due to a heavy application of adhesive and restricted opening it was difficult to examine the sewing structure.

Sewing condition

The structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves have red decoration and are gilded.

Endbands

Stuck-on, woven endbands in red and yellow coloured thread, adhered to the head and tail of the spine.

Tooling

Both covers are gold-tooled with a double frame, intersecting corners bordered by single lines of red-purple ink and a gold-tooled centrepiece. Spine tooled in gold in five panels with a red leather title label in panel 2 and volume number in panel 4. Gold-tooled one-line tool on the board edges and a gold-tooled roll on the turn-ins.

Script (general characteristics)

Hand A: Solid, elegant mixed minuscule in thick ductus with significant slant to the right, with limited expansion of letters and occasional flourishes at line ends and in top and bottom lines, superscript word endings rare and at line ends only. Michael Lygizos: Square, regular mixed minuscule, slanted slightly to the right, with occasional expansion of letters and flourishes, superscript word endings rare and at line ends only, deletions by strikethrough or expunctuation with line of dots above. Hand C: Slightly irregular mixed minuscule, slanted slightly to the right, with very occasional expansion of letters, without superscript word endings.

f. 317r (Lygizos)

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A: kappa, mu, psi always majuscule; nu, upsilon always minuscule; sigma telikon present; distinctive letter forms: large angular minuscule nu slanting down to the right and turning upwards with a small loop; lunate sigma with kink in lower curve; large lunate sigma with tail curving around following letter; distinctive ligatures: rho-omicron with tail of rho slanting back and joined by long diagonal to base of omicron; epsilon-tau-iota with complete majuscule epsilon but upper part of a split epsilon-tau ligature above it (f. 166r); epsilon-pi with inward-curved half-epsilon curving over to join pi from above; mu-epsilon rho with long, double-curved half-epsilon; epsilon-upsilon with angular epsilon. Michael Lygizos: zeta, kappa, psi always majuscule; delta, mu, nu, xi, upsilon always minuscule; eta usually majuscule; long-bowed beta present; distinctive letter-forms: majuscule alpha with somewhat flourished stroke; large half-epsilon in main line of text with horizontally elongated lower curve; descender of mu often bent back, nu curved forward; distinctive ligatures: tau-omicron with curving tau tilted to the right and omicron in place of right horizontal of tau; lambda-omicron-gamma like capital M linked by omicron as loop at the centre; flourished tau-omicron-upsilon-circumflex in top line; alpha-nu with horizontally elongated minuscule nu; sigma-tau-iota formed of stigma joined to iota at top. Hand C: All minuscule forms present; only majuscule forms present epsilon, zeta, eta, kappa, lambda, pi; distinctive letter forms: large hooks on minuscule pi, tau.

f. 11v (Hand C)

Diacritics & punctuation

Hand A: Breathings round; circumflexes sometimes quite wide, sometimes double-curved; circumflexes joined to letters; acute accents joined to Nomina sacra strokes flourished at line ends; mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota and upsilon; use of middle and upper point, lower and middle comma, question mark and full stop; double grave present on δὲ, ἐπεὶ, μὲν, μὴ, ναὶ, συνοχεὺς (f. 56v); horizontal strokes over some proper names; use of hyphen to merge words; τέσσαρες underlined and unaccentuated as though hyphenated but not joined to anything (ff. 162v–163r, 167r–v); occasional use of hyphen (left or right margin) to join words across line breaks. Michael Lygizos: Breathings round; circumflexes sometimes slightly expanded, sometimes double-curved; circumflexes joined to letters and abbreviations (ὦν); mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota and upsilon; use of lower, middle and upper point and middle comma; double grave present on μὴ; occasional use of hyphen (right margin) to join words across line breaks. Hand C: Breathings angular and half-angular; mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota; use of lower, middle and upper point and lower comma; single or double chevron and s-shaped quotation marks.

Abbreviations

Hand A: Nomina sacra (accents sometimes joined to strokes, sometimes separate); ἡλιος, καί, μετά, περί; syllabic (usually at line ends only); suspensions. Michael Lygizos: Nomina sacra (accents sometimes separate from strokes, sometimes joined); καί; syllabic (throughout line); suspensions. Hand C: Nomina sacra; καί; horizontal stroke for nu.

Apparatus

Rubricated headings for works and chapters of Expositio fidei; works and chapters numbered in continuous sequence of Greek numerals in black ink at top centre of folio, corresponding to contents list (unnumbered item after 30 in contents list, so numbers after that out of step with those in text); rubricated initials for works, chapters, sub-sections and items in lists, and for items in contents list; f. IIIv: marginal ὦρ(ισται) mark; f. 316v: rubricated marginal ση(μείωσαι) mark; f. 265r–v: rubricated signs of the Zodiac; f. 317r: rubricated marginal lection note.

Ink

Ornament

Headpieces in red ink for start of main text, f. 3r (rectangular box containing rinceaux with palmettes and demi-palmettes, with vegetative ornament at corners and plait on top), and for start of Gospel f. 317r (rectangular box containing plaiting, with vegetative ornament at corners). Simple horizontal plaited headpieces in red and brown ink for start of contents list, f. 1r, and of hypothesis, f. 316r. Rubricated major initials with scrolling decoration for some works and chapters. Rubricated minor initials for other works and chapters and for entries in contents list.

Illustration

Diagram of celestial sphere in red and brown ink f. 258v. Outline drawings of faces f. 368r.

Text leaves

ff. I–IV: parchment; ff. 1–2, 316–371: medium-thickness Western handmade paper, off-white colour, with ring watermark; ff. 3–315: similar paper, with ring and tower watermarks; ring comparable to Harlfinger Anneau 2–3 (dated 1464–5), Briquet 687, 699 (dated 1504–53); tower comparable to Harlfinger Tour 13 (dated 1447), Briquet 15869–15870, 15874 (dated 1442–8).

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(f. 152) 216 x 148.

Text leaf condition

Stains and grime in the marginal area of the gatherings throughout text-block. Small tears in the last gatherings and limited insect activity in the first and last quires. f. 316

f. 258v (Hand A)

is detached from its conjugate. Loss of some marginal text due to trimming. Folio excised at time of production after f. 8.

Old repairs

Occasional spine fold repairs with plain paper (f. 363r) and with Greek manuscript waste (f. 364r) before the book was sewn.

Binding description

Greek-style binding covered in tanned goatskin and decorated with blind tooling, possibly of Venetian origin, dating to the late 15th–early 16th century.

Binding dimensions (mm)

235 x 159 x 78.

Left endleaves

A sewn double-fold endleaf of Greek manuscript parchment waste. There is no paste-down.

Right endleaves

A sewn single-leaf text-hook of Greek manuscript handmade paper waste was adhered to a single text leaf (f. 364) to create the outer fold of the last gathering. There is no pastedown.

Endleaf condition

Stains, discolourations, grime and limited insect activity. Both endleaves have been repaired with Japanese tissue paper.

Sewing

The text-block is sewn with an unsupported structure, all-along with a single, medium-thickness, tight Z-twist, natural-colour thread, through four V-nicks in the spine-folds at 25, 80, 135, 190 mm from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Spine linings

The spine is rounded and an overall lining of one layer of natural-colour, plain woven textile covers the full length of the spine and extends onto the outside of the boards.

Spine lining condition

The lining is complete on the spine and the boards but there is a limited loss of adhesion.

Boards and board attachment

9 mm wooden boards, the same size as the text-block, with V-shaped edge grooves cut into the head, tail and fore-edges of the boards, stop short of the corners. Both boards were prepared for four stations and it is not clear whether the attachment is integral with the sewing or is made by separate bridling.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut and undecorated. Head-edge retains an earlier titling in Greek with black ink, indicating how the book was shelved at the time of titling.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear rounded and worn and the head-edge appears to have been blackened by dirt.

Endbands

Greek-style projecting two-core endbands sewn to the boards. Both cores are made from cord, with primary sewing in plain natural thread and secondary sewing in blue and in white silk thread, incorporating a crowning core.

Endband condition

Both head- and tailbands are attached to the book-block. Silk threads are slightly worn away and stained with a mixture of dirt and grease.

Covering

Full cover of mid-brown, thick tanned goatskin. The turn-ins are trimmed, irregular in size and the corners have open-mitres.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions, and limited insect damage. The covering skin has developed a blackened surface with a mixture of dirt and grease. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached to the boards.

Tooling

The cover has a blind-tooled decoration with a roll, a small hand tool and fillets. The sides are tooled in blind with a five-line tool in which the central line is thicker than the other four, and create a border frame, an intermediate frame and an inner frame. The roll creates a field frame between the inner and intermediate frame and diagonal corners link the corner frame and the intermediate frame. The spine is tooled in blind with diagonal lines and there is a later gold-tooled shelf-mark number, tooled directly, on the spine.

Furniture & fastenings

Originally the book had a pair of triple interlaced tanned-skin straps attached to the fore-edge of the right board that fastened onto two copper alloy edge pins in the left board.

Furniture & fastenings condition

The two fore-edge interlaced tanned-skin straps are broken off and only their inner ends survive in the turn-ins of the right board. The clasps are missing and only one of the two edge pins survives on the fore-edge of the left board.

Provenance

Owned by Theodoros. Bought from the skeuophylax Chatze Moyses by Matthaïos 1 Mar 1690. Given to Thomas Wagstaffe (Jr) by Bartholomew Cassano 20 Oct 1732.

Textual tradition

Text of John of Damascus, Expositio fidei, corresponds to the form characterised by Kotter as the expositio inversa, with chapters 82–100 following chapter 18; identified by Kotter as derived from MS. Londinensis Add. 27862. Gospel of John (ff. 316r–366r) is Gregory-Aland 486; Soden ε510 (K^r).

Dating

Style of Hand C consistent with 11th century. Style of Hand A consistent with 15th century (Hand A comparable to hand of Manuel, dated as first quarter 15th century (Repertorium III, 425)). Michael Lygizos known to have been active 1460s–70s. Provision of contents list to the content copied by Hand A by Michael Lygizos indicates Hand A's work on the manuscript preceded his. Text of John of Damascus, Expositio fidei by Hand A identified by Kotter as derived from 11th-century MS. Watermarks of paper comparable to mid-15th-century examples (see Text leaves).

Script (general characteristics)

Hand A: Elegant upright mixed minuscule with moderate expansion of letters, superscript word endings at line ends only, deletions by erasure. Hand B: Mixed minuscule slanted markedly to the right with considerable expansion of letters, common superscript word endings.

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A: xi, psi always majuscule; beta, nu, sigma, upsilon always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: minuscule zeta with upper curve consistently longer than lower; distinctive ligatures: epsilon-lambda-phi formed of small half-epsilon joined to minuscule lambda with vertical upright, horizontal forming base of open phi; wide epsilon-lambda-epsilon; rho-eta with tail of rho rising to join minuscule eta at top as doubled ascender. Hand B:

f. 206r (Hand A)

gamma, zeta, kappa, lambda, xi, psi, omega always majuscule; mu, nu, upsilon always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: minuscule mu with negligible descender; bulbous majuscule beta.

Diacritics & punctuation

Hand A: Breathings round; mute iota absent; occasional decorative use of double dot on upsilon; use of middle and upper point, lower and middle comma, question mark and full stop; double grave present on $\mu\eta$; use of hyphen (left margin) to join words across line breaks; horizontal strokes over some personal names. Hand B: Breathings round; mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota; use of middle and upper point, lower and middle comma and question mark.

f. 261r (Hands B, M)

Abbreviations

Hand A: Nomina sacra (accents usually separate from strokes, occasionally joined); $\delta\acute{\epsilon}$, $\kappa\alpha\acute{\iota}$, $\pi\epsilon\acute{\rho}\acute{\iota}$; syllabic (throughout line); horizontal stroke for nu. Hand B: Nomina sacra (accents separate from strokes); $\delta\acute{\epsilon}$, $\kappa\alpha\acute{\iota}$, $\kappa\alpha\tau\acute{\alpha}$, $\pi\epsilon\acute{\rho}\acute{\iota}$; syllabic (throughout line); suspensions.

Apparatus

Rubricated marginal Ammonian section numbers; rubricated marginal lections, notes in space left in text for beginning and end of lections; numbers to chapter lists; later marginal lection notes.

Ink

Hand A: dark brown; Hand B: dark brown; Hand C: black; Hand D: mid-brown; Hand E: grey-brown; Hand F: grey-brown; Hand G: pale brown; Hand H: pale brown; Hand I: grey-brown; Hand J: black; Hand K: pale brown; Hand L: pale brown; Hand M: grey-brown; Hand N: black; F. G. Kenyon: black; J. A. Spranger: pale blue; Hand Q: pencil, mid-brown ink; Hand R: pencil; Hand S: blue.

Ornament

Pylai precede Gospels ff. 3r, 79r (f. 3r containing palmettes in medallions, f. 79r containing crenellated ornament, both with borders edged with vegetative ornament), in red ink with green and yellow paint infill. Rectangular headpieces precede Gospels ff. 127r, 206r (f. 127r diagonally quartered, containing large palmettes and rinceaux with demi-palmettes, f. 206r containing palmettes in medallions linked by plaits, both with vegetative ornament at the corners, f. 127r topped by cross with vine-scroll decoration), in red ink with green and yellow paint infill. Simple headpieces precede chapter lists ff. 2r, 204r (f. 2r rectangular bar containing rinceau, f. 204r empty rectangular bar with decorated corners), in red ink. Simple bands of rubricated ornament precede chapter lists, summary synaxarion ff. 77r, 125r, 257v: line with decorated terminals, row of s-shapes and pairs of horizontal lines, with decorated terminals, band with knots, with decorated terminals. Rubricated major initials to Gospels ff. 3r, 77r, 127r, 206r, with vegetative decoration. Rubricated minor initials, headings to Gospels in epigraphic majuscule, summary synaxarion and menologion sections, rubricated Gospel colophons etc.

f. 79r (Hand A)

Text leaves

Medium-thickness parchment, off-white colour; skins arranged with hair-side facing hair-side throughout.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(f. 12) 165 x 121.

Text leaf condition

f. 262 erroneously bound (should follow f. 270) at some time later than the addition of Greek foliation. Cockling and insect activity appear in the first and last gatherings. Split spine-fold f.262; tears to edges of f. 118, 146, 181; holes in ff. 23, 59–60. Stains and discolourations in the marginal area throughout the text-block. Occasional drops of candle wax on the surface of the leaves. Folios excised at time of production after ff. 118, 204.

Old repairs

Repair to the margins of f. 143 with plain parchment.

Binding description

Greek-style binding with a primary cover of tawed skin, contemporary with the text, and a secondary cover of silk fabric, probably added at a later date.

Binding dimensions (mm)

181 x 134 x 93.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same. Free integral parchment endleaves formed by the outer leaves of the first and last text gatherings. There are no pastedowns.

Endleaf condition

Cockling, stains, grime, small tears, losses and limited insect activity in both left and right endleaves. The outermost left endleaf has stains and discolourations from tawed skin turn-ins, suggesting that it was originally adhered to the inside of a left board.

Sewing

The text-block is sewn with an unsupported structure, all-along with a single, thick, loose S-twist, natural-colour thread, using four V-nicks in the spine-folds at 12, 61, 103, 150 mm from the head of the text-block. There are three unused V-nicks in the spine-folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 22, 80, 141 mm from the head of the text-block. The sewing structure is executed in a double sequence, starting from each board, with two halves joined together in a separate operation.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Spine linings

The spine is smooth and an overall lining of one-layer, off-white, fine woven textile covers the full length of the spine and extends onto the outside of the boards.

Spine lining condition

The lining is complete on the boards but is partly damaged on the spine and split along the joints.

Boards and board attachment

12 mm wooden boards, the same size as the text-block, with V-shaped edge grooves cut into the head, tail and fore-edges of the boards, run round the corners. Both boards were prepared for four stations and the attachment is integral with the sewing.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound. Both boards have stains from adhesive residues and limited insect damage.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut and decorated with a drawn circular pattern of black-brown ink and red pigment.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block are even and have been blackened by dirt.

Endbands

Greek-style projecting two-core primary endbands sewn to the boards with oblique sewing on the lower core and perpendicular sewing on the upper. Both cores are made from the same cord and are sewn with a plain, natural-colour thread. The secondary sewing is executed in rows of chevron-patterned twinned warps in yellow, blue, and white silk threads.

Endband condition

Both head- and tailbands are damaged, their secondary sewing is broken and worn away and the tie-downs pulled out.

Covering

Primary cover of full alum-tawed skin. The turn-ins are untrimmed, irregular in size and shape, and the corners have open-mitres. A secondary cover of wine-red silk fabric with the selvage edge of green and yellow preserved in both the left and right fore-edge turn-ins.

Covering material condition

The silk fabric is missing. The tawed skin is embrittled, with stains, tears, limited insect damage, abrasions, lacerations, and missing areas in the spine. The turn-ins remain attached to the boards.

Tooling

There is a later gold-tooled black leather shelf mark number label on the left board.

Furniture & fastenings

Metal surface nails on the boards suggest that originally the book had metal decoration. It also had a pair of triple tanned-skin straps attached to the fore-edge of the right board, fastening onto two edge pins in the left board. A later metal nail has been added to the fore-edge of the right board.

Furniture & fastenings condition

Most of the components of fastenings are now completely missing. The two fore-edge triple-interlaced straps are broken off but their inner ends, taken through the turn-ins, survive on the inside of the right board; the outer parts together with the two clasps are missing. The edge pins are also missing; only the later metal nail survives on the fore-edge of the right board.

Bookmarks

A light brown silk ribbon, possibly a remnant of a bookmark, is fastened around the metal nail that was added to the fore-edge of the right board.

Notes & marks of ownership

Pasted inside left board: name and address of “J. A. Spranger, Old Malt House, Ashford Hill, Nr. Newbury”; f. 1r: ex libris of J. A. Spranger, Trinity College, Cambridge; f. 2v: “MS 2795”.

Inserts

Pasted to left board: slip of paper marked “ἄγγελο κουστοδε”; letter to J. A. Spranger from F. G. Kenyon regarding his examination of the MS: “Kirkstead, Godstone, Surrey, July 23rd 1945. Dear Mr Spranger, I have delayed writing about your Lectionary to see if I could find anything that could throw light upon it. I cannot, however, find anything like it in the printed lists, nor is it likely that I should, since those include only MSS. in libraries, while yours has presumably been in private hands. The probability therefore is that it is unregistered. Before the war the keeping of the official register was in the hands of Lützmann; but whether he is still alive I do not know. Yours sincerely, F. G. Kenyon.” (this letter marked “R<eceived with> thanks 28.7.1945” and later marked “Greg-Aland 677”); printed description of the MS, dating it to the 13th century. Loose at beginning of MS: two sheets of lined paper with English notes on readings. Pasted to f. 1r: J. A. Spranger's ex libris, marked with Greek folio numbers for start of each Gospel, and “Greg-Aland 677”.

Other notes

f. 1v: prayer by Michael: “Μνηστὶτῇ Κ(ύρι)ε τὴν ψυχὴν τοῦ δούλου τοῦ Θ(εο)ῦ Μιχαλοῦ κ(αὶ) ληνπῖα”; f. 2v: “MS 2795”; inside right board: “αγαγοιο”.

Provenance

Acquired by J. A. Spranger (1889–1968) before July 1945, from an unknown source.

Textual tradition

Gregory-Aland 2771

Dating

Physical integration and continuity of subject matter indicates contemporaneous collaboration between Hands A and B; style of script consistent with 13th–14th centuries.

Remarks

Incorrectly identified by notes added some time after 1945 as Gregory-Aland 677 (Soden ε353; Scrivener 528), the one-time MS. Phillipps 2387. However, the details of the two MSS do not correspond, and Gregory-Aland 677 is identified by the 1994 edition of Aland, Kurzgefasste Liste with the erstwhile Gregory-Aland 2611 (Chicago University MS. 232 (ex Goodspeed gr. 62)). The same edition records the present MS as Gregory-Aland 2771, identifying it as the former property of J. A. Spranger, but does not identify its current location.

Notes & marks of ownership

f. 1r: "An accurate collation of several particular Texts in the principal Greek MSS. of the New Testament in the Vatican and Barberine Libraries at Rome, made by Mr Thomas Wagstaffe & written with his own hand & transmitted to me, through the hands of Dr Bedford, a Physician of good Note, at the time living upon Breadstreet Hill. J. Berriman."; f. 2r: "Sion Library. In the year 1738 I obtained from the very learned Mr Thomas Wagstaffe, th(e)n at Rome, a more exact & particular Acc(oun)t of the Greek MS. of St Paul's Epistles, in the Vatican Library, and th(a)t of Cardinal Barberini, th(a)n had been ever before communicated to the world. Mr Wagstaffe had for some time had access to the Vatican, & the liberty of collating MSS. in the absence of Assemani the Librarian, & in th(a)t time I was favoured with the accurate Collations of four Texts w(hi)ch I desir(e)d (Acts 20.28. Rom. 9.5. 1 Tim. 3.16 & 1 Jo. 5.7.) & of five more added thereto (Gal. 1.12. Phil. 2.6. Col. 2.9. Tit. 2.13. & 1 Joh. 5.20.) & should have had a farther Account of others, if the Return of the Librarian had not prevented. The Collation of these several Texts & the Account given of the several MSS. I thought well worthy to be profered; & therefore deposit these Papers in Sion College, to be there perused (by any th(a)t desire it) in the presence of the Librarian: but not to be lent out, without leave from the President, Deans & Assistants for th(a)t time being, & upon sufficient Caution & Security, to be punctually & faithfully returned, in a short time. John Berriman.”; Sion College Library stamps ff. 2v, 3v, 6r.

Other notes

Hand B, headings and summary lections: Alexandrine majuscule. Hand C: Biblical majuscule. Hand D: Very small upright mixed minuscule. Hand E: Regular mixed minuscule, upright, with superscript word endings throughout line.

f. 38v (Hand A)

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A, mixed minuscule: All minuscule forms present; alpha, delta, upsilon always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: alpha with pronounced separation between loop and vertical, tail curving back below letter from loop; square majuscule beta with sharply pointed curves; minuscule delta with ascender rising from right of loop;

majuscule epsilon, theta with bar on central stroke; wide minuscule eta; majuscule kappa with elongated, doubled ascender; majuscule mu with extended horizontal to left; large, angular minuscule nu, sometimes markedly kinked; large, curvaceous majuscule pi; large open rho; tau elongated downwards; phi with top loop turned sharply to the left; phi with bar on central stroke; distinctive ligatures: gamma-alpha, theta-alpha, sigma-alpha etc. with alpha tucked below and descending from horizontal of previous letter; ligatures with very large half-epsilon, or with open-backed epsilon; epsilon-iota open to bottom left, joined to previous letter; epsilon-upsilon with wide, square upsilon; epsilon-psi with large half-epsilon attached to extended ascender of psi, horizontal of psi curved downwards; theta-alpha, theta-omega with curvaceous horizontal of theta curving down to join following letter from below to right of (first) loop; upsilon-psi with curve of upsilon rising through horizontal of minuscule psi to join ascender at top; phi-lambda with descender of phi curving to join minuscule lambda at foot; omega-nu with tail bent to the right descending from centre of minuscule omega and turning horizontally to the right to join minuscule nu at foot. Hand B, mixed minuscule: lambda, mu, xi always majuscule; alpha, zeta, nu, upsilon always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: large, wide theta; majuscule lambda with down-right diagonal curving back slightly at foot; distinctive ligatures: epsilon-gamma with distinctly formed minuscule epsilon joined at top to large minuscule gamma without descender. Hand E: beta, eta, lambda always majuscule; sigma always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: majuscule beta with stretched lower cell; wide theta.

Diacritics & punctuation

Hand A: Breathings angular, half-angular and round; circumflexes small, but enlarged over breathings; mute iota very occasionally adscript (e.g. ff. 22v, 180r), otherwise absent; use of double dot on iota functional only; use of middle and upper point and lower comma; double grave present on δέ, ἐπεὶ, μὲν, μὴ. Hand B: Breathings round; mute iota subscript; decorative use of double dot on iota and upsilon; use of middle and upper point, lower and middle comma and full stop; double grave present on δέ. Hand E: Breathings round; mute iota absent; use of middle and upper point.

f. 244v (Hands B, C)

Abbreviations

Hand A, mixed minuscule: Nomina sacra (accents absent on two-letter non-enclitics, otherwise absent or separate from strokes); καί; syllabic (line ends only); horizontal stroke for nu. Hand A, majuscule: Also μάργς, μέγας; syllabic (throughout line); suspensions. Hand B: Nomina sacra (accents absent or separate from strokes, regardless of length; Ἰωάννης usually not abbreviated but written with horizontal stroke above); syllabic (at line ends only); horizontal stroke for nu. Hand B, majuscule: Also καί, κατά, μάργς; syllabic (throughout line); suspensions. Hand E: Nomina sacra (accents absent or separate from strokes, regardless of length); syllabic (throughout line); horizontal stroke for nu.

Apparatus

Rubricated headings for lections; rubricated marginal numbers for dates; rubricated ekphonic musical notation; echos and eothinon notes in later hands; ff. 246r–249v: modern chapter and verse numbers, Latin script, Roman and Arabic numerals, in black ink.

Ink

Hand A: mid-brown and dark red; Hand B: black and pale brown; Hand C: pale brown; Hand D: pale brown; Hand E: pale brown; Hand F: dark brown; Hand G: dark brown; Hand H: bright red; Hand I: pale red; Hand J: black; Hand K: black; Hand L: black; Hand M: pale brown; Hand N: pale brown; Hand O: black; Hand P: black; Hand Q: grey-brown; Hand R: mid-brown; Hand S: mid-brown; Hand T: grey-brown; Hand U: dark brown; Hand V: pale brown; Hand W: pale brown; Hand X: mid-brown; Hand Y: pale brown; Hand Z: black; Hand AA: grey-brown; Hand AB: dark brown; Edward Payne: black; Hand AD: mid-brown; Hand AE: black; Hand AF: black; Hand AG: purple; Hand AH: pencil; Hand AI: pencil; Hand AJ: pencil.

Ornament

Broad border surrounds heading of first lection (rubricated, in epigraphic majuscule) f. 1r: contains Sasanian palmettes in medallions, linked by rinceaux with flowers, with flower ornament at one corner, in gold, red, blue, green and white paint. Pylai around headings for first lection of weeks of Matthew, Luke, Mark (rubricated and gilded, in epigraphic majuscule) ff. 54r, 84r, 117r, 196r, in above style, with various types of flowers between medallions, and vegetative and other ornament at corners. Major initial for first lection of weeks of Matthew, Luke, Mark ff. 54v, 84r, 117r, 196r, in gold, red, green, blue and white paint. Rubricated major initials, with decoration, for start of lections (with blessing hands ff. 18v, 19v, 46r, 55v, 71r, 101r, 107r, 111v, 113r, 197v, 199v, 215v, 238r), f. 102v with blue infill. Simple rubricated headpieces precede start of pannychis lections, lections of the Passion, months etc. ff. 115r, 153r, 163r, 204r, 209v, 211v, 222v, 230v, 233v, 236r, 237r, 242v: spiked plait with protrusions, rectangular box divided into triangles containing vegetative ornament, divided into squares containing cruciform ornament or diagonally quartered and containing vegetative ornament, etc., sometimes with vegetative ornament at corners.

Text leaves

Medium-thickness parchment, off-white colour; skins arranged with hair-side facing hair-side throughout.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(f. 54) 263 x 211.

Text leaf condition

Folios missing after ff. 53, 99; f. 220 incorrectly bound (should follow f. 203). Cockling and pleating appears occasionally throughout text-block. Dirt and grime in the marginal area of the gatherings throughout. Loss of folio after f. 10, most of f. 151, parts of f. 1, 14, 91; tears to edges of <III>, ff. 3, 10, 20, 44, 72, 99, 127, 128, 141, 196, 203–204; tear along ruling f. 48; holes in ff. 2, 65, 82, 127, 161, 205, 220, 228, 230, 243. Drops of candle wax on the surface of occasional leaves. Some marginal text lost to trimming. Replacement rubric often transferred onto folio opposite; text faded in places. Folios excised at time of production after ff. 6, 20, 30, 31, 36, 48, 51, 83, 90, 149, 155, 173, 194, 240, 241.

Old repairs

Occasional leaves were repaired with plain paper, plain parchment (including with replacement text ff. 36, 219, 227, 236), and with sewing thread (ff. 29, 227) before the book was sewn.

Binding description

English late 18th-century inboard binding, tight back, covered in full sprinkled tanned calf with raised supports, not contemporary with the text.

Binding dimensions (mm)

275 x 215 x 115.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same. A sewn single fold of marbled paper followed by a separately sewn, single fold of medium-thickness, light blue handmade laid paper. The inner marbled leaf is made to the outer light blue leaf and the outermost marbled leaf is pasted to the board.

Endleaf condition

Stains and discolouration in both left and right endleaves. The outer leaves are torn along the spine fold at each end as both covers are detached.

Sewing

The text-block has been re sewn and there is evidence of four V-nicks in the spine-folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 25, 95, 115, 220 mm from the head of the text-block. It is now sewn all-along on five single, raised, cord supports, with a medium-thickness, single, S-ply, loose twist, natural-colour thread, using seven pierced-hole stations at 20 (head kettle), 45, 85, 125, 165, 210, 240 mm (tail kettle) from the head of the textblock.

Sewing condition

The current structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Boards and board attachment

5 mm couched-laminate rope-fibre millboards cut to give squares at head, tail and fore-edge. The support slips have been laced through the boards.

Board attachment condition

The support slips are broken with the cover split from head to tail on both joints, and both boards are now detached.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block are worn. The head-edge appears to have been lightly blackened by dirt.

Endbands

Single-core endbands across the width of the spine, sewn in pink and white silk threads with a front bead over a rolled paper core.

Endband condition

Both head- and tailbands are loose and damaged with cores broken across the spine, silk threads broken and tie-downs pulled out.

Covering

The binding is covered in full mid-brown sprinkled tanned calfskin with a tight back, and the turn-ins left untrimmed and irregular in size and shape, with lapped corners.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions, lacerations, stains, and small missing areas in the covering material of the boards. The corners are bumped. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached.

Tooling

There is a gold-tooled roll around the edges of the boards. The six panels on the spine have gold-tooled double lines at head and tail, and a gold-tooled red leather title label in panel 2. There is a later gold-tooled black leather shelf mark number in panel 6.

Notes & marks of ownership

Inserts

Loose card: "Evangelistarium. Greek MS of the 11th or 12th Century. The earliest form of Lectionary of the Greek Church." (printed on reverse of Sion College Library book delivery card).

Other notes

<III>r: "Evangile" (twice); <IV>r: notes in English in pencil regarding number and placement of folios: "53 should be inserted between 37 & 38. 52 between 43 & 44. 243 should be followed by 245, 246 by 193 & 193-244".

Provenance

Acquired by Thomas Payne, Anglican chaplain in Constantinople 1718–36, 1744–5 and sent to his nephew, inherited by the latter's son Edward Payne, who donated it to Sion College 1777.

Textual tradition

Gregory-Aland I 234; Scrivener Evst. 227.

Dating

Hand C variously dated to 6th–7th (Swete; Rahlfs), 10th (Høeg and Zuntz) and 7th–8th (Engberg) centuries. Style of Hand D consistent with 11th–12th centuries. Style of Hand A consistent with mid-11th to early 12th century. Style of Hand B consistent with 13th century. Style of Hand E consistent with 13th–14th century.

Remarks

Engberg remarks that her dating of the Prophetologion palimpsest fragment means that this text is “much older than the bulk of uncial prophetologia and maybe contemporary with the longer palimpsest fragment, MS. Laurentianus Conv. Soppr. 152 (a), also written in biblical uncial; both could well have been written in the pre-iconoclast period”. Provenance recorded by insert in Benefactors' Book (LPL MS Sion L40.2/E64, p. 289a).

By folios, top right, Arabic numerals, pencil: one folio missed after f. 129, so numbers too small by one thereafter.

At beginning of each quire, recto, bottom left, Greek numerals, mid-brown ink, often lost to trimming (possibly by Hand A); at beginning and end of each quire, at beginning recto, top right, at end verso, bottom left, Greek numerals, pale brown ink (beginning numbers 6 and 12 omitted, end numbers often lost to trimming) (by Hand U); on first four folios of each gathering, recto bottom right: quire numbers, in Greek numerals for quires 1–10, 20–21, Arabic numerals for quires 11–19, with bifolio numbers in Arabic numerals (Arabic 2 always laid on its side), and at end of each quire, recto, bottom centre, quire numbers in Greek numerals, mid-brown ink (by Hand V).

Columns & lines

Two columns: ff. 1–121, 123–126, 128–136, 138–142: 24 lines; ff. 122, 127, 137: 28–29 lines.

Ruling

ff. 1r–121v, 123r–126v, 128r–136v, 138r–142v: structure Leroy 9; layout Leroy 22C2, hardpoint (emphatic), text typically begins hanging from lines at beginning of column but often rises above them by the end; text area: 180 mm x 130 mm; interlinear distance: 7–8 mm; ff. 122r–v, 127r–v, 137r–v: none.

Script (general characteristics)

Hand A, main text: Mixed minuscule Perlschrift, slanted slightly to the right, with limited expansion of letters, flourishes on bottom line and occasionally at line ends, superscript word endings rare, at line ends only. Hand A, rubric: Alexandrine majuscule. Hand B: Rather informal mixed minuscule with variable slant, moderate expansion of letters, tendency to horizontal stretching of letters, superscript word endings at line ends only.

f. 127v (Hand B)

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A: All minuscule forms present; mu, nu, upsilon, psi always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: majuscule delta with ascender horizontal; majuscule epsilon, theta with bar on central stroke; wide theta; chi with short descenders; distinctive ligatures: alpha-tau, alpha-upsilon-tau with vertical of tau continuing end of previous letter, but added in separate movement; large epsilon-xi with half-epsilon forming upper curve of minuscule xi. Hand B: zeta, kappa, lambda, xi, psi, omega always majuscule; alpha, delta, mu, nu, upsilon always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: majuscule epsilon, eta, psi with bar on central stroke; majuscule epsilon with extended central stroke; majuscule lambda without ascender; minuscule pi with merged cells.

Diacritics & punctuation

Hand A: Breathings angular, half-angular and round; mute iota absent; use of double dot functional only; use of middle and upper point, middle comma and full stop; chevron and s-shaped quotation marks; double grave present on δὲ, μὲν, μή. Hand B: Breathings round; circumflexes joined to abbreviations (ὦν); mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota; use of middle and upper point, lower and middle comma and full stop; double grave present on δὲ.

Abbreviations

Hand A: Nomina sacra (accents absent on non-enclitics up to three letters long, otherwise separate from strokes); καί; syllabic (usually at line ends only); horizontal stroke for nu; Hand B: Nomina sacra (accents sometimes separate from strokes, sometimes joined); καί, κατά; syllabic (throughout line); suspensions.

Apparatus

Rubricated headings for lections; rubricated ekphonic musical notation (missing f. 75r, col. 1, line 3–f. 77v, f. 80v, col. 2, line 20–f. 81v, col. 1, line 5, f. 81v, col. 1, line 9–f. 82r, col. 2, line 11, f. 82v, col. 2, line 9–f. 84r, col. 2, line 16, very basic notation added later in pale red ink f. 75r, col. 1, line–f. 76r); notes of additional lections; later echos and eothinon numbers ff. 29r–69v.

Ink

Hand A: mid-brown and bright red; Hand B: pale brown; Hand C: mid-brown; Hand D: pale red; Hand E: dark brown; Hand F: mid-brown; Hand G: black; Hand H: black; Hand I: variable brown; Hand J: dark brown; Hand K: black; Hand L: black; Hand M: black; Hand N: dark brown; Hand O: mid-brown; Hand P: dark brown; Hand Q: dark brown; Hand R: mid-brown; Hand S: dark brown; Hand T: pale brown; Hand U: pale brown; Hand V: mid-brown; Edward Payne: black; Hand X: mid-brown; Hand Y: black; Hand Z: purple; Hand AA: pencil; Hand AB: pencil; Hand AC: mauve.

Ornament

Headpieces precede weeks of Luke and of Mark, months October-March, June-August ff. 44v, 65r, 119v, 123v-124r, 130r, 134r, 136r, 138v, 141v (those preceding John, Matthew, April, May lost due to removal of folios, September due to loss of part of f. 113 (traces of lost decoration printed onto f. 27v)). Rectangular blocks with decorated corners ff. 44v, 65r, 119v, 123v-124r, 130r, 134r (ff. 44v, 65r, 124r, 130r, 134r divided into five squares, these alternately containing speckles or quartered with space fillers, f. 119v containing rinceau, 123v containing plait). Belts of vegetative ornament ff. 136r, 138v. All of the above in gold, red, blue and white paint, f. 141v thin bands of red paint with blue and gold speckles. Rubricated initials to lections ff. 1-121, 123-126, 138-142, with decoration (ff. 54v, 65r, 113r, 128v also with white and blue paint in-fill). Rubricated minor initials ff. 1-121, 123-126, 138-142. Rubricated initial to lection f. 127v, with scrolling decoration. Epigraphic majuscule heading to first lection of weeks of Luke f. 44v.

Illustration

Outline drawings of face, human figures, arm holding streamer etc. f. 138v.

Text leaves

ff. 1-121, 123-126, 138-142: medium-thickness parchment, off-white colour; skins arranged with hair-side facing hair-side throughout; ff. 122, 127, 137: paper with hat watermark roughly comparable to Harlfinger Chapeau 52, 66, 73 (dated 1520-1).

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(f. 57) 261 x 195.

Text leaf condition

First quire missing; folios missing after ff. 26, 72, 141; ff. 39-40 excised from after f. 32 and erroneously bound in after f. 38; ff. 122, 127, 137 replace lost folios. Cockling and pleating appear throughout text-block. Dirt and grime in the marginal area of the gatherings throughout, occasional tears and losses especially in the first quarter of the text-block. Water damage to the last quarter of the text-block and drops of candle wax on the surface of occasional leaves. Substantial cuts/tears to edges of ff. 7, 113, 128-129A, 134-135, 141-142, with some loss of text, smaller to ff. 1, 82, 87, 88, 90, 102. Small holes in ff. 68, 73, 99, 142. Cuts along ruling ff. 50, 54. Folios excised at time of production after ff. 75, 86, 91, 102, 107.

Old repairs

Occasional leaves were repaired with plain paper (ff. 114–140), with parchment manuscript waste (ff. 1, 102, 104–113), and with sewing thread (f. 76) before the book was sewn; repair patches to ff. 1, 64, 102, 104–107, 109–110, 112, 128 carry minuscule text in various hands; traces of former patches to ff. 120–121. Corner of ff. 1–64 irregularly cut away, on many of these folios are traces of former patches to this area, leaving residue of minuscule text.

Binding description

English late 18th-century inboard binding, tight back, covered in full sprinkled tanned calf with raised supports, not contemporary with the text.

Binding dimensions (mm)

270 x 209 x 68.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same. A sewn single fold of marbled paper followed by a separately sewn, single fold of medium-thickness, light blue handmade laid paper. The inner marbled leaf is made to the outer light blue leaf and the outermost marbled leaf is pasted to the board.

Endleaf condition

Stains and discolourations in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block has been re sewn and there is evidence of four V-nicks in the spine-folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 40, 95, 165, 225 mm from the head of the text-block. It is now sewn all-along on five single, raised, cord supports, with a medium-thickness, single, S-ply, loose-twist, natural-colour thread, using seven pierced-hole stations at 18 (head kettle), 45, 90, 130, 170, 200, 235 mm (tail kettle) from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The current structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Boards and board attachment

5 mm couched-laminate rope-fibre millboards cut to give squares at head, tail and fore-edge. The support slips appear to have been laced through the boards.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear worn and stained with dirt.

Endbands

Single-core endbands across the width of the spine, sewn in pink and white silk with a front bead over a rolled paper core.

Endband condition

The headband is sound with stains and accumulations of dirt. The tailband is slightly loose and a few tie-downs are pulled out.

Covering

The binding is covered in full, mid-brown, sprinkled, tanned calfskin with a tight back, and the turn-ins left untrimmed and irregular in size and shape, with lapped corners.

Covering (existing repairs)

Spine leather was treated with a consolidant during repairs to the binding in 1993.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions, lacerations, stains and small missing areas in the covering material of the boards. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached. The skin has also developed a blackened surface in some areas.

Tooling

There is a gold-tooled roll around the edges of the boards. The six panels on the spine have gold-tooled double lines at head and tail, and a gold-tooled red leather title label in panel 2.

Script (general characteristics)

Hand A: Elegant calligraphic mixed minuscule, upright, with some expansion of letters, flourished tails in bottom row and some slight flourishes at line ends, superscript word endings at line ends only. Hand B: Fairly regular mixed minuscule, upright, with common superscript word endings.

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A: All minuscule forms present; xi, upsilon always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: majuscule alpha with elongated diagonal; majuscule delta with thin loop at bottom left; large majuscule epsilon with slight upward curve in central stroke; minuscule alpha with narrow join between loop and upright, tail curving back below letter; distinctive ligatures: theta-eta ligatures with theta as loop on line rising from link of preceding letter to top of minuscule eta; upsilon-psi with curve of upsilon cutting through horizontal of psi to join vertical at top; mu-alpha-iota with alpha above mu, both joined to iota; epsilon-chi with half-epsilon incorporated into first curve of chi; delta-epsilon-lambda, sigma-epsilon-lambda, sigma-epsilon-rho etc. with first letter shaped for ligature but link left unattached below half-epsilon joined to following letter. Hand B: beta, epsilon, eta, kappa, lambda, xi always majuscule; alpha, delta, mu, nu, sigma, upsilon, psi always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: minuscule sigma in shape of truncated omicron-upsilon ligature.

Diacritics & punctuation

Hand A: Breathings angular, half-angular and round; mute iota usually absent, occasionally adscript; use of double dot functional only; use of lower, middle and upper point, lower comma, question mark and full stop; chevron quotation mark; double grave present on ἄν, δέ, ἐπᾶν, μέν, μῆ, ναί. Hand B: Breathings round; mute iota absent; decorative use of double dot on iota; use of lower, middle and upper point and full stop.

Abbreviations

Hand A: Nomina sacra (accents absent or separate from strokes, regardless of length); δέ, καί; syllabic (throughout line); horizontal stroke for nu. Hand B: Nomina sacra (accents separate from strokes, regardless of length); καί, μάγισ, μετά, περί; syllabic (throughout line); suspensions.

Apparatus

Gold marginal chapter headings; gold marginal chapter numbers; gold bars above punctuation marks indicate beginning of chapters; later rubricated heading to contents list f. 40r; later rubricated marginal Ammonian section numbers; later rubricated marginal lections, sometimes with incipits; later rubricated interlinear or marginal marks of start and end of lections; later rubricated chapter numbers in contents lists; marginal modern chapter numbers in Latin script and Arabic numerals.

Ink

Hand A: mid-brown; Hand B: mid-brown, bright red; Hand C: grey-brown; Hand D: black; Hand E: black; Hand F: black; Hand G: dark brown; Hand H: red; Edward Payne: black; Hand J: mid-brown; Hand K: dark brown; Hand L: mid-brown; Hand M: dark brown; Hand N: pencil; Hand O: pencil; Hand P: pencil; W. I. Foxen: black.

Ornament

Ornate minor initials of very high quality in gold with scrolling decoration. Chapter headings, chapter numbers, punctuation, some double grave accents in gold. Small, simple rubricated initials to items in contents lists. Outlines of ornate gold major initials and headings to gospels printed across from facing page onto ff. 40v, 76v, 137v. From f. 138r onwards the quality of the gold decoration is markedly lower and visibly placed on top of an initial layer in red ink, indicating a less skilled craftsman at work.

Illustration

Faded remnants of upper edge of Evangelist miniatures printed across from facing pages onto ff. 40v, 76v, 137v.

Text leaves

Medium-thickness parchment, off-white colour; skins arranged with hair-side facing hair-side throughout.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(f. 3) 281 x 214.

Text leaf condition

First two quires missing; single folios missing after ff. 17, 37, 40, 73, 74, 76, 85, 137 (those after ff. 17, 37 noted by inserts); consistency of loss of first folio of each Gospel suggests that these highly decorated folios were removed deliberately. ff. 1, 8, 10, 15, 20, 34, 73, 75, 76, 93, 101, 134, 150, 153, 154, 155 loose. Losses to ff. 119, 120. Severe damage to upper quarter of codex throughout; detached upper parts of some folios stuck to some surviving folios; loose fragments of upper parts of some folios. Cockling appears throughout text-block. Water stains, discolourations and limited mould activity in the marginal area of the gatherings; fading of text, sometimes to illegibility, in upper part of surviving portion of folios. Occasional blocking and skinning. Folios excised at time of production after ff. 77, 79, 82, 85, 142.

Old repairs

Occasional overcasting to the spine-folds and sewn leaf repairs to the margins.

Binding description

Sewn sections of parchment leaves, part of a bound volume whose outer part has been removed.

Binding dimensions (mm)

287 x 219 x 58.

Sewing

The text-block is sewn with an unsupported structure and executed in a double sequence with a single, thick, Z-twist, natural-colour, triple thread (consists of three S-twist threads plied together into a single Z-ply thick thread), using four V-nicks in the spine-folds at 25, 95, 167, 237 mm from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is broken down and the gatherings are loose.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut and undecorated with occasional loss of text.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear rounded and worn and the head-edge heavily ragged.

Provenance

Donated to the Monastery of the Panagia, Zvërnec (Albania) by Kyr Lanthas from Avlona (Vlorë). Acquired by Thomas Payne, Anglican chaplain in Constantinople 1718–36, 1744–5 and sent to his nephew, inherited by the latter's son Edward Payne, who donated it to Sion College 1777.

Textual tradition

Gregory-Aland 559; Soden ε139 (K^x); Scrivener 518.

Dating

Style of Hand A consistent with first half of 12th century. Style of Hand B consistent with 14th or 15th century. Style of Hands C–G consistent with 15th–16th century. Since a note by Hand F on f. 137v runs over the frayed edge of the folio onto f. 135v behind, this hand worked after the deterioration of the manuscript.

Remarks

Accompanied by conservator's note (number of folios erroneously stated to be 153), and by nineteen sheets recording variant readings in hand of W. I. Foxen. Provenance recorded by insert in Benefactors' Book (LPL MS Sion L40.2/E64, p. 289a).

Hand A, mixed minuscule: All minuscule letter forms present; gamma, nu, xi, psi always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: minuscule alpha with pronounced final ascender at line ends; majuscule epsilon, theta with bar on central stroke; angular minuscule zeta; tilted, angular minuscule nu; clubs on iota, nu, majuscule pi, tau; hooks on iota, mu, nu, rho; distinctive ligatures: ligatures with horizontal of preceding letter curving down to join alpha from below on right of loop; occasional epsilon-iota with elongated diagonal; eta-rho-xi with rho reduced to vestigial vertical. Hand A, Alexandrine majuscule: Distinctive letter forms: epsilon with central stroke separate from curve; epsilon, theta with bar on central stroke; rho, iota with elongated descenders, often turning to the left at foot; kappa with elongated ascender; distinctive ligatures: epsilon-iota with elongated diagonal.

Diacritics & punctuation

Hand A: Breathings angular, half-angular and round; circumflexes small but expanded over breathings; mute iota usually absent, occasionally adscript; double dot used functionally only; double grave present on δέ, μή; use of lower, middle and upper point, lower comma, full stop; occasional marginal ε-shaped quotation mark.

Abbreviations

Hand A, mixed minuscule: Nomina sacra (accents absent or separate from strokes); καί; syllabic (rare, at line ends only); horizontal stroke for nu. Hand A, Alexandrine majuscule: also κατά, λόγος, μάργς, μέγας, ὁσιος, προφήτης; syllabic (through-out line); suspensions.

Apparatus

Rubricated headings for lections; rubricated ekphonic musical notation; ff. 48r–94r: notes of eothinon and echos numbers in two later hands; ff. 135v–148v: headings for lections of Holy Week in later hand; chapter and verse numbers for start of lections identified by modern hand in Latin script, Roman and Arabic numerals.

Ink

Hand A: mid-brown, red; Hand B: pale brown; Hand C: black; Hand D: black; Hand E: mid-brown; Hand F: black; Hand G: dark red; Hand H: black; Hand I: dark red; Hand J: pale brown; Hand K: pale brown; Hand L: pale brown; Hand M: mid-brown; Hand N: pale brown; Hand O: mid-brown; Hand P: black; Hand Q: dark brown; Hand R: mid-brown; Hand S: mid-brown; Zanis: mid-brown; Germanos, priest: black; Hand V: black; Hand W: mid-brown; Hand X: black; Hand Y: black; Hand Z: purple; Hand AA: pencil; Hand AB: pencil.

Ornament

Rubricated headpieces for start of weeks of John f. 1r, lection of the Passion 126r; simple horizontal bands in red and/or brown ink for start of weeks of Luke f. 70r, lection of the Passion f. 125v, lections of the hours f. 149r, start of months ff. 172r, 182r, 187v, 188v, 199v, 207v, 210v, 213v, 215r, 217r. Rubricated major initials with decoration for start of lections. Rubricated minor initials.

Text leaves

Medium-thickness parchment, off-white colour; skins arranged with hair-side facing hair-side throughout.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(f. 40) 250 x 207.

Text leaf condition

One folio missing after f. 84, at least one folio missing after f. 215. Cockling appears throughout text-block and especially in the last gatherings. Occasional drops of candle wax, stains, grime, and discolourations on the surface of the leaves. Cuts/tears to ff. 37, 48, 49, 63, 69, 70, 73, 77, 82, 95, 117–118, 148, 150, 163, 171, 190–191, 200–201, 203, 211, 217; irregular trimming to foot ff. 96, 99. Some loss of marginal text due to heavy trimming. Folios excised at time of production after ff. 21, 92, 112, 115, 213.

Old repairs

Overcasting f. 41; plain parchment repairs to ff. 190, 201; repairs with sewing thread to ff. 74, 100. According to the conservation report, detached back sections and loose leaves ff. 17, 72, 82 were secured with toned handmade paper in 1994.

Binding description

Greek-style binding covered in tanned skin with an added calfskin cover of Western European design tooled in blind. Two-sheet metal plates fastenings have been attached to the boards at a later stage.

Binding dimensions (mm)

269 x 218 x 98.

Left endleaves

A narrow, handmade paper joint with one stub adhered to the board and the other to the first leaf of the text-block. The current separate pastedown consists of pieced handmade papers, irregular in both size and shape.

Right endleaves

A single-leaf and a stub of plain white handmade paper adhered to the board. A piece of Greek manuscript waste of handmade paper, smaller in size, has been adhered on top of the pastedown.

Endleaf condition

Stains, discolourations and grime, small losses and limited insect activity.

Sewing

The text-block is resewn with an unsupported structure, sewn all-along with a triple-twisted sewing thread (consists of three Z-twist threads plied together into a single S-twist thread) of medium thickness, natural colour, using the four V-nicks in the spine-folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 45, 100, 155, 200 mm from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound. Detached sections were resewn during repairs to the binding in 1993.

Spine linings

The spine is smooth and an overall lining of one layer of natural-colour, plain woven textile covers the full length of the spine and extends onto the outside of the boards.

Spine lining condition

The lining is complete and intact on the spine and the boards.

Boards and board attachment

14 mm wooden boards, the same size as the text-block with square edges. A zig-zag arrangement of the thread is clearly visible inside the boards, but it cannot be seen whether the attachment is integral or uses a separate bridling.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been retrimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear rounded and worn and the head-edge appears to have been blackened by dirt.

Endbands

Greek-style projecting two-cores primary endbands sewn to the boards. Both cores are made from the same twisted cord and are sewn with a triple twisted natural-colour thread. There is no secondary sewing.

Endband condition

Both head- and tailbands are sound and securely attached to the book-block. Light staining and accumulation of dirt and grime.

Covering

Originally covered in full dark-brown tanned skin with turn-ins that are irregular in size and shape, subsequently re-covered with tanned calfskin. The spine is uncovered as rotten leather was removed from it during repairs.

Covering material condition

The spine has been repaired and remains uncovered. Rotten leather from the spine was removed during repairs to the binding in 1994.

Tooling

The cover is decorated with blind-tooling, using a small handle tool and fillets. The sides have three concentric, approximately rectangular frames tooled in blind with a three-line tool. The impressions are visible but the surface of the leather is damaged.

Furniture & fastenings

Originally the book had a pair of straps attached to the fore-edge of the right board that fastened onto two edge pins in the left board. Two later copper alloy fastenings have been added to the fore-edge, with hinged pin-clasps attached to hinge plates on the right board and two plate-mounted edge pins on the left board. (The binding of MS. Sion L40.2 G6 has the same design of clasp).

Furniture & fastenings condition

The holes drilled for the edge pins remain empty in the left board. The original straps, clasps and edge pins are now completely missing.

Notes & marks of ownership

Text leaves

Medium-thickness parchment, off-white colour; skins arranged with hair-side facing hair-side throughout.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(f. 92) 309 x 242.

f. 375r (Hands B, AD)

Text leaf condition

Two quires missing between f. 107 and f. 108, one between f. 227 and f. 228, two between f. 297 and f. 298 (notes of this ff. 107v, 227v, 297v); folio excised after f. 3. Cockling, stains and discolourations in the marginal area of the last gatherings. Losses to ff. 374–5; ff. 203, 313, 354, 373 closely trimmed at edges; cut across f. 375, repaired; frequent small tears to edges, more serious ff. A–B, 372, 374–377; small repaired hole through f. 5; slight insect damage to ff. A–4, 369–377. Much flaking to miniatures and painted ornament, smearing of paint. Hand A often faded and overwritten by Hand E.

Old repairs

Some torn leaves repaired with Japanese paper. Sewn repairs ff. 25, 55, 63, 64, 89.

Binding description

Rebound by Christopher Clarkson in 1997 in the Greek style with unsupported sewing, beechwood boards, projecting endbands and quarter spine of red tanned goatskin. It has new parchment endleaves and leather joints.

Binding dimensions (mm)

340 x 281 x 127.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been re-trimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear rounded. The head-edge appears to have been lightly blackened by dirt.

Colophon(s)

f. 373v: partially erased heading to Paschal cycles, recording their commissioning by the imperial grammatikos Michael Kynthites>: “+ Σὺν Θ(ε)ῶ ἀγίῳ τῶ ἐν Τρι-

Provenance

Acquired by Paul Pindar, English consul in Aleppo 1609–11, ambassador to Constantinople 1611–20 and donated by him to Sion College 1629.

Dating

Style of Hand A suggests mid 11th-early 12th century. Role of Hand B in the decorative scheme indicates that this hand worked as part of the original production, contemporaneously with Hand A. Start date of Paschal cycles indicates Hand C worked between Easter (6 April) 1203 and Easter (25 April) 1204.

Remarks

All total folio counts postdate the loss of all currently missing quires. Missing items

Script (general characteristics)

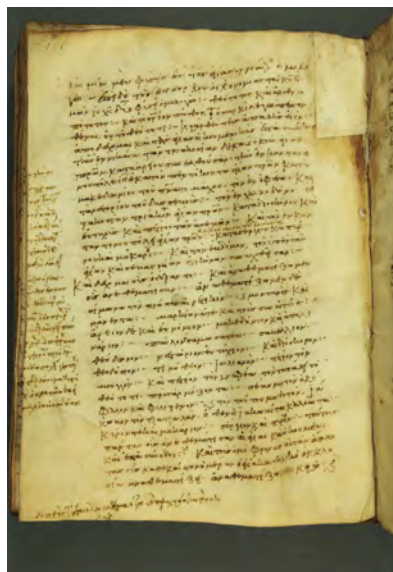

Hand A, main text: Large, ornate calligraphic mixed minuscule, slanted slightly to the right, with considerable expansion of letters and extravagant flourished tails on bottom line (sometimes decorated with x-marks or trefoil terminals), many elaborate ligatures, deletions by erasure. Hand A, headings: Alexandrine majuscule. Hand B: Mixed minuscule, slanted slightly to the right, with little expansion of letters. Hand C, main text: Fairly regular mixed minuscule, slanted slightly to the right, with moderate expansion of letters. Hand C, heading: Alexandrine majuscule. Hand D: Small mixed minuscule, slanted slightly to the right, with very frequent abbreviations, little expansion of letters, flourished tails in bottom line, deletions by expunction through line of dots above word or dot circle. Hand E, main text: Very regular mixed minuscule Perlschrift without significant expansion of letters. Hand E, headings: Alexandrine majuscule. Hand F: Regular upright mixed minuscule with moderate expansion of letters, dramatically flourished acute accents, horizontal tails on alpha at end of line and diagonal stroke of tau at start of line.

p. 275 (Hand E)

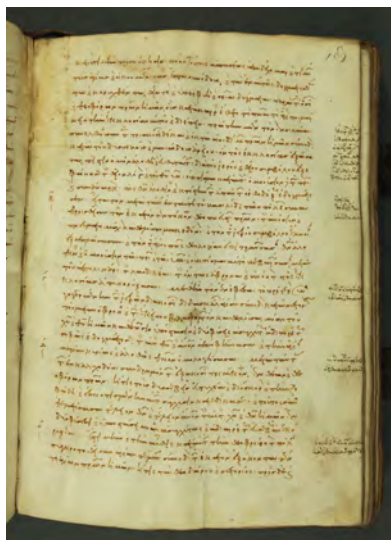

Script (letters & ligatures)

Hand A, mixed minuscule: All minuscule forms present; delta, xi, upsilon, psi always minuscule; gamma, nu, usually minuscule; distinctive letter forms: large majuscule kappa with separate vertical, upper diagonal often continued below join with lower; occasional kappa, lambda, delta, mu with down-right diagonal turning into long angular loop below left; large angular minuscule nu; majuscule omega formed with small loop at junction of curves; minuscule omega with incomplete division between cells; flourished iota in bottom row with very long extension into lower margin and long, sharply-rising hook; majuscule epsilon without central stroke, often superscript; minuscule epsilon with horizontal emerging some distance above loop; majuscule epsilon, phi with cross on central stroke; mu starting with tail with leaf terminal at start of lines; distinctive ligatures: epsilon ligatures joined to following letter at the top with incomplete loop below; gamma-iota with gamma formed of vertical and diagonal joined to top of tall iota; gamma-chi with gamma formed of vertical and diagonal crossed by another diagonal; omega-nu joined by tail descending

p. 166 (Hands C, H)

from centre of omega, to large angular nu; tau-omega-nu similar, with tail from tau joining centre of omega; kappa-omega and kappa-alpha joined by tail linking to centre of following letter; mu-epsilon-nu with small, downward-slanted split epsilon; alpha-xi with alpha formed of only loop and ascender from the right; alpha-phi and epsilon-phi with diagonal of majuscule alpha, horizontal of minuscule epsilon forming start of open loop of phi; sigma-chi-omicron with two small loops at top of chi strokes; theta-epsilon-xi with minuscule theta sloping down-left, lower left absent, unjoined epsilon formed of single stroke joined to top of xi. Hand B: beta, kappa, lambda always majuscule; only other majuscule forms present alpha, delta, pi, sigma, omega. Hand C, mixed minuscule: lambda always majuscule; only other majuscule forms present alpha, epsilon, eta, kappa, mu, pi; distinctive ligatures: gamma-nu with gamma formed of vertical turning to near-horizontal to join nu; epsilon-chi joined at top above incomplete loop of epsilon; psi-alpha with undulating curve of psi joining alpha from below. Hand D: beta always majuscule; upsilon, omega always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: majuscule epsilon without central stroke, small and superscript or large and wrapped around following letter; phi with long curved tail; distinctive ligatures: iota-alpha with long iota curving to join alpha from below; epsilon-nu with separate vestigial lower curve below half-epsilon; epsilon-tau with horizontal of tau split from vertical; ligatures with large half-epsilon or split epsilon. Hand E, mixed minuscule: All minuscule forms present; alpha, gamma, zeta, mu, nu, upsilon, psi, omega always minuscule; distinctive ligatures: double lambda with right-hand horizontal of first minuscule lambda converted into diagonal joining second at base. Hand F: All minuscule forms present; beta, upsilon always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: minuscule alpha with elongated horizontal joining to following letter; minuscule gamma with loop at foot; theta with blob on central horizontal; majuscule lambda tilted anti-clockwise at start of line; minuscule nu with flourished tail bent to the left at start of line; curvaceous kinked minuscule nu; arrow-shaped tau with two diagonal strokes in place of horizontal, left-hand stroke dramatically elongated at start of lines; tau, theta, pi, minuscule psi, majuscule delta with downward club serif just short of end of left horizontal.

Ornament

Horizontal bands of simple pen ornament between works and sections: s-curves with space fillers alternating with pairs of vertical lines, with leaf terminals, in brown ink pp. 12, 19, 20, 22, 27, 77, 91, 94, 128, 129, 157, rubricated p. 144, s-curves with space fillers alternating with rows of s-shapes, with leaf terminal, in brown ink pp. 9, 135. Simple pen rosettes accompany headings pp. 48, 156. Thin horizontal bands of solid purple ink between works pp. 233, 259, 260, 275. Rubricated major initials pp. 233, 275. Frequent rubricated minor initials pp. 233–264, 269–276. Simple ornamented initials with a tail extending left from the base with leaf terminal, in brown ink pp. 82, 82, 91, 129, rubricated p. 151. Frequent minor initials in enlarged normal script, including mu pp. 1–161. Space consistently left for initials on pp. 265–268, 281–292 but rubric never added.

Text leaves

Medium-thickness parchment, off-white colour; skins arranged with hair-side facing hair-side throughout.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(p. 40) 320 x 236.

Text leaf condition

Cockling appears throughout text-block. Stains, grime, and discolourations to the surface of the leaves. Some loss of marginal text due to heavy trimming. Small losses or tears to pp. 1–16, 47–8, 71–72, 77–80, 87–88, 91–92, 99–100, 150–151, 261–2, 291–292; irregular trimming pp. 281–292; limited insect activity. Folios excised at time of production after pp. 12, 34, 44, 76, 78, 82, 92, 100, 106.

Old repairs

Occasional plain paper and parchment repairs on the spine-folds of the leaves throughout the text-block. The first folio has been lined with silk on the verso. According to conservation report, the text-block was dry cleaned with soft erasers in 1994.

Binding description

Greek-style binding covered in tanned skin and tooled in blind, repaired. Two-sheet metal plate fastenings have been attached to the boards at a later stage. Repairs to the binding during conservation work in 1994.

Binding dimensions (mm)

330 x 248 x 77.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same. A separate leaf of an off-white, medium-thickness wove paper was added and tipped on top of the outermost text leaf at each end as a separate free endleaf. A separate single leaf hook of the same paper was adhered to each board as a pastedown and the hook was tipped to the first and last free endleaf at each end.

Endleaf condition

Staining, discolourations, grime, small losses, and limited insect activity in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block is resewn with an unsupported structure, sewn all-along with a single S-twist thread of medium thickness, natural colour, using the four V-nicks in the spine-folds from an earlier unsupported sewing at 50, 135, 210, 265 mm from the head of the text-block. Detached sections were resewn with thin linen thread during repairs to the binding in 1994.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure has broken at the left end (pp. 16–17, 24–25) while the joint area remains intact.

Spine linings

The spine has been repaired. An overall lining of one layer of natural-colour, plain woven textile appears to cover the full length of the spine and extends onto the outside of the boards.

Spine lining condition

The lining is complete and intact on the spine and the boards.

Boards and board attachment

14 mm wooden boards, the same size as the text-block with square edges. It is not clear whether the attachment is integral with the sewing or is made by separate bridling.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been retrimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear worn and have been blackened by dirt.

Endbands

Greek-style projecting two-cores primary endbands sewn to the boards. Both cores are made from tanned skin and are sewn with a plain, natural-colour thread. There is no secondary sewing.

Endband condition

Both head- and tailbands are securely attached to the book-block but some parts of the cores are released. Light staining and accumulation of dirt and grime.

Covering

Full cover of mid-brown tanned goatskin. The turn-ins are untrimmed, irregular in size and shape and the corners have open-mitres.

Covering (existing repairs)

Repairs to the covering with alum-tawed calf during conservation work in 1994.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions, staining embrittled areas, small tears and losses in the covering material especially along the spine. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached to the boards.

Tooling

The cover has a blind-tooled decoration with small hand tools and fillets. The sides have a concentric, approximately rectangular frame tooled in blind with a small hand tool, containing a five-line saltire cross and is filled with the impressions of three small hand tools. The impressions are visible but the surface of the leather is damaged.

Furniture & fastenings

Two later copper alloy fastenings have been added to the fore-edge, with hinged pin-clasps attached to hinge plates on the right board and two plate-mounted edge pins on the left board. (The binding of MS. Sion L40.2 G4 has the same design of clasp.)

Provenance

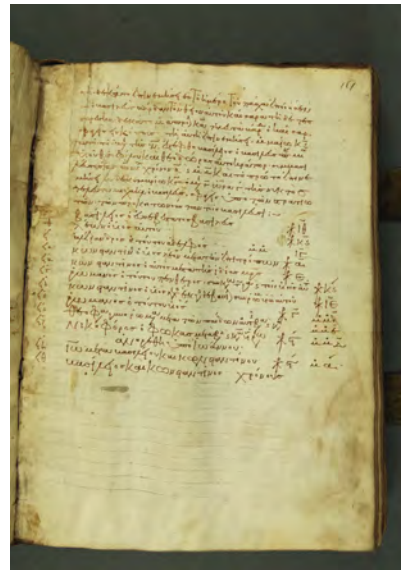

Acquired by Paul Pindar, English consul in Aleppo 1609–11, ambassador to Constantinople 1611–20 and donated by him to Sion College 1629.

Textual tradition

Text of John of Damascus, De Haeresibus, identified by Kotter as belonging to the Γ branch of the tradition, related to MSS. Vindobonensis hist. gr. 56 and Bodleianus Barrocc. 185, and sharing distinctive features with MS. Ambrosianus 1041. Text of John of Damascus, Expositio fidei, corresponds to the form characterised by Kotter as the expositio ordinata, and as related to MSS. Cesena, Malatest. Pian. 3. 190, Parisinus gr. 1105, and Vaticanus Barb. gr. 434.

Dating

Paschal cycles by Hand A (pp. 162–163) begin 1014, suggesting that this scribe finished work between Easter (5 April) 1013 and Easter (25 April) 1014; the inclusion in the continuation of Photios, Historica synopsis of the reign of Basil II with Constantine VIII after the death of John I Tzimiskes also indicates that Hand A worked between January 976 and December 1025; style of script is consistent with this dating. Hands B and C occupy the last few folios of the last gathering used by Hand A, indicating they were added later; style of script is consistent with 11th or early 12th century. Style of Hand D consistent with mid-11th-early 12th century. Hands E and F worked after the issuing of the tome of Sisinnios II in February 997; style of Hand E suggests first half of 11th century. Hand F includes two bifolios wrapped around two of Hand E, probably to replace missing leaves; style of Hand F consistent with 13th century. The change in ruling style and number of lines, and the extra lines of text squeezed in at the end of p. 280 suggest pp. 281–292 added later, though apparently also by Hand F.

p. 161 (Hand A)

Remarks

Probably a composite MS made up of three portions, pp. 1–168, pp. 169–232 and pp. 233–292 (the presence of a half-length quire, pp. 161–168, suggests that this came at the end of a codex; quire numbers on pp. 265, 280, 281 are inconsistent with those on pp. 1, 65, indicating either loss of material or that these sections originally belonged to separate codices (no quire numbers appear on pp. 169–232); the later dating of Hand D as compared with Hands A and E suggests that pp. 169–232 were added later than the production of the preceding and following portions; both hand and ruling style change at these points, and correspond with the transition between quires). pp. 265–268, 277–280 appear to be a later addition inserted around pp. 269–276; pp. 265–268, 281–292 were probably added to these still later. Accompanied by conservator's note of James Cassels, April 1994 and by an offprint of Aubineau, 'Un recueil "De Haeresibus"'. Donation to Sion College recorded in Benefactors' Book (LPL MS. Sion L40.2/E64, p. 2).

f. 225v (Petros, Hand E)

f. 171v (Petros, Hand E)

Script (general characteristics)

Petros, main text: Elegant mixed minuscule Perlschrift, upright with limited expansion of letters, flourished tails at line ends and (on phi, sigma-theta, majuscule kappa, majuscule nu) in bottom row, sometimes decorated with leaf terminals and chevron space fillers, superscript word endings rare, at line ends only, deletions by erasure. Petros, headings and scholia: Alexandrine majuscule. Petros, f. 1v, heading f. 2r: epigraphic majuscule.

Script (letters & ligatures)

Petros, mixed minuscule: All minuscule forms present; beta, mu, xi, upsilon, psi, omega always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: minuscule alpha with tail curving back below loop; majuscule alpha with long diagonal and hook at top, small angular loop; minuscule zeta and xi quite angular, sometimes with small loop at meeting of the curves; minuscule nu tilted to the right; tau with vertical split into two lines; hooks on iota, nu, majuscule pi, rho, tau; distinctive ligatures: epsilon-iota with central bar of majuscule epsilon turning to rise vertically then turning to descend as long iota; phi-alpha with tail of phi turning sharply up to join alpha from below; ligatures with large half-epsilon in main line of text; alpha-zeta, alpha-eta with alpha formed as loop from tail below, with tail above joining majuscule zeta or minuscule eta at top; angular upsilon-nu; upsilon-psi with ascender from upsilon cutting through horizontal of minuscule psi to join vertical at the top; sigma-theta in bottom line with bottom cell of theta open, forming flourished and often decorated tail; split omicron-upsilon.

Diacritics & punctuation

Petros, mixed minuscule: Breathings usually half-angular or round, occasionally angular in main text; circumflexes very small but occasionally very wide over breathings; mute iota adscript (later erased); use of double dot functional only; use of lower, middle and upper point, lower comma, question mark and full stop; double chevron and tilde with two dots quotation marks; double grave present on δέ, μέν; occasional use of hyphen to merge words; flourished comma on bottom row (e.g. f. 54r). Petros, Alexandrine majuscule: Breathings angular and round in contents and headings, angular on initials. Petros, epigraphic majuscule: Breathings angular.

f. 81v (Petros)

Abbreviations

Petros: Nomina sacra (accents absent on non-enclitics up to 3 letters long, otherwise separate from strokes); καί, μάρτυς, προφήτης, φασί; syllabic (rare); horizontal stroke for nu; suspensions.

Apparatus

Gold headings to contents list and orations; number above start of each oration corresponding to contents list; ff. 7v, 8r, 13r, 33r, 47v, 76v, 81v, 185v, 214r, 219v, 269v: marginal Ἡλῖος/Χρυσός marks, some gold; ff. 34v, 35v, 56v, 68v, 151v, 202r, 204r, 230v, 240v, 243v, 265v, 267r, 283v, 289r, 291r, 305v: marginal gold Σημ(εῖωσαι) marks; ff. 72r, 240v, 243v, 264v, 267r, 282v, 298v: marginal gold ὠρ(ισται) marks (for the above, see Somers, Collections Complètes, pp. 101–121); ff. 17v, 36v, 55r, 66r, 66v, 76r, 81v, 111v, 115v, 119v, 121r, 122v, 123r, 123v, 130v, 131v, 144r, 144v, 148v, 164v, 190v, 198v, 206v, 240v, 241r, 244v, 245r, 246r, 248v, 251v, 252v, 253v, 256v, 258r, 290r, 293v, 299r, 301r, 302r, 303v, 314v: brief marginal scholia in vertical gold text; f. 139r: marginal note: Στάσις Β'; ff. 42v–43v, 173v, 183r, 223r–224r: marginal section numbers; note at start of each oration of number of folios it fills (in later hands); ff. 11r, 57v, 58v, 59r, 133v, 170v, 204r, 244v, 250v, 252r, 285v, 314v: brief marginal scholia and correction (in later hands); f. 2r–v: notes to contents list by Robert Watts identifying folios where orations begin and oration numbers in Paris edition of 1630 (2nd ed.; original publication 1609, based on ed. Jacques de Billy de Prunay (Paris 1569)).

f. 3r (Petros, Hand E)

Ornament

Pyle marking start of first oration f. 3r, containing chain of vine scroll spirals with acanthus leaves or Sasanian palmettes at the centre, in gold, red, blue, green and white paint. Gold rosettes with heading of contents list f. 2r. Gold rosettes and ἥλιος/χρυσός mark at end of contents list f. 2v. Gold letters spelling abbreviation Ι(ησοῦ)ς Χ(ριστὸς) NI KA f. 107v, with small gold rosettes and decorated circle around ἥλιος/χρυσός mark. All minor initials and original apparatus in gold, some with scrolling decoration. Headpieces marking start of orations ff. 6v, 32r, 40v, 54v, 67v, 82r, 94v, 108r, 171v, 186r, 225v, 231v, 257v, 278v, 309v, containing various combinations of vegetative forms, in gold, red, blue, green and white paint. Major initials for start of orations ff. 3r, 6v, 32r, 40v, 54v, 67v, 82r, 94v, 108r, 171v, 186r, 225v, 231v, 257v, 278v, 309v, in gold, red, blue, green and white paint. Text in epigraphic majuscule with scrolling decoration on some letters f. 1v. Horizontal band of Sasanian palmettes in gold, red, green and white paint at foot of folio f. 1v. Lines of piercing at top of folio above headpieces/pyle and major initials.

f. 107v (Petros)

Text leaves

Medium-thickness parchment, off-white colour; skins arranged with hair-side facing hair-side throughout.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(f. 10) 365 x 258.

Text leaf condition

Cockling appears throughout text-block. Occasional leaves are worn and heavily ragged (first gathering and ff. 34–143). Cuts/tears to edges of ff. 57, 186, 189, 194, 282, 322–325; edges of ff. 1, 48, 194, 234, 251, 259 closely trimmed; ff. 2–13, 42 head and fore-edge irregularly trimmed. Dirt and grime in the marginal area of the gatherings throughout text-block. Water damage and discolourations in the first gatherings. Drops of candle wax on the surface of occasional leaves.

Old repairs

Occasional leaves were repaired with Japanese tissue paper (ff. 2, 316–325) and with plain parchment (f. 4).

Binding description

English late 18th-century inboard binding, tight back, covered in blind-tooled, panelled, sprinkled, tanned calf with raised supports, not contemporary with the text.

Binding dimensions (mm)

381 x 279 x 95.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same. A sewn single fold of medium-thickness, off-white, handmade laid paper within an outside hook, the stub and the outermost full leaf pasted to the board.

Endleaf condition

Stains and discolourations in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block has been re sewn on five single raised cords and there is evidence of V-nicks in the spine-folds. Overcasting appears at 30, 75, 120, 170, 223, 278, 333 mm from the head of the text-block. Due to restricted opening it was difficult to examine the sewing pattern.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Boards and board attachment

6 mm couched-laminate rope-fibre millboards cut to give squares at head, tail and fore-edge. The support slips have been laced through the boards.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, and undecorated.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear worn and ragged. The head-edge appears to have been lightly blackened by dirt.

Endbands

Single-core endbands across the width of the spine, sewn in red and white silk thread with a front bead over a rolled paper core.

Endband condition

Both head- and tailbands are worn and damaged with cores broken across the spine, silk threads broken and tie-downs pulled out.

Covering

The binding is covered in full, mid-brown, sprinkled, tanned calfskin with a tight back, and the turn-ins left untrimmed and irregular in size and shape, with lapped corners. The outer frame and the central rectangle are sprinkled with equal density, while the inner frame is not sprinkled.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions, lacerations, stains and small missing areas in the covering material of the boards. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached. The skin has also developed a blackened surface in some areas.

Tooling

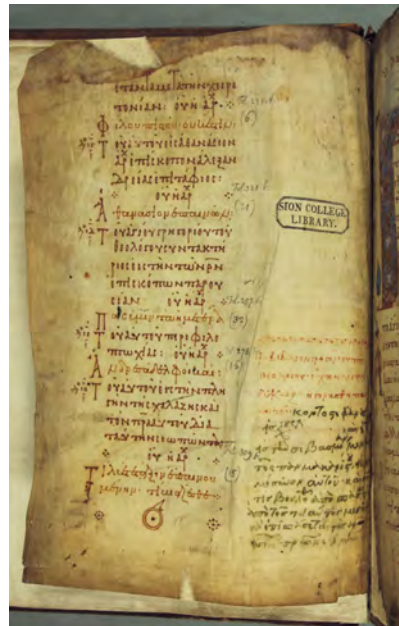

The covers are blind-tooled with narrow roll, creating a border frame and two concentric rectangular frames, all with overlapping corners, around the edges of all three rectangular panel frames on the leather. There is a gold-tooled roll around the edges of the boards. The six panels on the spine have gold-tooled double lines at head and tail, and a gold-tooled red leather title label in panel 2.

Inserts

Before <I>: pastedown note of 24 Apr 1800, identified by later hand as work of Robert Watts, librarian, identifying contents and describing collation with edition undertaken at time of rebinding for purpose of reordering misplaced folios, suggesting 11th-century date.

Other notes

<II>r: "325 folios"; <II>r: "SR"; f. 1r: "This MS appears to be of the eleventh century - see Montfaucon's Palaeogr. gr. p. 297. It is imperfect at the end - and at p. 112 a leaf is wanting. R. W. Provenance Purchased by Kontostephanos and donated by him to a Monastery of the Pammakaristos. Acquired by Paul Pindar, English consul in Aleppo 1609–11, ambassador to Constantinople 1611–20 and donated by him to Sion College 1629.

Textual tradition

Selection of orations places the MS in Somers's Class L, those containing the selection of orations read at fixed dates.

Dating

Style of script of Petros consistent with 11th century.

Remarks

Marginal ἥλιος/χρυσός marks accompany references to light or to the Trinity. Accompanied by conservator's note of James Cassels, June 1995. Donation to Sion College recorded in Benefactors' Book (LPL MS Sion L40.2/E64, p. 2).

Scribe(s)

Hand A: main text; Hand B: MS number left pastedown; Hand C: MS number left pastedown; Hand D: MS number left pastedown; Hand E: pagination.

Script (general characteristics)

17th-century Western hand.

Apparatus

Running heads for books; chapter headings.

Ink

Hand A: dark brown; Hand B: mid-brown; Hand C: black; Hand D: pencil; Hand E: pencil.

Text leaves

Medium-thickness Western handmade paper with arms of London watermark similar to Churchill 244.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(p. 8) 310 x 201.

Text leaf condition

Staining and discolourations appear throughout the text-block.

Binding description

Recycled laced-case cover of parchment over boards was taken from another book and attached to the text-block by primary tackets. There are no other connections between the text and the cover.

Binding dimensions (mm)

320 x 205 x 20.

Endleaves

Free integral endleaves formed by the outer leaves of the first and last gatherings. A separate single leaf with a folded stub of off-white, medium-thickness, handmade laid paper, both adhered to the board as a separate pastedown at each end.

Endleaf condition

Light stains and discolourations in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

Three thick gatherings with no sewing holes in the spine-folds except from the tackets. The text-block attached to the covers by primary tackets of thick S-ply, natural-colour thread, using four stations at 90, 125, 190, 220 mm from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The structure is broken in the right side and the text-block is loose.

Boards and board attachment

3mm paper boards, same size as the text-block. The cover has been taken from another book and attached to the text-block by primary tackets.

Board attachment condition

Two of the three tackets are broken.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are uncut, undecorated, and retain their deckle edges.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear worn with occasional foldings and they have been lightly blackened by dirt.

Covering

Re-used laced case cover of parchment over boards which had the parchment slips of four sewing supports laced through the joints.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions and stains in the covering material of the boards. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached.

Tooling

Both covers have blind-tooled decoration with a two-line border frame on the sides.

f. 140v (Hand G)

Text leaves

Western handmade paper with pitcher watermark comparable to Briquet 12662-12663 (dated 1538-69), medium thickness, off-white colour.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(f. 20) 93 x 67.

Text leaf condition

Stains and grime appear throughout the text-block. Water damage to occasional gatherings in the middle of the text-block. Partial loss of marginal notes due to trimming.

Binding description

German-style inboard binding, covered in tanned goatskin with metal fastenings and decorated with blind and metal-leaf tooling, possibly dating to the late 16th century, contemporary with the text.

Binding dimensions (mm)

104 x 85 x 47.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same. A single fold of an off-white, medium-thickness, handmade laid paper tipped within an outside hook of the same paper, itself tipped to the outermost text leaf at each end. The stub and the outermost full leaf at each end are pasted to the board.

Endleaf condition

Oxidation stains and discolourations from leather turn-ins in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block is sewn all-along on two raised supports but there are restrictions to the opening and the features of the sewing structure cannot be examined and identified.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Spine linings

The spine has been rounded. Due to restrictions to the opening the material and number of layers of the linings is not visible and therefore not identifiable.

Boards and board attachment

7 mm wooden boards, cut to give squares at head, tail and fore-edge. Both boards have peripheral bevels on the inner surfaces of the boards. The support slips appear to have been laced through the boards but the pastedowns obscure the exact manner in which the attachment is carried out.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated and have been retrimmed.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear stained and worn.

Endbands

Single-core endbands across the width of the spine, sewn in red and white silk thread with a front bead over a cord core, and with tie-downs in every gathering.

Endband condition

Both head- and tailbands are attached to the book-block and are lightly stained with dirt.

Covering

Full cover of brown tanned goatskin. The turn-ins are untrimmed, irregular in size and shape, and the corners have open-mitres.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions and lacerations in the covering skin. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached to the boards.

Tooling

Both covers have blind-tooled decoration with a three-line border frame on the sides and around the leather turn-ins. A large panel with birds and foliage has been blocked in metal-leaf tooling on both sides. It appears to be “Zwischgold”, a thin layer of gold over a layer of silver-leaf but only a small area of the lower part of the left side has preserved the appearance of the gold. The three panels on the spine have blind-tooled double lines at head and tail.

Furniture & fastenings

The book has a pair of tanned-skin straps with copper alloy clasps, nailed to the fore-edge of the right board, over the covering material, which fasten onto two copper alloy catch-plates in the left board.

Furniture & fastenings condition

All fastenings, straps, clasps and catch-plates are sound.

Notes & marks of ownership

Inserts

Pasted to f. 119r: fragment of printed image showing an animal.

Other notes

<IV>r: Request to one Demetrios to bring a Greek-Latin Old Testament on his return from England to the priest of the church of St Nicholas of Geros: “Κ<ύριε> Διμήτριε· καλό κατεβόδιο εἰς τὴν Ἑλλητέρα παρακαλό σε να μου φέρῃς μία παλαια ἥγουν τὴν θία γραφὴ Γκρέκο Λατήλα ἐμὲ μὲνα τοῦ παπ<ᾱ> τοῦ εφημέριου τοῦ ἀγίου Νικολάου τοῦ γέρου”; <V>r: “δοκιμιωτ”; <LXXXI>v: “τον α τον αγιον”.

Dating

Style of hands consistent with 15th–16th centuries. Watermark on paper comparable to 16th-century examples (see Text leaves).

Ornament

Headpiece to start of text f. 1r: rectangular block containing knotwork, with palmette ornament at corners, topped by quatrefoil plait, in orange ink.

Headpiece to start of day f. 160r (last of first portion of manuscript): horizontal spiked plait with demi-palmettes at corners, topped by quatrefoil plait, in orange ink.

Headpiece to start of day and second portion of manuscript f. 178r: rectangular block containing rinceau with demi-palmettes, with palmettes at corners, topped by quatrefoil plait, in orange ink.

Simple headpieces or line-fillers mark start of days ff. 20v, 31r, 40v, 51r, 57r, 69v, 80r, 81r, 99v, 113v, 127r, 138r, 142r, 161r, 186v, 196r, 209r, 211r, 217v, 226r, 241r, 249r, 250v, 257v, 263v, 265v, 286r, 292r (ff. 81r, 250v start of sub-section): horizontal bar with plait ornament, sometimes topped with simple trefoil plants, with palmette or demi-palmette ornament at terminals, or horizontal bar with splayed ends and crossbar ornament, sometimes topped with simple trefoil plants, in orange, brown or brown and orange ink. Marginal ornament marks particular sub-sections ff. 58v, 63r, 175r, 232v, 284r, 314r (f. 314r start of day): small plait with two demi-palmettes, in orange ink. Simple horizontal band marks end of the first portion of the manuscript f. 177r: alternating vertical and horizontal curved lines, in brown and red ink. Rubricated initials to sections, some large with ornate scrolling decoration.

f. 160r (Kyrillos)

Text leaves

Medium-thickness, Western laid paper, off-white colour.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(f. 13) 218 x 145.

Text leaf condition

Stains in the marginal area of the gatherings throughout, and especially in the first and last gatherings of the text-block. Small tear from edge of f. 1. Slight insect damage throughout. Slight loss of quire numbers due to trimming.

Old repairs

According to the conservation report of 1994, the text leaves were repaired with Japanese tissue paper (ff. 180, 314–321), and the last two sections were washed and re-sized.

Binding description

English late 18th-century inboard binding, tight back, covered in full sprinkled tanned calf with raised supports, not contemporary with the text.

Binding dimensions (mm)

224 x 164 x 68.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same. A sewn single fold of marbled paper followed by a separately-sewn, single fold of medium-thickness, light blue, hand-made laid paper. The inner marbled leaf is made to the outer light blue leaf and the outermost marbled leaf is pasted to the board.

Endleaf condition

Stains and discolourations in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block has been re sewn on five single raised cords and there is evidence of V-nicks in the spine-folds. Due to restricted opening it was difficult to examine the sewing pattern.

Sewing condition

The current structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Boards and board attachment

5 mm couched-laminate rope-fibre millboards cut to give squares at head, tail and fore-edge. The support slips have been laced through the boards.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear worn and lightly blackened by dirt. Traces of an earlier ink title on the tail-edge indicate how the book was shelved at the time of titling.

Endbands

Single-core endbands across the width of the spine sewn in light blue and white silk threads with a front bead over a rolled paper core.

Endband condition

Both head- and tailbands are sound but the headband has stains and accumulation of dirt.

Covering

The binding is covered in full, mid-brown, sprinkled, tanned calfskin with a tight back, and the turn-ins left untrimmed and irregular in size and shape, with lapped corners.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions, lacerations, stains and small missing areas in the covering material of the boards. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached.

Tooling

There is a gold-tooled roll around the edges of the boards. The six panels on the spine have gold-tooled double lines at head and tail and a gold-tooled red leather title label in panel 2. There is a later gold-tooled black leather shelf mark number in panel 6.

Provenance

Acquired by Thomas Payne, Anglican chaplain in Constantinople 1718–36, 1744–5 and sent to his nephew, inherited by the latter's son Edward Payne, who donated it to Sion College 1777.

Dating

Kyrillos Naupaktios active mid-16th century (other manuscripts copied by him dated 1540–1564/5 (Repertorium I, 222)).

Remarks

Concluding band of ornament and blank space f. 177r–v, ornate headpiece and fresh start to quire numbers f. 178r indicate that the MS was produced in two separate sections, ff. 1–177 and ff. 178–321. Accompanied by conservator's note of D. Shaw 1994. Provenance recorded by insert in Benefactors' Book (LPL MS Sion L40.2/E64, p. 289a).

Text leaves

Medium-thickness, Western laid paper, off-white colour, with Π-shaped watermark.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(f. 23) 217 x 142.

Text leaf condition

Folios missing after f. 17. Water staining and discolourations in the marginal area of the gatherings throughout the text-block. Top of ff. 1–2 and top outer corner of f. 144 torn away. Significant insect damage to upper part of early folios. Folios excised at time of production after ff. 3, 121.

Old repairs

According to the conservation report in 1994, text leaves were washed with warm water, previous repairs were removed, the leaves resized with animal glue, repaired with Japanese paper and laminated with Japanese tissue paper.

Binding description

English late 18th-century inboard binding, tight back, covered in full, sprinkled, tanned calf with raised supports that has been re-backed, not contemporary with the text.

Binding dimensions (mm)

231 x 158 x 46.

Endleaves

Left and right endleaf construction is the same. A sewn single fold of marbled paper followed by a separately-sewn, single fold of medium-thickness, light blue, hand-made laid paper. The inner marbled leaf is made to the outer light blue leaf and the outer marbled leaf is pasted to the board.

Endleaf condition

During repairs to the binding in 1993 a new construction was made with a marbled paper joint and a separate leaf of marbled paper adhered as a separate pastedown at each end. The free endleaves repaired with Japanese paper guards along inner spine fold and resewn with linen thread at each end.

Sewing

The text-block has been resewn on five single raised cords and there is evidence of V-nicks in the spine-folds. Due to restricted opening it was difficult to examine the sewing pattern.

Sewing condition

The current structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Boards and board attachment

5 mm couched-laminate rope-fibre millboards cut to give squares at head, tail and fore-edge. The support slips have been laced through the boards.

Board attachment condition

The support slips are broken and the covering material has split from head to tail on both joints. Both boards are now detached.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, undecorated.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear even.

Endbands

During repairs to the binding in 1993 new primary endbands were made without a bead in plain white thread over a cord core.

Covering

The binding is covered in full, mid-brown, sprinkled, tanned calfskin with a tight back, and the turn-ins left untrimmed and irregular in size and shape, with lapped corners. The spine has been rebaked with mid-brown tanned calfskin.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions, lacerations, and stains in the covering material of the boards. The skin has also developed a blackened surface in some areas. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached and the spine covering material is sound.

Tooling

There is a gold-tooled roll around the edges of the boards. The six panels on the spine have gold-tooled double lines at head and tail and a gold-tooled red leather title label in panel 2. There is a later gold-tooled black leather shelf mark number in panel 6.

Provenance

Removed from Candia when it fell to the Ottomans and taken to Constantinople by Giannakis 1669. Acquired by Thomas Payne, Anglican chaplain in Constantinople 1718–36, 1744–5 and sent to his nephew, inherited by the latter's son Edward Payne, who donated it to Sion College 1777.

Textual tradition

Text of John of Damascus, Expositio fidei described by Kotter as difficult to place in the tradition.

Dating

Style of hands consistent with 14th century.

Remarks

Accompanied by conservator's note of D. Shaw, 1994. Provenance recorded by insert in Benefactors' Book (LPL MS Sion L40.2/E64, p. 289a).

Script (general characteristics)

Nathanael: Fairly informal mixed minuscule, slanted slightly to the right, with little use of ligatures, significant expansion of letters, superscript word endings at line ends only, deletions by strikethrough. Hand B: Fairly informal mixed minuscule with considerable variation in letter size, slanted slightly to the right, common superscript word endings.

Script (letters & ligatures)

Nathanael: beta, zeta, kappa, lambda, xi, omega always majuscule; alpha, gamma, eta, mu, nu, sigma, upsilon, psi always minuscule; short eta, modern nu present; distinctive letter forms: majuscule beta with long descender, upper and sometimes lower cell open to left; majuscule delta tapering sharply to left, with long curve above; majuscule epsilon sharply tilted back; tall theta open at top; majuscule kappa with horizontal for lower diagonal, foot of vertical hooked to left; minuscule pi with merged cells; majuscule pi with uprights as converging diagonals, meeting near top; phi with angular left-hand cell open at top; chi with extended down-right diagonal. Hand B: beta, delta, epsilon, zeta, eta, kappa, lambda, pi, psi always majuscule; xi, upsilon always minuscule; distinctive letter forms: majuscule beta with slanted upright, narrow upper loop, large lower loop angled down-right; very large half-epsilon; very large, florid minuscule xi; phi with triangular main loop, elongated upper loop.

Diacritics & punctuation

Nathanael: Breathings round; mute iota absent or subscript; double dot absent; use of lower and middle point, lower comma and full stop. Hand B: Breathings round; mute iota absent or subscript; decorative use of double dot on iota and upsilon; use of middle and upper point, lower and middle comma, question mark and full stop.

Abbreviations

Nathanael: Nomina sacra (accents absent or separate from strokes, regardless of length); καί, κατά; syllabic (throughout line). Hand B: Nomina sacra (separate from strokes); γάρ, καί (including as word ending), κατά, μετά; syllabic (throughout line).

Apparatus

Rubricated headings to sections.

Ink

Nathanael: dark brown and red-orange; Hand B: black, line 15; Hand C: black; Hand D: black; Hand E: black; Hand F: red; Hand G: black; Hand H: mid-brown; Hand I: black; Hand J: black; Hand K: black; Hand L: black; Hand M: black; Hand N: pencil; Hand O: purple; Hand P: pencil; Hand Q: pencil.

Ornament

Rubricated initials to sections ff. 1r–59v, some decorated. Simple uncompleted horizontal band precedes text f. 87r: chain pattern, black ink. Initial with scrolling decoration for start of text f. 87r.

Text leaves

Medium-thickness Western handmade paper, ff. 1–86, 93 with armorial watermark topped with crown and text below.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(f. 16) 228 x 173; (f.87) 163 x 110.

Binding description

Originally 17th-century laced-case parchment with boards. Resewn and rebacked during conservation work in 1993.

Binding dimensions (mm)

234 x 180 x 35.

Endleaves

Left and right free endleaf construction is the same. A separately-sewn, double fold of uncut printed waste (Old English and Latin) of medium-thickness, handmade laid paper at each end.

Endleaf condition

Stains and discolourations in both left and right endleaves. Left and right endleaves were re sewn and the outer folds were guarded with Japanese tissue during repairs to the binding in 1993.

Sewing

Originally sewn on four recessed, alum-tawed skin sewing supports. The text-block was re sewn in 1993 all along on four recessed, single linen cords with a medium-thickness, single, S-ply, tight twist, white colour thread, using the six stations in the spine-folds from the earlier supported sewing at 12 (head kettle), 35, 90, 140, 185, 210 mm (tail kettle) from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Spine linings

The spine has been rebacked and lined with aero linen and gelatin glue with a handmade-paper hollow back during conservation work in 1993.

Boards and board attachment

3 mm pulp boards cut to give squares at head, tail and fore-edge. The new support slips were laced, frayed and pasted to the outside of the boards during conservation in 1993.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut. Traces of earlier green-blue colour on the tail-edge.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear lightly worn and the head-edge appears to have been lightly blackened by dirt.

Covering

The book is covered in full parchment and the turn-ins are cut and irregular in size and shape.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions, lacerations and stains in the covering material of the boards. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached.

Colophon(s)

f. 59v: colophon of Nathanael, dating his completion of the manuscript to 11 July 1645: “Τέλος κ(αὶ) τὸ Θ(ε)ῶ δόξα, εἴληφε τέρμα ἕως ἐδῶ τὸ παρὸν:- Ἐν ἡμέραις ἕξ τὴν κτίσιν κτίζεις Λόγε:- Οὐχ ὥς ῥυπῇ τὸν κόσμον ἀσθενῶν κτίσαι:- Ἀλλ’ἵνα ταῖς ἕξ προσστιθεῖς τὴν εὐδόμην, τὸν σαββατισμὸν· τὸν τελευταῖον μάθῃ:- 1645. Other notes

f. 91r: “Εἰς τὴν σ(ωτη)ρίαν ηγήαν κ(αὶ) ἄφεςιν τῶν α<μαρτιών> τ(ὸν) ὀσίων π(ατέρ)ων”; f. 91v: Gospel of John 10:9, twice; f. 92r: “ἀπορου πάσα γλώσσα”; f. 92v: proverb: “Τῶν μὲν εὐτυχοῦντων πάντες ἄνθρωποι φίλοι, τῶν δὲ δυστυχοῦντων οὐδ’αὐτὸς ὁ γενήτωρ”; “+ Τὸν μ(έν) εὐτυχ”; “+ Τὸν μὲν εὐτυχουτον”; “πάντες ἄν(θρωπ)οι φυλυ”; “Τριάδος ἡ φανέρωσις” (repeated five times).

Dating

Nathanael worked 1645 (ff. 1r–59v dated to 11 July 1645 by colophon on f. 59v; start date of Paschal cycles indicates ff. 60r–86r were copied between Easter (21 April) 1644 and Easter (6 April) 1645). Style of Hand B consistent with 16th–17th century.

Remarks

Wear to the edges of the small leaves ff. 87–92 suggests that they were in use as a separate booklet before being bound into this MS. Accompanied by conservator's note of James Cassels, April 1993.

Text leaves

Western handmade paper, medium thickness, off-white colour.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(pp. 1–2) 147 x 95.

Text leaf condition

The leaves of the text-block are sound. Very limited stains appear occasionally throughout the text-block.

Binding description

English early 17th-century inboard binding, tight back, covered in tanned calf with raised supports, contemporary with the text.

Binding dimensions (mm)

154 x 102 x 28.

Left endleaves

Three-fold sewn endleaves of medium-thickness, off-white handmade laid paper.
Four leaves are torn away, leaving two full leaves and four stubs.

Right endleaves

Surviving stubs only from a sewn double fold of medium-thickness, off-white handmade laid paper.

Endleaf condition

Staining, discolourations, and small losses in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block is sewn all-along on three single, raised, flat skin supports (one of tanned skin and two of alum-tawed skin) with a medium-thickness, single, S-ply, tight twist, white thread, using eight pierced-hole stations at 10 (head kettle), 22, 32, 65, 75, 112, 118, 134 mm (tail kettle) from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Spine linings

No visible spine linings.

Boards and board attachment

2 mm pulp boards cut to give squares at head, tail and fore-edge. The support slips are laced in a two-hole pattern through the boards.

Board attachment condition

The support slips are broken on the left joint.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are plain-cut, with red solid colour decoration.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear even. The head-edge appears to have been lightly blackened by dirt.

Endbands

Single-core sewn endbands across the width of the spine sewn in natural-colour thread with a front bead over a split-cane core.

Endband condition

Half of the headband is missing and the remaining part is loose. The tailband core is partially broken across the spine. Both endbands have stains and accumulation of dirt.

Covering

The book is covered in full mid-brown tanned calfskin with a tightback and the turn-ins left untrimmed and irregular in size and shape.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions and small missing areas in the covering material of the boards. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached.

Tooling

Both covers have blind-tooled decoration with a three-line border frame on the sides. The seven panels on the spine have a blind-tooled single line at head and tail. There is a gold-tooled single line around the edges of the boards and gold-tooled hatching across the caps.

p. 1 (Broughton)

Summary content

Hebrew–Greek lexicon.

Gatherings

N/A.

Detailed content

<III>r: title page and notes of ownership and donation; pp. 1–58: Greek–Hebrew lexicon by Hugh Broughton (Λέξικον ἑρὸν continens Hebraea quae N. T. donat Helade); <V>v: notes of ownership and donation.

Folio/page numbers

Written pages only: by pages, recto and verso, upper outer corner, Arabic numerals, dark brown ink.

Columns & lines

Two columns, 45–55 lines.

Ruling

None.

Scribe(s)

Hugh Broughton: pp. 1–58; John Hayne: notes <III>r, <V>v; Thomas Hayne: notes <III>r, <V>v; Hand D: MS number <III>r; Hand E: MS number left board; Hand F: MS number left board; Hand G: MS number <I>r; Hand H: MS number <I>r.

Script (general characteristics)

16th–17th-century Western hands.

Ink

Hugh Broughton: dark brown; John Hayne: dark brown; Thomas Hayne: dark brown; Hand D: dark brown; Hand E: grey-brown; Hand F: black; Hand G: pencil; Hand H: pencil.

Text leaves

Western handmade paper, medium thickness, off-white colour, with various watermarks: British royal arms, similar to Churchill 164, 213; Spanish royal arms, similar to Churchill 262; H-shaped frame with grapes and letters "RC", comparable to Churchill 525–529.

Text leaf dimensions (mm)

(pp. 1–2) 324 x 205.

Text leaf condition

Stains and grime appear throughout the text-block.

Old repairs

Occasional text leaves were repaired with heat-set tissue along the fore-edge. The left board flyleaves were secured with Japanese tissue hinges. James Cassels, 1995 (Conservator's note).

Binding description

English early 17th-century inboard binding, tight back, covered in full sprinkled tanned calf with raised supports, with no endbands, contemporary with the text. Conservation repairs in 1995.

Binding dimensions (mm)

338 x 223 x 33.

Left endleaves

A sewn endleaf hook of plain handmade paper within an outside hook, the outer stub and full leaf are not pasted to the board. They were once conjugate with either full leaves or stubs.

Right endleaves

A sewn single fold of plain handmade paper within an outside hook of two-leaf printed waste of a small quarto edition of uncut printed gathering of a Bible, and a single leaf of plain handmade paper tipped to the outer side of the stub.

Endleaf condition

Stains, discolourations and small losses in both left and right endleaves.

Sewing

The text-block is sewn all-along on five single raised, twisted alum-tawed skin supports with a medium-thickness, single, S-ply, tight twist, white thread, using seven pierced-hole stations at 30 (head kettle), 63, 106, 150, 193, 235, 269 mm (tail kettle) from the head of the text-block.

Sewing condition

The sewing structure is sound and the sewing thread is intact.

Boards and board attachment

7 mm paper pulp boards cut to give squares at head, tail and fore-edge. The support slips are laced through the boards in a two-hole lacing pattern.

Board attachment condition

The board attachment is sound.

Edges

The edges of the text leaves are uncut, undecorated, and retain their deckle edges.

Edge condition

The edges of the text-block appear worn and ragged and have been lightly blackened by dirt.

Covering

The book is covered in full mid-brown sprinkled tanned calfskin with a tightback and the turn-ins left untrimmed and irregular in size and shape.

Covering material condition

There are abrasions, lacerations, stains and small missing areas in the covering material of the boards. The turn-ins on the inside of the boards remain attached.

Tooling

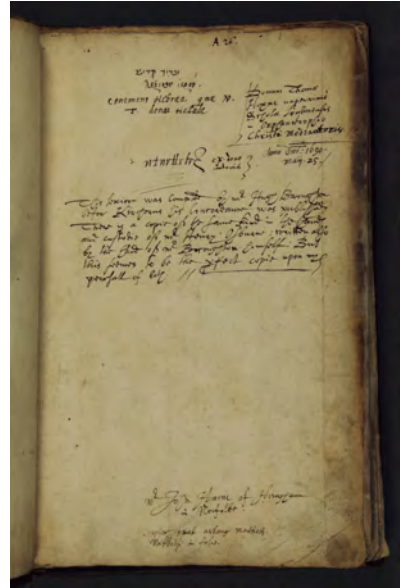

Both covers have blind-tooled decoration with a three-line border frame on each side. The six panels on the spine have blind-tooled double lines at head and tail, and there is a gold-tooled single line around the edges of the boards.

Furniture & fastenings

There is an impression of a chain shackle on the fore-edge of the left board. Two holes left from the removal of the rivets or nails on the cover and inside the turn-ins.

Colophon(s)

<III>r: "This lexicon was compiled by Mr Hugh Broughton before Kirchorus his Concordance was published. There is a copie of the same kind in the hands and custodie of Mr Henry Osburne: written also by the hand of Mr Broughton himself: But this semes to be the p(er)fect copie upon my perusall of both".

IIlr (J. Hayne)

Inserts

Four printed leaves (in pairs, uncut) of Book of Esdras bound in as right flyleaves.

Other notes

<III>r: "Sepher shal arbany Merthoth. Mitkothi in folio".

Provenance

Owned by John Hayne of Hingham, Norfolk; given by him to Thomas Hayne of Christ Church, London, schoolmaster of Christ's Hospital; given by him to Sion College 25 May 1630.

Dating

Compiled by Hugh Broughton (1549–1612), before the publication of Conrad Kircher's concordance in 1607.

Remarks

Accompanied by conservator's note of James Cassels, March 1995.
